Kidnap Motive Still Mystifying As 27 Escape

By MIKE DUNSTAN
Associated Press Writer
CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-six children and their school bus driver returned home early today, weary but unhurt, ending a bizarre and still unexplained 36-hour mass kidnaping odyssey.

Some of the children wept as their parents carried them off the Greyhound bus that returned them from Alameda County, where they had escaped from an underground cavern where three armed men wearing stocking masks had imprisoned them 24 hours earlier.

Others smiled and waved weakly to about 300 persons who greeted them at City Hall shortly before 4 a.m.

Residents of this small farming community who had waited through the night cheered, whistled and applauded as the youngsters left the bus, wrapped in blankets and wearing prison jump suits which hastily replaced their dirty clothing.

One of the abducted youngsters, Mike Marshall, 14, told reporters: "They locked us in a big pit and we had to dig our way out."

As reporters crowded around the slim youth, Lee Roy Tatum, superintendent of Dairyland School District rushed up and warned Mike not to talk.

Another boy, asked how he felt, grinned sleepily and said, "Okay."

The driver of the Greyhound chartered bus, Walter Cairala, 33, said one of the little girls had a nightmare on the three-hour trip from the Santa Rita prison farm where the youngsters were taken after their escape from a rock and gravel quarry a few miles away. The quarry is near Livermore, about 95 miles north of Chowchilla.

Meanwhile, a search was launched in the San Francisco Bay area for "three heavily armed white males," authorities said. They said the three were in two Dodge vans, one black and one white, both with citizens band radio antennas.

There was no certain word on a motive for the Thursday afternoon abduction of the children and driver as they were headed home from a summer school swimming session at the county fairgrounds near Chowchilla.

"They (the kidnapers) asked each of the children their names, ages and their parents' names. I conclude from that, and maybe you can conclude, that they were taken for ransom," Mayor Jim Dumas told a news conference after the children were home.

"The walls of the excavation (where the children were imprisoned) collapsed somewhat and they became a little frightened," Dumas added.

The mayor also said that while he was away his wife received a telephone call at his home from an unidentified woman who said, "The kids have been found, but it's not over."

He said she kept repeating "It's not over" and added, "There will be others."

Bill Auffarth, a registered nurse who accompanied the children on the chartered bus, said they told him "the men treated them decently and spoke to them nicely." He said the captors provided potato chips, soup, cereal and water for the children.

"There were two or three of the boys they were calling heroes, along with the bus driver," Auffarth told

Petitions Filed For Track Vote

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer
THREE OAKS — Three Oaks township Supervisor Alfred Hellenga said yesterday he has received petitions asking that a special election be held on whether to allow zoning for a proposed horse racing track in the township. Hellenga said he would request an election date of Sept. 7 from the county election scheduling committee next week.

The township board approved the necessary zoning for the 400-acre site west of here at its meeting last Monday. The special election would be on whether to affirm the board's decision.

The petitions requesting the election, signed by over 30 people, were circulated by a strong supporter of the proposed racing track, Mrs. Jean McCleery.

She is president of the Three Oaks Area Chamber of Commerce. She said she circulated the petitions to speed up the election.

An opponent of the proposed track, Mrs. Eileen Green, had said at the board's July 12 meeting that she also was going to circulate petitions.

Mrs. McCleery said she turned her petitions in because she was afraid Mrs. Green would "drag her feet until after

Aug. 12."

That would result in the election date being moved back to December so as not to interfere with the November general elections, Mrs. McCleery said.

"We do not want an election that late," she said. "We have no fear of the outcome. We want to get it over with as soon as possible."

The developers of the proposed $10 to $15 million track will have still another hurdle to clear even if the township votes approval for the zoning.

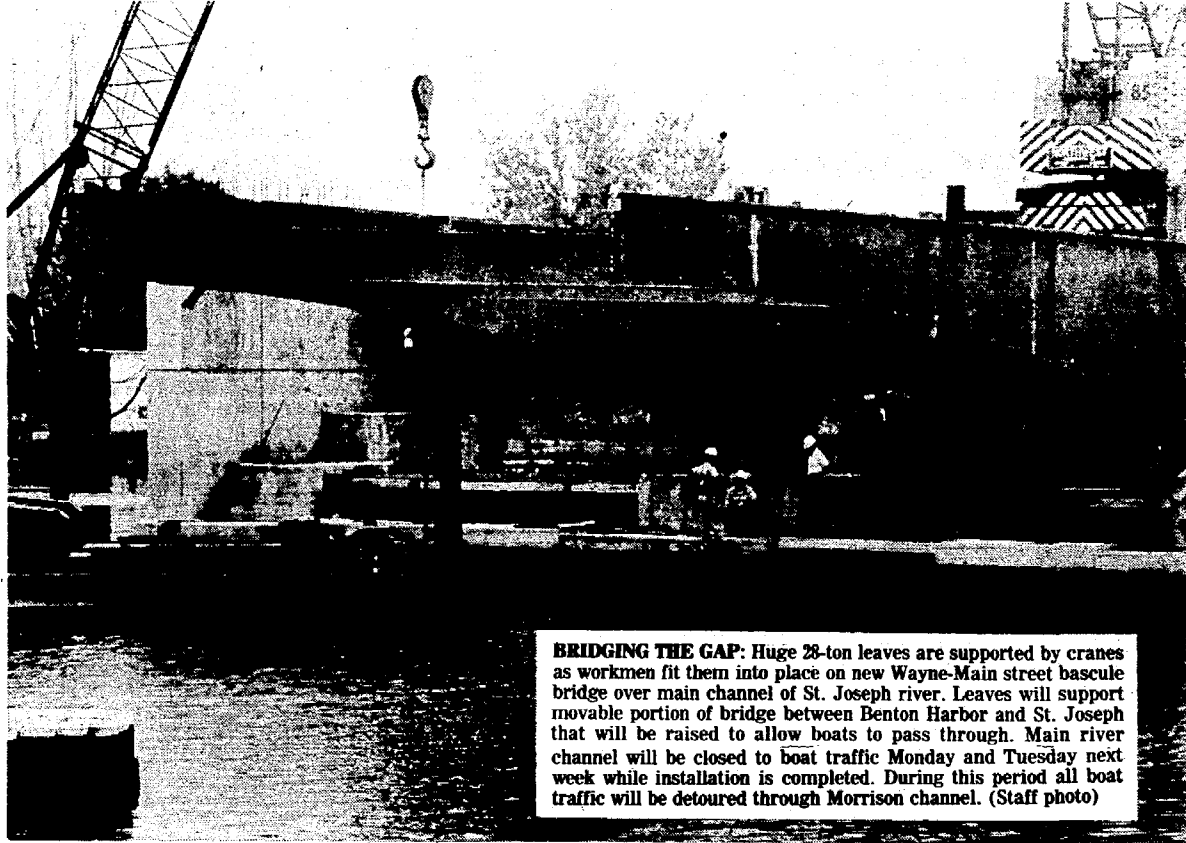

The state racing commission must also issue a license and approve racing dates.

The principal investors in the proposed development are auto dealer Hanley Dawson of Chicago and horse trainer Jerry Smith of Clarkston, Mich. The developers are represented locally by Victor Spaniolio, a Casopolis investment broker.

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Police have been reading a fictional detective story which bears a resemblance to the strange tale of the 26 kidnaped children and their school bus driver.

Kelley Fires His Top FBI Aide; U.S. Probe Hints Power Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department investigators are pursuing evidence that Nicholas P. Callahan, the FBI's second-ranking official until he was fired Friday, abused the power of his office, department and FBI sources say.

Kelley's decisive action in firing Callahan illustrates the seriousness of the department investigation of alleged improprieties involving a number of current and former FBI officials.

Callahan, 62, has been an FBI man for 41 years, almost as long as the agency has existed. Kelley himself, soon after taking office three years ago, appointed Callahan as the associate director.

Callahan could not be reached for comment.

Department and FBI sources said the allegations against Callahan involve unspecified abuses of power. The sources said the allegations do not involve financial wrongdoing, although the evidence against Callahan surfaced in a department probe of financial kickbacks in the FBI.

The sources also said the Callahan matter has nothing to do with a separate department probe of allegedly illegal FBI burglaries.

In an announcement Friday night, the FBI said Kelley "asked for and received" Callahan's resignation.

Atty. Gen. Edward Levi "was aware of the action and he concurred in it, but it was Kelley's decision," said department spokesman Robert Havel.

The FBI statement said Kelley declined to elaborate on the matter "because of the continuing investigations of various allegations concerning former and present officials and personnel of the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

The department probe is being conducted by the Office of Professional Responsibility, which reports directly to Levi. It was learned that officials of the criminal division have been kept informed about the findings.

The investigation stemmed from congressional testimony by Martin Keyser, a producer of electronics equipment. His testimony raised questions about the possibility of a kickback scheme involved in the FBI purchase of eavesdropping devices.

Levi rejected the FBI's first internal probe of the allegations and ordered a second inquiry. Kelley then appointed a new team of investigators to work with the department officials.

The probe soon grew to encompass all FBI purchasing practices and then expanded still further to include wide-ranging abuses of power, the sources said.

They stressed that the allegations against Callahan do not involve personal gain. "It's not a financial corruption thing at all," said one official.

Kelley's decision to fire Callahan was the most daring action of his administration. It was especially striking because Callahan has been eligible for retirement for several years. Kelley presumably could have allowed Callahan to retire quietly, but chose not to.

FBI spokesmen said they weren't sure what effect the move would have on Callahan's pension.

He's Lucky It's Not Big Eater

CHICAGO (AP) — John Mat took one look at the car-sized boulder in his front yard and said, "It's that brother of mine again. I guess it's meant to be a pet rock he sent me for my birthday."

Mat says the rock arrived sometime Wednesday while he was at work and he has since discovered that his brother, Sam, had hired a truck with a heavy duty crane to deposit it on his front lawn.

Sam owns an auto agency in Seaside, Calif., and the brothers, both bachelors, have long maintained a tradition of playing practical jokes on each other.

On his birthday last year, John says his brother sent a plane over his place of work pulling a banner spelling out "Happy Birthday, John."

On John's previous birthday, Sam had two attractive models deliver a big birthday cake to John.

Last year, John says he had four belly dancers visit Sam's auto agency and perform. Once John says he hired three ladies from a California home for senior citizens to visit Sam and sing "Happy Birthday."

But as for the rock, John says that Sam sent him a contract that will pay for moving it only as far as his backyard if he chooses.

"Our mother thinks we're both crazy," John says. "But we've been pranks since we were kids. Mom's name is Lorena and she lives in Port Huron, Mich. We once sent her 20 pairs of tennis shoes as a birthday present."

John says he's still brains-torming over what to send Sam for his birthday, which is Feb. 7.

"I don't know what I'll send him," he says. "Sam has a nice swimming pool. I think a 12-foot alligator would look good in it."

Kidnaping Had Fiction Parallel

the Chowchilla case, the bus driver is a model of reliability.

The similarities continue: in both cases, the bus disappears on a regular run, and town residents fear a mass kidnaping.

In the fictional mystery, Pat Mahoney finds the secret in his memories of magic shows — illusions of things that are not what they seem to be.

He turns out to be on the right track. The clothing in the quarry was a red herring. The kidnapers have driven the bus up a ramp into a large truck and spirited the car and captives away to a barn where the children are well-treated.

In the grand finale, Mahoney dons his cowboy suit and twin six-shooters and surprises the would-be robbers at the bank. In both the true drama and the story the children are rescued safely.

Petitions Filed For Track Vote

Staff Writer

THREE OAKS — Three Oaks township Supervisor Alfred Hellenga said yesterday he has received petitions asking that a special election be held on whether to allow zoning for a proposed horse racing track in the township. Hellenga said he would request an election date of Sept. 7 from the county election scheduling committee next week.

The township board approved the necessary zoning for the 480-acre site west of here at its meeting last Monday. The special election would be on whether to affirm the board's decision.

The petitions requesting the election, signed by over 30 people, were circulated by a strong supporter of the proposed racing track, Mrs. Jean McCleery.

She is president of the Three Oaks Area Chamber of Commerce. She said she circulated the petitions to speed up the election.

An opponent of the proposed track, Mrs. Eileen Green, had said at the board's July 12 meeting that she also was going to circulate petitions.

Mrs. McCleery said she turned her petitions in because she was afraid Mrs. Green would "drag her feet until after

Aug. 12."

That would result in the election date being moved back to December so as not to interfere with the November general elections, Mrs. McCleery said.

"We do not want an election that late," she said. "We have no fear of the outcome. We want to get it over with as soon as possible."

The developers of the proposed $10 to $15 million track will have still another hurdle to clear even if the township votes approval for the zoning.

The state racing commission must also issue a license and approve racing dates.

Kidnaping Had Fiction Parallel

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Police have been reading a fictional detective story which bears a resemblance to the strange tale of the 26 kidnapped children and their school bus driver.

The story begins simply: "On a bright, clear winter's afternoon the nine children in the town of Clayton who traveled each day to the Regional School in Lakeview disappeared from the face of the earth, along with the bus in which they traveled and its driver, as completely as if they had been sucked up into outer space by some monstrous interplanetary vacuum cleaner."

Written 18 years ago, the story titled "The Day The Children Vanished" bears an odd resemblance to the disappearance of a busload of 26 children Thursday afternoon.

Police in this small San Joaquin Valley farming town obtained a copy of the story Friday on a tip from a woman caller.

The 26 children and their bus driver escaped unharmed from a rock quarry about 100 miles from their home town Friday.

Written by Hugh Pentecost, the story first was published in "This Week" magazine, and was copyrighted in 1958.

In the story, the school children are kidnapped as a ruse to lure the residents of Clayton, a small mining town, away from their businesses while a gang robs the local bank.

In the story, it's the bus driver's father Pat Mahoney who solves the mystery by remembering his days as a Wild West vaudeville trouper. As in the Chowchilla case, the bus driver is a model of reliability.

The similarities continue: in both cases, the bus disappears on a regular run, and town residents fear a mass kidnapping.

In the story, the bus is actually a converted station wagon, last seen on a two-mile stretch of road bordered by a lake and mountain wall which block any turnoff. But no one sees the bus at the end of its run.

A quarry figures in both the fictional story and in the real-life disappearance.

In the book, some of the children's clothing is found floating in a deep, water-filled quarry, prompting fears that the station wagon and the children are at the bottom. In the real disappearance, the children and their bus driver were imprisoned in an underground cavern at a rock quarry.

In the fictional mystery, Pat Mahoney finds the secret in his memories of magic shows — illusions of things that are not what they seem to be.

He turns out to be on the right track. The clothing in the quarry was a red herring. The kidnapers have driven the bus up a ramp into a large truck and spirited the car and captives away to a barn where the children are well-treated.

In the grand finale, Mahoney dons his cowboy suit and twin six-shooters and surprises the would-be robbers at the bank.

In both the true drama and the story the children are rescued safely.

For The Democrats, It's Jimmy And Walt

Thursday morning, Jimmy Carter, the Democratic Presidential nominee, issued one of the few clear statements in his long campaign to obtain his party's highest honor.

He informed a specially called press conference that Minnesota's junior Senator, Walter Mondale, is his choice for the Vice Presidential nomination.

In the week preceeding the convention he had stated publicly his selection would be taken from the Senate.

Following that a number of possible candidates dutifully reported in to Carter's home at Plains, Georgia, for a stylized interview which Jimmy saw to it received full coverage by the broadcast and print newspeople.

Besides Mondale the Carter panel included Maine's Edmund Muskie, Ohio's John Glenn, Idaho's Frank Church, Washington's Henry (Skip) Jackson and Illinois' Adlai Stevenson III.

Church and Jackson were candidates in the preferential primaries who dropped by the wayside early in the contest for lack of money on Church's part and Jackson's inability to launch his star among those voting in those contests.

Stevenson is the one among the six who made no move to ingratiate himself in Carter's favor. If anything, he all but said he would have to be drafted as a running mate.

His name moved into contention simply because Chicago's Mayor Daley wanted it there and unlike the 1972 disaster candidate for the Democrats, George McGovern, Carter wooed his honor most visibly.

While Stevenson is an able man, much more so than the other five, he is not a flashy personality and like his father, who twice lost to Eisenhower, he inclines to the intellectual witicism rather than the platitude in his public speaking. Either characteristic by itself does not make him much of a vote puller in the upcoming race.

Glenn, our first astronaut to land on the moon, thirsted no end for second place on the ticket.

It is likely Carter in sizing up Glenn decided his political appeal is considerably less than his scientific achievement.

Judging by their comments to the reporters, Church and Jackson were more than available for second place on the ticket.

It is our guess Carter felt their home bailiwicks are too far removed from the vote pulling mainstream to be of help to him. Their sputtering performances in the primary contests probably convinced Jimmy their sex appeal to the electorate is not of Ann Margret calibre.

Following his conference at Carter's homestead, Muskie, the first one to be summoned, in a press interview exhibited an attitude somewhere between Glenn's eagerness and Stevenson's diffidence. The 1968 running mate with Humbert Humphrey expressed an opinion that the meeting was more of a courtesy call than a serious invitation.

Conceivably Carter thought a previous loser and the lack of 100 per cent enthusiasm too much of a liability. Muskie's home state is also remote from the vote center on which Carter will concentrate this fall.

Mondale, from the viewpoint of Carter's presumed strategy, survived the elimination in unquestioned No. 1 shape.

Minnesota is part of the midwest heartland where the November election is likely to be won or lost.

He has enjoyed the esteem of major labor bosses such as Leonard Woodcock, the UAW's president, before he went to the Senate; and Carter, for all his staying from personal alignments and contentious issues, has made no secret he is counting upon Big Labor to help deliver the mail for him in November.

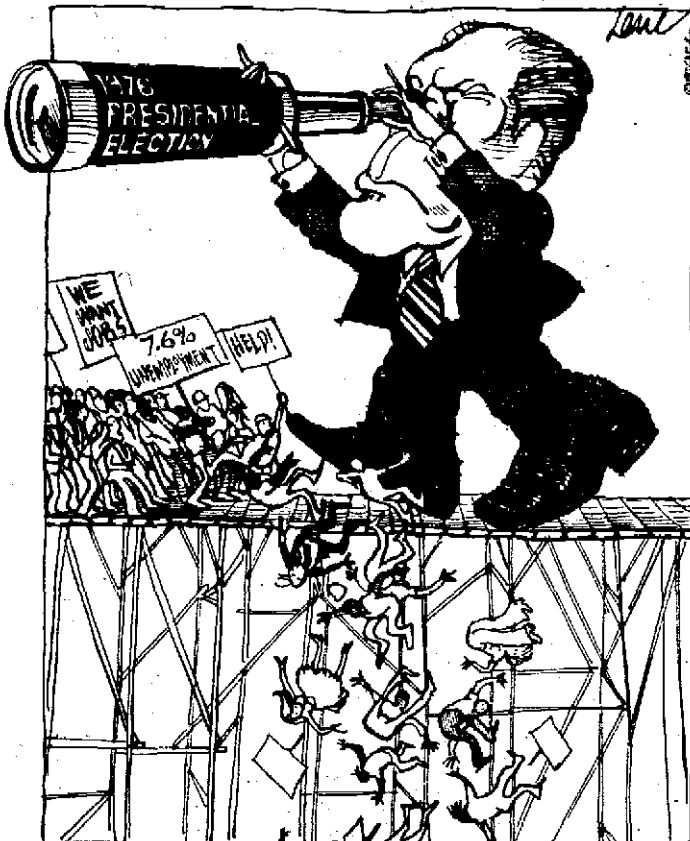

Humphrey could have had the mantle simply by stating his wish because his friendship with the organized labor leaders antedates Mondale's.

Quite possibly for that very reason he could have beaten Carter in the primary contests if he had come out early and unequivocally.

That he chose to take it easy this year, likely made Mondale's selection almost a knee jerk reaction.

Carter had a wide field from which to choose on the basis of appeal to blocs, women, Catholics, blacks, for example.

That he took the other route indicates he feels labor can still supply more muscle than those recognized segments in the voting process.

Milliken Explains His Reasons For 'Unit Pricing Bill' Veto

Editor.

I am writing this letter in view of your newspaper's expressed editorial interest in Senate Bill 1155, the "unit pricing bill," which I vetoed recently.

I made a number of points in my veto message, which I think deserve to be repeated:

First, I believe that we do need unit pricing legislation in the face of an obvious trend toward computer pricing of merchandise;

Second, the bill is so broad in scope that it could not be effectively administered and enforced;

Third, I plan to — in fact, have made arrangements to — work aggressively with the Michigan Consumers Council and other groups to develop a bill that will protect the consumer without imposing an impossible burden either on the retailer or on the state agencies which would have to administer and enforce the act;

Fourth, since the bill would not have taken effect for another 18 months, we have plenty of time to develop an act and have it in place before what would have been the starting date of this act.

I would like to add a number of points:

— I did seek to have this bill

apparent. We found, for example, that "item" could be interpreted so broadly that some feel it could have included everything from a fishing fly to a mobile home, or even a house. I think that once tempers cool we will be able to sit down and draft a true workable bill — that does what it is supposed to do without producing accidental side effects.

EMPLOYERS OVERLOOK GOOD WORKERS

Editor,

In reply to the letter on jobs bill not needed in 7-13-76 paper. While I am fortunate to be working, I still wonder how many people his concern has hired because they are not 20 years old with 40 years experience. Or how many were not interviewed because they were 45 to 55 years old. Too young to retire but too old to be employed.

Over the years I have tried to change jobs as the one I have isn't the best in the world for steady employment but employers look at my wages and age and automatically tell me I won't stay. It never has ceased to amaze me as to how I have to guarantee my life to the employer but he can fire or lay me off at will.

Just by the look you get at my age it is useless for me to look for other jobs than the work I have done over the years. No one wants to train me at a new job even if I would be willing to work for them. I am too old (54).

So perhaps if the employers would use some common sense at times they might have good men applying for their openings.

Until they (employers) change their attitudes towards us older people the only other source for work would have to come from the Federal Government.

I personally would support a candidate that would be in favor of any kind of full employment legislation.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

The year of 1966 is the 100th anniversary of Benton Harbor and the 66th anniversary of Elks lodge 544. The lodge was granted its original charter July 12, 1900. Since its founding the lodge has enrolled hundreds of the area's leading citizens and expects to issue its 3,000th membership certificate sometime within the near future. The Benton Harbor Elks will move within the next 12 months to its new golf course, club house and swimming pool, to be erected on a 140-acre tract in Hagar township.

— 25 Years Ago —

The proposal by Benton Harbor city commissioner Ray Neary and subsequent similar comments in a News-Palladium editorial that bus benches on downtown corners should be curtailed brought a rash of vociferous visitors to last night's meeting of the city commission. Townspeople who appeared before the commission were unanimous in their liking for the curb-side benches. Several volunteered spending as much as "an hour and a half" at the benches without seeing more than three occupants who could be classified as "loafers."

— 30 Years Ago —

A total of 35 entries in the Twin City Tennis tournament for 1926 was entered before the lists closed last night. Pairings were drawn immediately following. Eight seeded players were chosen this year. They are: Herb Stephens, Lynn Sablin, Art Mollhagen, Don Cameron, Gene Nowlen, W.P. Harvey, and Frank Housholder.

Popularity of outdoor meetings is growing in the twin cities and county generally among church folk. Surprise attended the first announcement this season that a picnic would be held on Sunday, but as the programs continued to be announced scheduling outings they have now become quite the thing.

At the Sunday school conference at Camp Warren tomorrow — the first event of the kind ever to be held in Berrien county — a model opening service will be carried out.

Berrien Springs — The Adventists held a meeting here last evening and paid the money down for the Richardson and Garland farms on which the university will be laid out. This closes the deal made a week or so ago and mentioned at that time in The News.

At noon today the thermometer in the shade at Bird's drug store, marked Benton Harbor, 103. In the sun Hopkins' drug store thermometer registered 111 and at the American express office 108.

The Politics Of Housecleaning

WASHINGTON — The major payoff for members of the House of Representatives is in the "perks" — the free airplane rides, hotel rooms, special entertainment, honorariums, inside information on money-making opportunities and a variety of assorted services — all from friendly people who hope the Congressman will vote the right way.

There are no reliable figures available but it is likely from studies I've seen that perhaps a fifth to a fourth of our Representatives take advantage of these extracurricular payoffs. With clear conscience, of course.

There was much talk on Capitol Hill after Watergate of a house cleaning. That talk withered.

The Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) scandal revived the talk with a vengeance. There was enough sex in the story to focus national attention on what Congressmen were doing with tax money. But it appears that this matter may well end, too, with the demotion of Hays, partial emasculation of the Administration Committee and a rechanneling of the route by which expense account funds reach Congressmen. For all the excitement over the Hays-Ray affair, this was peanuts compared with the influence peddling that determines how hundreds of millions, sometimes billions of tax dollars are spent.

There was hope for a time that the combination of Watergate and Hays-Ray might coerce Congress to pass some sort of meaningful bill to make public gifts of value to legislators by lobbyists; and a companion bill to require legislators to report special favors received —

Now it appears that one way or another, both of these bills may be stalled permanently in the House.

Surveys indicate that everyone — almost — is in favor of disclosure. Then comes a push to introduce amendments which can emasculate disclosure bills past all understanding.

It has been customary to describe opposition to lobbying disclosure bills as coming from big business — and only big business. In matter of fact, Ralph Nader's organization, The Public Citizen, the AFL-CIO, as well as the Chamber of Commerce and a myriad of liberal organizations, conservative and middle of the road, pro-business, anti-business and the rest, all have been in the forefront of the fight against full, detailed disclosure of where lobbying funds come from and where they go.

All wave the flag, except where their own organization is concerned. And all have silent cooperation from a wide range of Congressmen.

As one man working to push the law through put it: "It's hard to tell the white hats from the black hats."

"Our only hope is to somehow get these measures on the floor of the House where most members won't dare vote against for fear of what voters might do to them this November."

But the battle is not being fought on the House floor but rather in committee, where the maneuvering is fast and shifty. A seemingly innocuous amendment is offered here and another one there which, in analysis, would gut the proposals. This means more delays for reconsideration and new maneuvering.

The prospect is that the maneuvering will go on until adjournment. Then the fight will be over for this Congress. By next year, the Hays affair will have gathered dust. Members of the House will be peacefully able to pass cosmetic bills to impress their constituents.

Harvard Longs To Get Back In

Mr. James Reston of the New York Times recently made his national column the vehicle for the largest and most delicious want ad within memory.

Up in Boston to collect his customary honorary degree, this quintessential voice of the establishment devoted an entire column to telling Jimmy Carter that it's time to shuck the hicks how surrounding him and pass out the prospective Federal posts to the academics in Cambridge, Mass.

Just savor this Reston opening as an example of laying it on the line: "Jimmy Carter," announces Reston, "was not Harvard University's favorite candidate, but now that he has captured the Democratic Party, the Harvards are beginning to come round to his side, and a lot of people in this university community are waiting for the phone to ring."

You betcha they are. A wise old mentor of mine, who liked to describe himself as "an Appalachian to the Rockies patriot," once remarked to me that, for all his colossal blunders, LBJ had at least performed one service for his country. He had succeeded to a large extent in severing the umbilical cord between Harvard and the White House. He had turned away from Cambridge, Mass., and toward Houston, Texas.

Much more than symbolism happens to be involved here. The academic community in and around Cambridge, Mass., is quite literally a citadel of reaction, its power, status, and income directly linked to the fate of a besieged and dying establishment.

At a time when Federal social welfare programs and the Federal social welfare bureaucracy are viewed with universal skepticism and have been subjected to devastating intellectual criticism, the careers and status of most of these academics depend directly on the expansion of these very programs and the invention of new ones.

However, "For almost a decade now, during the Nixon and Ford years, these young liberal faculty members have had no opportunity for national service. Also, in this decade, many of them have married young professional women, who also long for responsible work at the center of national and international affairs. Accordingly, Carter has the same opportunity here to recruit talent as Roosevelt did in '32 and Kennedy did in '60, if he's interested."

That's right, all these delightful people and even their wives are eager to descend on the Federal government to begin rendering our priorities and solving our problems, no doubt including many problems we did not even know we have; and, of course, their services will be enormously costly.

FAMOUS TEACHERS

Do not get me wrong. Great men have taught at Harvard: William James, George Santayana, Samuel Eliot Morison, and many others.

Until recently, Edward C. Banfield tore the social well-furist orthodoxies to ribbons in crowded Harvard lectures, which issued in his masterly book "The Unheavenly City."

But by and large the intellectual atmosphere in Cambridge is one of stifling conformity combined with intellectual arrogance and self-congratulation.

But it knows the way to the Federal treasury, and James Reston has signed on as its employment agent.

Nostalgia Generates Comic Book Convention

One offshoot of the nostalgia wave that has swept across the country over the past several years is heightened interest in comic books. And with the rise in comic book popularity has come an increase in the number of comic book conventions sponsored by various individuals and organizations. These get-togethers usually are held in hotel ballrooms, where collectors buy, sell, trade and exhibit their wares. One of the largest is the Comic Art Convention, which takes place in New York City each summer.

A West Coast gathering of comic book enthusiasts, the seventh annual San Diego Comic Convention, is scheduled to be held in the California city July 21-25. It will offer publishers' exhibits and programs dealing not only with comic books but also with comic strips, animation, science fiction, underground comics and other comic art. Milton Caniff, author of the comic strip Steve Canyon, and science fiction writer Ray Bradbury are among the invited guests.

The most popular comic-book figures today are the superheroes — Superman, Spiderman, Captain America, Wonder Woman, and so on — according to Ron Lindbloom of the Comics Magazine Association of America. The superheroes have been fighting the forces of evil for decades, keeping up with the latest headlines. Captain America, for example, recently confronted pre-Watergate morality and terribly disillusioned by the experience.

Following the superheroes in popularity are ghost stories, mysteries and comics based on television series and motion pictures. These include the comic book versions of the movies 2001 and Planet of the Apes and of the television show The Six Million Dollar Man. Moreover, two old favorites have retained their fans into the Seventies. Casper the Friendly Ghost still is scaring some people and being scared by others. And Archie still is in high school, even though he must be approaching middle age.

For The Democrats, It's Jimmy And Walt

Thursday morning, Jimmy Carter, the Democratic Presidential nominee, issued one of the few clear statements in his long campaign to obtain his party's highest honor.

He informed a specially called press conference that Minnesota's junior Senator, Walter Mondale, is his choice for the Vice Presidential nomination.

In the week preceeding the convention he had stated publicly his selection would be taken from the Senate.

Following that a number of possible candidates dutifully reported in to Carter's home at Plains, Georgia, for a stylized interview which Jimmy saw to it received full coverage by the broadcast and print newspeople.

Besides Mondale the Carter panel included Maine's Edmund Muskie, Ohio's John Glenn, Idaho's Frank Church, Washington's Henry (Skip) Jackson and Illinois' Adlai Stevenson III.

Church and Jackson were candidates in the preferential primaries who dropped by the wayside early in the contest for lack of money on Church's part and Jackson's inability to launch his star among those voting in those contests.

Stevenson is the one among the six who made no move to ingratiate himself in Carter's favor. If anything, he all but said he would have to be drafted as a running mate.

His name moved into contention simply because Chicago's Mayor Daley wanted it there and unlike the 1972 disaster candidate for the Democrats, George McGovern, Carter wooed His Honor most visibly.

While Stevenson is an able man, much more so than the other five, he is not a flashy personality and like his father, who twice lost to Eisenhower, he inclines to the intellectual witicism rather than the platitudes in his public speaking. Either characteristic by itself does not make him much of a vote puller in the upcoming race.

Glenn, our first astronaut to land on the moon, thirsted no end for second place on the ticket.

It is likely Carter in sizing up Glenn decided his political appeal is considerably less than his scientific achievement.

Judging by their comments to the reporters, Church and Jackson were more than available for second place on the ticket.

It is our guess Carter felt their home bailiwicks are too far removed from the vote pulling mainstream to be of help to him. Their sputtering performances in the primary contests probably convinced Jimmy their sex appeal to the electorate is not of Ann Margret calibre.

Following his conference at Carter's homestead, Muskie, the first one to be summoned, in a press interview exhibited an attitude somewhere between Glenn's eagerness and Stevenson's diffidence. The 1968 running mate with Humbert Humphrey expressed an opinion that the meeting was more of a courtesy call than a serious invitation.

Conceivably Carter thought a previous loser and the lack of 100 per cent enthusiasm too much of a liability. Muskie's home state is also remote from the vote center on which Carter will concentrate this fall.

Mondale, from the viewpoint of Carter's presumed strategy, survived the elimination in unquestioned No. 1 shape.

Minnesota is part of the midwest heartland where the November election is likely to be won or lost.

He has enjoyed the esteem of major labor bosses such as Leonard Woodcock, the UAW's president, before he went to the Senate; and Carter, for all his staying from personal alignments and contentious issues, has made no secret he is counting upon Big Labor to help deliver the mail for him in November.

Humphrey could have had the mantle simply by stating his wish because his friendship with the organized labor leaders antedates Mondale's.

Quite possibly for that very reason he could have beaten Carter in the primary contests if he had come out early and unequivocally.

That he chose to take it easy this year, likely made Mondale's selection almost a knee jerk reaction.

Carter had a wide field from which to choose on the basis of appeal to blocs, women, Catholics, blacks, for example.

That he took the other route indicates he feels labor can still supply more muscle than those recognized segments in the voting process.

Milliken Explains His Reasons For 'Unit Pricing Bill' Veto

Editor.

I am writing this letter in view of your newspaper's expressed editorial interest in Senate Bill 1155, the "unit pricing bill," which I vetoed recently.

I made a number of points in my veto message, which I think deserve to be repeated:

First, I believe that we do need unit pricing legislation in the face of an obvious trend toward computer pricing of merchandise.

Second, the bill is so broad in scope that it could not be effectively administered and enforced.

Third, I plan to — in fact, have made arrangements to — work aggressively with the Michigan Consumers Council and other groups to develop a bill that will protect the consumer without imposing an impossible burden either on the retailer or on the state agencies which would have to administer and enforce the act.

Fourth, since the bill would not have taken effect for another 18 months, we have plenty of time to develop an act and have it in place before what would have been the starting date of this act.

I would like to add a number of points:

— I did seek to have this bill recalled from my desk so that we could work out its problems, but the sponsor declined. Once a bill is on my desk I have but two options: accept it in its entirety or reject it in its entirety; I cannot make changes in the bill.

— I made my decision after receiving arguments on both sides of the issue.

— It wasn't until we got down to the final study of the bill that many of its problems became

I think that once tempers cool we will be able to sit down and draft a true workable bill — that does what it is supposed to do without producing accidental side effects.

EMPLOYERS OVERLOOK GOOD WORKERS

Editor.

In reply to the letter on jobs bill not needed in 7-13-76 paper. While I am fortunate to be working, I still wonder how many people his concern has hired because they are not 20 years old with 40 years experience. Or how many were not interviewed because they were 45 to 55 years old. Too young to retire but too old to be employed.

Over the years I have tried to change jobs as the one I have isn't the best in the world for steady employment but employers look at my wages and age and automatically tell me I won't stay. It never has ceased to amaze me as to how I have to guarantee my life to the employer but he can fire or lay me off at will.

Just by the look you get at my age it is useless for me to look for other jobs than the work I have done over the years. No one wants to train me at a new job even if I would be willing to work for them. I am too old (54).

So perhaps if the employers would use some common sense at times they might have good men applying for their openings.

Until they (employers) change their attitudes towards us older people the only other source for work would have to come from the Federal Government.

I personally would support a candidate that would be in favor of any kind of full employment legislation.

BH Police Chief Raps Joseph's Riot Talk

Rodez Calls Charges 'Inexcusable Irresponsibility'

CHIEF ANDREW RODEZ
Raps 'Irresponsibility'

Benton Harbor Police Chief Andrew Rodez has charged former Mayor Charles F. Joseph with "inexcusable irresponsibility" for statements Joseph made about the potential for civil disturbance in the city.

In a letter published Thursday by the Chicago Defender, a prominent black newspaper, Rodez declared that Joseph's statements concerning the possibility of riots in the wake of his recall from the office of mayor were "grossly misleading."

Contacted by The Herald-Palladium, Rodez said that his letter was written in response to statements made by Joseph in a mailgram sent to the news media and public officials June 27 after a press conference in Chicago at which Joseph announced formation of a "National Committee to Free and Save Benton Harbor."

In the mailgram, Joseph said that "the atmosphere of vindictive and harsh reprisal...has generated a climate ripe for riot or violence against persons or property in my city."

"Certain elect(ed) officials have been threatened, harassed and attacked in the media so viciously until the tension has risen to a point resembling the climate of the rioting sixties."

"I am certain that the intensity of these attacks will result in riot and bloodshed."

The mailgram also described Joseph as the target of assassination threats earlier this year.

Rodez in April filed suit seeking $200,000 in damages for statements allegedly made by Commissioner Helen Ford that Rodez was part of an assassination plot against the mayor.

Named defendants were Mrs. Ford, Joseph, Commissioner Alfred Williams and three former commissioners ousted from office along with Joseph in the May 18 recall election — Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby and Winston Minott.

Mrs. Ford, who repeatedly has blocked commission action by her absence from meetings since May 18, is the target of another recall vote Aug. 3.

Rodez said his letter was written following a telephone conversation with a Chicago Defender reporter in which he (Rodez) said he felt a story on Joseph's press conference told only Joseph's side of the story in a two-sided political situation.

Rodez also said he and other members of his department had investigated Joseph's charges of assassination plots and potential rioting and declared that "as far as we can find out, it's ludicrous."

The full text of Chief Rodez' letter published in the Chicago Defender:

"Having read the Defender's report of former Mayor Charles Joseph's account of the circumstances surrounding his recall, it is suggested that both sides of the issue are told.

As Chief of Police, I do not intend to respond to Joseph's charges against certain political and business interests as it is of little significance to my responsibilities.

However, I wish to state clearly that any charges by Joseph as to the potential of civil disturbance in 'Benton Harbor' is grossly misleading. Furthermore, if the former Mayor has any information as to who may be planning such a disturbance, he has not revealed such to this department, or county, state and federal officials. His raising of such a serious expectation, and the manner in which he has done so, is an act of inexcusable irresponsibility.

While our city, like any other predominantly black urban center, has its problems, citizens here, black and white, are not the "sheep" he appears to make us. Although, he has frequently criticized me and my officers, even to the extent that I and another black officer are accused of plotting with his political foes to assassinate him, this department is one of the best in the state.

We have reduced crime below the national and state levels two years in a row. We have been recognized state-wide for our effective crime prevention program. We have the best trained department in southern Michigan. We have withstood the test of a Citizens Grand Jury investigation. We have never restricted police protection to any person or public official.

I too get threats; that is the nature of holding a public position. If the Defender feels that it wishes to investigate this matter further you should come to Benton Harbor and talk to people on both sides of the issue. This issue is simply one of political confrontation over a "strong" Mayor form of government, with a Mayor controlled Commission, or a "weak" Mayor, City Manager form of government with an independently committed commission.

You may print that I, as Chief of Police of this city, welcome an investigation by any person, agency or interest-group of my action and those of my officers and staff employees. While I am proud of this department and its achievements, I am not satisfied that we can not do better; we will do better, regardless of who is Mayor and what the political climate may be.

Joseph's opinions are his own, and as a nationally recognized newspaper, I feel the black citizens who read your paper are entitled to the whole story.

Hospital

The Berrien County Red Cross will conduct an open blood draw Monday at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph. Carol Green, blood coordinator for the county Red Cross chapter, said blood will be collected from noon to 6 p.m. and all donors will be welcomed. Berrien county is starting collection toward a 1976-77 goal of 6,000 pints after surpassing that same goal for 1975-76 last month.

Greg E. Burns, of 1120 River court, Niles, was placed on three years probation and ordered jailed for the weekend for $2,262 arrears for one child on ADC. Judge Julian E. Hughes ordered him to find work in 30 days or spend 60 days in jail, and pay $39 weekly support and $10 weekly on the arrearage if he finds employment.

Pastrick said Burns has not made a support payment since

New Buffalo Water
Off A Third Time

NEW BUFFALO — This city's water system broke down for a third time in less than a month last night, leaving residents without water for about 1½ hours.

New Buffalo city police said a device which automatically activates pumps for the water system failed to work about 10:30 p.m. Police said they became aware of the problem when they received numerous complaints from city residents. City employees located the problem in the water pumping station. The pumps were adjusted to activate by hand and water service was restored by midnight, officers said.

On July 3, the city was without water in the early morning hours after a water line broke. The line was repaired, only to break a second time that afternoon, again leaving residents without water until repairs were made.

Two Deadbeat Dads
Held In Contempt

One dad was ordered jailed for the weekend this week in Berrien Circuit court, and he and another father delinquent in their child support payments were told to find work or spend more time in jail.

Edward Pastrick, special investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported both fathers were held in contempt of court for child support arrearages.

Greg E. Burns, of 1120 River court, Niles, was placed on three years probation and ordered jailed for the weekend for $2,262 arrears for one child on ADC. Judge Julian E. Hughes ordered him to find work in 30 days or spend 60 days in jail, and pay $39 weekly support and $10 weekly on the arrearage if he finds employment.

Pastrick said Burns has not made a support payment since the order was started in June, 1975.

Dennis Berry, of 386 Miller street, Benton Harbor, was placed on one year probation by Judge William S. White for $434 arrears for one child on ADC, and threatened with 30 days in jail if he isn't employed in 30 days. The judge also told him to pay $7 support and $3 on the arrearage each week.

Pastrick noted Berry has not made any payments since the order was entered in April, 1975.

'Parolee' Arrested
At Berrien Jail

A Benton Harbor man identified by Berrien sheriff's officers as a day "parolee" was arrested Friday at the county jail Friday afternoon when suspected cocaine was found in an open package of cigarettes.

Booked on a charge of possession of a dangerous drug (cocaine) was Arthur Lee Brown, 19, of 780 Thresher avenue.

The department said Brown had been convicted on a petty larceny charge and was sentenced to spend the time in the county jail on nights after work.

Jailer Irvin Palmer said Brown came to the jail at 4:10 p.m. but before being locked up, a pack of open cigarettes was confiscated. Palmer indicated it's against regulations for inmates to bring in open cigarette packages. Palmer said a substance in tinfoil was found embedded in one of the cigarettes.

BERRIEN RESIDENTS SUMMONED

Pageant Attendance A 'Must'

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

BERRIEN SPRINGS — "You are commanded personally to appear in said County at Berrien County's "Fabulous Fruits of Freedom!"

That's the order on thousands of "subpoenas" summoning Berrien county residents to the county's Bicentennial pageant next Wednesday through Saturday at the Youth Fair grounds here.

Tickets for the pageant are in the form of "subpoenas" directing county residents to attend the pageant. The tickets are intended to provide a unique method of entry and also a souvenir of 1976 and the Berrien county pageant.

Howard F. Lancour, director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, has praised the "ingenuity and imagination" of the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission and Centennial Pageant in creating the tickets.

Lancour wrote Dr. Alfred Mowery, executive director of the Berrien commission, that the tickets are "great attention-getters for the Pageant and marvelous keepsakes for the years ahead. I extend best wishes for the continued success of what is undoubtedly one of the most outstanding Bicentennial programs in the entire state."

There is no contempt of court for failing to answer the subpoenas, but Paul McAdams, pageant president, and Alfred Lange, ticket chairman, noted that residents would be deprived of seeing a 90-minute panorama of the history of their county.

General admission tickets are

$2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Patrons tickets are $6 and reserved seats $3.50. Tickets are on sale at various locations in the county and will be available at the gates on nights of performances. "Fabulous Fruits of Freedom" is scheduled to start at 9:30 each evening and will be preceded by musical programs starting at 8:30.

BH Police Chief Raps Joseph's Riot Talk

CHIEF ANDREW RODEZ
Raps 'Irresponsibility'

Rodez Calls Charges 'Inexcusable Irresponsibility'

Benton Harbor Police Chief Andrew Rodez has charged former Mayor Charles F. Joseph with "inexcusable irresponsibility" for statements Joseph made about the potential for civil disturbance in the city.

In a letter published Thursday by the Chicago Defender, a prominent black newspaper, Rodez declared that Joseph's statements concerning the possibility of riots in the wake of his recall from the office of mayor were "grossly misleading."

Contacted by The Herald-Palladium, Rodez said that his letter was written in response to statements made by Joseph in a mailgram sent to the news media and public officials June 27 after a press conference in Chicago at which Joseph announced formation of a "National Committee to Free and Save Benton Harbor."

In the mailgram, Joseph said that "the atmosphere of vindictive and harsh reprisal...has generated a climate ripe for riot or violence against persons or property in my city."

"Certain elect(ed) officials have been threatened, harassed and attacked in the media so viciously until the tension has risen to a point resembling the climate of the rioting sixties."

"I am certain that the intensity of these attacks will result in riot and bloodshed."

The mailgram also described Joseph as the target of assassination threats earlier this year.

Rodez in April filed suit seeking $200,000 in damages for statements allegedly made by Commissioner Helen Ford that Rodez was part of an assassination plot against the mayor.

Named defendants were Mrs. Ford, Joseph, Commissioner Alfred Williams and three former commissioners ousted from office along with Joseph in the May 18 recall election — Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby and Winston Minott.

Mrs. Ford, who repeatedly has been the subject of investigation by her absence from meetings since May 18, is the target of another recall vote Aug. 3.

Rodez said his letter was written following a telephone conversation with a Chicago Defender reporter in which he (Rodez) said he felt a story on Joseph's press conference told only Joseph's side of the story in a two-sided political situation.

Rodez also said he and other members of his department had investigated Joseph's charges of assassination plots and potential rioting and declared that "as far as we can find out, it's ludicrous."

The full text of Chief Rodez' letter published in the Chicago Defender:

Having read the Defender's report of former Mayor Charles Joseph's account of the circumstances surrounding his recall, it is suggested that both sides of the issue are told.

As Chief of Police, I do not intend to respond to Joseph's charges against certain political and business interests as it is of little significance to my responsibilities.

However, I wish to state clearly that any charges by Joseph as to the potential of civil disturbance in Benton Harbor is grossly misleading. Furthermore, if the former Mayor has any information as to who may be planning such a disturbance, he has not revealed such to this department, or county, state and federal officials. His raising of such a serious expectation, and the manner in which he has done so, is an act of inexcusable irresponsibility.

While our city, like any other predominantly black urban center, has its problems, citizens here, black and white, are not the "sheep" he appears to make us. Although, he has frequently criticized me and my officers, even to the extent that I and another black officer are accused of plotting with his political foes to assassinate him, this department is one of the best in the state.

Annual Extension Week

Van Buren Woman President

EAST LANSING — Mrs. James (Julia) Murray of Bloomingdale, Van Buren county, was re-elected to a two-year term as president of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers at the group's annual meeting held during College Week at Michigan State university June 21-24.

Also during College Week, Mrs. Alan (Wildarene) Tourtellotte, Home Extension member of the Glenn-Casco area, representing Allegan county, won first place in the state in art for her picture in pastel. She will now compete at the national Home Extension convention to be held Aug. 14 at Morgantown, W. Va.

College Week, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, involved more than 1,200 Michigan residents in a learning experience which included classes, seminars and well-known speakers. Participants received full or partial scholarships.

Among her duties as president, Mrs. Murray, who is treasurer of the Village of Bloomingdale, are working with 13,900 members from all over the state, and being a voting delegate and representative at the National Extension Homemakers conference Aug. 14 in Morgantown, the Country's Women's Council meeting in September in Portland, Oregon, and the Associated Country Women of the World's tri-annual conference in Kenya, Africa, in 1977.

Associated Country Women of the World is composed of women belonging to the Country Women's Council in the United States and in 68 countries of the world.

Other officers of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers are Mrs. Robert Mielke, Manistee, vice president; Mrs. John Collier, Climax, treasurer, and Mrs. George Michalek, Parry, secretary.

Among those honored during College Week was Mrs. Corlan Spencer, Casco township, Allegan county.

Gov. William Milliken presented her with the State Family Living Silver Salute award which is sponsored by the Extension service and given for over 50 years of service.

Mrs. Spencer was state president for four years and she edited and published the Extension state newspaper for more than 15 years.

She is a member of the National Extension Homemakers council, she served a three year term as international chairman, a three year term as central region director for 10 states, and she is a member of the three-county area council which includes Allegan, Kent, and Ottawa counties.

She helped organize the women's auxiliary of the State Horticultural Society and Michigan Horticultural society and served as its first president. She was a 4-H leader for 12 years and is an active member of the Farm Bureau as well as other community clubs.

For 30 years she was a church organist, most of the years at the Pullman Congregational church.

Mrs. Spencer has three children, 11 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren.

BERRIEN AND VAN BUREN: Several area women received full or partial scholarships to attend the Cooperative Extension Service's College Week program at Michigan State university June 21-24. Berrien county women who received scholarships were, top photo, front row from left, Mrs. Robert (Ruth) Rose, Buchanan; Mrs. Wade (Esther) Martin, Three Oaks; Mrs. Gerald Robson, Niles; Mrs. Martin (Elsie) Priest, Three Oaks, and Mrs. Howard (Jackie) McLaughlin, Berrien Springs. # Plan Pilgrimage To Diocese

August will be a month of special devotion to Mary, the Mother of Christ, by hundreds of Catholics in the Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Throughout the month, the famous International Pilgrim Virgin statue will be taken from parish to parish in the Diocese.

Since 1947, when Pope Pius XII blessed the statue at Fatima, the wood-carved image of Mary has traveled internationally to call attention to the Blessed Virgin's promises at Fatima in 1917 that, on certain conditions, "Russia will be converted and an era of peace will be granted to all mankind."

The statue is a replica of the original image of Mary enshrined at Fatima and has been traveling around the world for 28 years, first arriving in the United States in 1974. Reports of miraculous events have accompanied the statue in its travels.

Del Williams of St. Peter's parish in Douglas, is personally coordinating the pilgrimage in the diocese, and he and his wife, Mary, have been preparing for the statue's arrival for months.

According to Williams, 24 of the Diocese's 45 parishes are scheduled to receive the statue for one or two days each. "That leaves five days left for any parishes still wishing to be part of the itinerary," he said.

The devotional pilgrimage is not a fund-raising enterprise. Parishes welcoming the statue will only be expected to provide room-and-board for the statue's custodian, Louis Kaczmarek, during the time the statue is at each parish.

A collection box will be placed at the back of each church receiving the statue, but no collections will be taken up during parish Masses or devotions. Half of the donations received will go to the host parish and half to Del Williams to cover the cost of the diocesan pilgrimage. "Anything contributed beyond expenses will go to Bishop Donovan for the diocese," Williams said. In case, expenses are not met from donations, he and his wife plan to pay the difference themselves. "Parishes have everything to gain," Williams said, "and nothing to lose."

Scapulars and pamphlets on the Blessed Virgin will be made available at each parish receiving the statue.

The Virgin Pilgrim statue will arrive in the Diocese at the Kalamazoo airport Aug. 1 and will be received by members of St. Monica parish, Kalamazoo, and transported to their church. The recitation of the Rosary and Benediction will follow the statue's enshrinement at St. Monica's before it travels on to other parishes in the Diocese.

The statue's diocesan itinerary includes:

Aug. 1, St. Monica parish, Kalamazoo; Aug. 2, open; Aug. 3, Immaculate Conception, Three Rivers; Aug. 4, open; Aug. 5, St. Charles, Coldwater;

Aug. 6, open; Aug. 7 and 8, St. Joseph, Battle Creek; Aug. 9, Holy Maternity, Dowagiac; Aug. 10, open; Aug. 11, St. Joseph, Watervliet; Aug. 12, Sacred Heart, Bangor; Aug. 13, open; Aug. 14, St. Ann, Gull Lake; Aug. 15, St. Peter, Douglas; and at 7 p.m., St. Augustine Convent; Aug. 16, Immaculate Conception, Hartford; Aug. 17, St. Mary, Three Oaks; Aug. 18, St. Mary of the Assumption, Bronson; Aug. 19, St. Anthony, Buchanan; Aug. 20, St. Mark, Niles; Aug. 21, St. Phillip, Battle Creek; Aug. 22, St. Jerome, Battle Creek; Aug. 23, St. John, Benton Harbor; Aug. 24, St. Bernard, Benton Harbor, and St. Joseph, St. Joseph; Aug. 25, Holy Family, Decatur; Aug. 26, St. Cyril and Methodius, Gun Lake; Aug. 27, St. Therese, Wayland; Aug. 28, St. Margaret, Oshtemo; Aug. 29, St. Mary, New Buffalo, and Aug. 30, open.

To Attend LCA Biennial Convention

Mrs. Clinton P. Maki and the Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe, both of Saron Lutheran church, St. Joseph, will be two of Michigan's 16 official delegates to the eighth biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America, to be held July 21-28 in Boston, Mass.

There will be 685 delegates from the United States, Canada and the Caribbean taking part in the convention of the 3.1 million member denomination, the largest Lutheran body in the country. Convention sessions will be held in the John B. Hynes Veterans auditorium and the opening communion service will be held at history Trinity church on Copley Plaza.

Delegates will approve budgets, receive reports from churchwide agencies and consider recommendations on a variety of issues. Among issues to come before the convention are a new service book and hymnal for Lutherans in North America, a statement on communion practices prepared jointly with the American Lutheran church, proposals on the number and location of seminaries and their financing, a rationale for church colleges, an expanded role for lay persons that includes an office of deacon, and a special $25 million funding appeal. A Bicentennial emphasis will also be included, with issues raised by local geographical Synods.

Issue forums will be held on civil religion, equality and pluralism, nation-state and global interdependence, and the continuing revolution in American life.

Speakers will include representatives of other Lutheran church bodies; the Most Rev. Bernard F. Law, Roman Catholic Bishop of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mrs. Helvi L. Sipila, United Nations Associate Secretary-General for Social Development and Humanitarian Affairs.

Delegates will elect members of the LCA Executive Council, boards and management committees, churchwide agencies and a church secretary.

Mrs. Maki and the Rev. Stubbe will serve as delegates from the Michigan Synod, LCA.

Mrs. Maki has been a member of the Synod World Missions Committee, Synodical

Unit Board of Lutheran Church Women, a past lay vice president of Saron church, a leader in the Literacy program in Berrien county and currently serves as president of Saron Lutheran Church Women and as secretary of the board for Berrien Homes, Inc.

The Rev. Stubbe has been a member of the Synodical committee for the Promotion of "The Lutheran" magazine, served two terms on the Synod Stewardship committee, of which he is currently chairman, heads a special committee now producing a film on the work of the Michigan Synod, LCA, and has been pastor of Saron church for the past five years.

THE BIBLE

No. 248. Jeremiah Becomes A Prophet

Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, who lived in the town of Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, was selected when he was a young lad to be God's spokesman. At first, he protested that he was too young. Then he recounted what the Lord had told him.

"But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 1:7-8)

"Then the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations, and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." (Jeremiah 1:9-10)

Following the program a belated Father's Day dinner will be served.

A talent program is planned at 7:30 p.m., according to the Rev. Winnie Bennett, pastor.

Revival services will be held at ST. MARK BAPTIST CHURCH, Benton Harbor, Sunday, July 18, through Friday, July 23.

Services will be held each night at 7 o'clock. The public is invited, according to the Rev. Coleman Gray, pastor.

Evangelist for the week will be the Rev. A.D. Blackmon, pastor of the Macedonia 17th Street Baptist church in Birmingham, Ala.

BANGOR — The Bicentennial choir will present a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 18, at the BANGOR CHURCH OF CHRIST.

The public is invited. The 98-voice choir is sponsored by the Free Methodist church and Church of Christ, both of Bangor.

THREE OAKS — The Rev. Arnold R. Bolin, executive director of the Berrien County Council of Churches, will be guest speaker Sunday, July 18, at 10:30 a.m. at ST. JOHN UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, Three Oaks.

The Rev. Bolin, a former pastor of Harbert Community church, will speak on "The Sower."

GANGES — The Rev. Maurice McKane of Grand Rapids will be guest speaker Sunday, July 18, at 9:30 a.m. at the GANGES UNITED METHODIST CHURCH.

The Rev. Dick McLain, pastor of the church, and his family, are on vacation.

PULLMAN — The Rev. Chester Alling of the Grand Junction Congregational church will be guest speaker Sunday, July 18, at the PULLMAN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The service will be at 9 a.m. instead of the regular 11 a.m. service.

DOUGLAS — The Rev. James Chapman who has been serving as a chaplain at the United States Air Force Academy, will be guest speaker at the DOUGLAS COMMUNITY CHURCH Sundays, July 18, Aug. 1 and Aug. 15.

The worship services begin at 11 a.m.

Annual Grove Meeting Sunday

CALVIN CENTER — The 44th annual Grove Meeting of the Calvin Community Chapel will be held at the grove adjoining the church in Calvin Center Sunday, July 18.

An inspirational song service will be held at 11:15 a.m. with the Gospel Chorus of St. Stephen African Methodist Episcopal church, Detroit, providing special music.

The Rev. Norman Tubbs, pastor, will speak at 11:30 a.m.

A dinner will be held from 12:30 to 2 p.m. in the church dining room and an inspirational song service is planned at 2:15 p.m. At 3 p.m., the Rev. Richard Evans, pastor of the Peoples Protestant church, Cassopolis, will be the speaker.

The public is invited and there will also be a sandwich and refreshment stand on the grounds.

Plan Pilgrimage To Diocese

August will be a month of special devotion to Mary, the Mother of Christ, by hundreds of Catholics in the Diocese of Kalamazoo.

Throughout the month, the famous International Pilgrim Virgin statue will be taken from parish to parish in the Diocese.

Since 1947, when Pope Pius XII blessed the statue at Fatima, the wood-carved image of Mary has traveled internationally to call attention to the Blessed Virgin's promises at Fatima in 1917 that, on certain conditions, "Russia will be converted and an era of peace will be granted to all mankind."

The statue is a replica of the original image of Mary enshrined at Fatima and has been traveling around the world for 28 years, first arriving in the United States in 1974. Reports of miraculous events have accompanied the statue in its travels.

Del Williams of St. Peter's parish in Douglas, is personally coordinating the pilgrimage in the diocese, and he and his wife, Mary, have been preparing for the statue's arrival for months.

According to Williams, 24 of the Diocese's 45 parishes are scheduled to receive the statue for one or two days each. "That leaves five days left for any parishes still wishing to be part of the itinerary," he said.

The devotional pilgrimage is not a fund-raising enterprise. Parishes welcoming the statue will only be expected to provide room-and-board for the statue's custodian, Louis Kaczmarek, during the time the statue is at each parish.

A collection box will be placed at the back of each church receiving the statue, but no collections will be taken up during parish Masses or devotions. Half of the donations received will go to the host parish and half to Del Williams to cover the cost of the diocesan pilgrimage. "Anything contributed beyond expenses will go to Bishop Donovan for the diocese," Williams said. In case, expenses are not met from donations, he and his wife plan to pay the difference themselves. "Parishes have everything to gain," Williams said, "and nothing to lose."

Scapulars and pamphlets on the Blessed Virgin will be made available at each parish receiving the statue.

The Virgin Pilgrim statue will arrive in the Diocese at the Kalamazoo airport Aug. 1 and will be received by members of St. Monica parish, Kalamazoo, and transported to their church.

The recitation of the Rosary and Benediction will follow the statue's enshrinement at St. Monica's before it travels on to other parishes in the Diocese.

The statue's diocesan itinerary includes: Aug. 1, St. Monica parish, Kalamazoo; Aug. 2, open; Aug. 3, Immaculate Conception, Three Rivers; Aug. 4, open; Aug. 5, St. Charles, Coldwater;

Aug. 6, open; Aug. 7 and 8, St. Joseph, Battle Creek; Aug. 9, Holy Maternity, Dowagiac; Aug. 10, open; Aug. 11, St. Joseph, Watervliet; Aug. 12, Sacred Heart, Bangor; Aug. 13, open; Aug. 14, St. Ann, Gull Lake; Aug. 15, St. Peter, Douglas; and at 7 p.m., St. Augustine Convent; Aug. 16, Immaculate Conception, Hartford; Aug. 17, St. Mary, Three Oaks; Aug. 18, St. Mary of the Assumption, Bronson; Aug. 19, St. Anthony, Buchanan; Aug. 20, St. Mark, Niles; Aug. 21, St. Philip, Battle Creek; Aug. 22, St. Jerome, Battle Creek; Aug. 23, St. John, Benton Harbor; Aug. 24, St. Bernard, Benton Harbor; and St. Joseph, St. Joseph; Aug. 25, Holy Family, Decatur; Aug. 26, St. Cyril and Methodius, Gull Lake; Aug. 27, St. Therese, Wayland; Aug. 28, St. Margaret, Otsego; Aug. 29, St. Mary, New Buffalo; and Aug. 30, open.

Open dates can still be taken by contacting Del Williams at Douglas.

To Attend LCA Biennial Convention

Mrs. Clinton P. Maki and the Rev. Arlon K. Stubbe, both of Saron Lutheran church, St. Joseph, will be two of Michigan's 16 official delegates to the eighth biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America, to be held July 21-28 in Boston, Mass.

There will be 685 delegates from the United States, Canada and the Caribbean taking part in the convention of the 3.1 million member denomination, the largest Lutheran body in the country.

Convention sessions will be held in the John B. Hynes Veterans auditorium and the opening communion service will be held at history Trinity church on Copley Plaza.

Delegates will approve budgets, receive reports from churchwide agencies and consider recommendations on a variety of issues. Among issues to come before the convention are a new service book and hymnal for Lutherans in North America, a statement on communion practices prepared jointly with the American Lutheran church, proposals on the number and location of seminaries and their financing, a rationale for church colleges, an expanded role for lay persons that includes an office of deacon, and a special $25 million funding appeal. A Bicentennial emphasis will also be included, with issues raised by local geographical Synods.

Issue forums will be held on civil religion, equality and pluralism, nation-state and global interdependence, and the continuing revolution in American life.

Speakers will include representatives of other Lutheran church bodies; the Most Rev. Bernard F. Law, Roman Catholic Bishop of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mrs. Helvi L. Sipilä, United Nations Associate Secretary-General for Social Development and Humanitarian Affairs.

Delegates will elect members of the LCA Executive Council, boards and management committees, churchwide agencies and a church secretary.

Mrs. Maki and the Rev. Stubbe will serve as delegates from the Michigan Synod, LCA.

Mrs. Maki has been a member of the Synod World Missions Committee, Synodical

Unit Board of Lutheran Church Women, a past lay vice president of Saron church, a leader in the Literacy program in Berrien county and currently serves as president of Saron Lutheran Church Women and as secretary of the board for Berrien Homes, Inc.

The Rev. Stubbe has been a member of the Synodical committee for the Promotion of "The Lutheran" magazine, served two terms on the Synod Stewardship committee of which he is currently chairman, heads a special committee now producing a film on the work of the Michigan Synod, LCA, and has been pastor of Saron church for the past five years.

No. 248. Jeremiah Becomes A Prophet

Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, who lived in the town of Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, was selected when he was a young lad to be God's spokesman. At first, he protested that he was too young. Then he recounted what the Lord had told him.

"But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a child: for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 1:7-8)

"Then the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations, and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." (Jeremiah 1:9-10)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

How To Spot Drug User

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please mention the symptoms to look for so parents can tell whether or not a child is on drugs?

We realize you have devoted a lot of time and space to this problem in the past, but our children were younger then and I didn't have much meaning to us. We know now we should have clipped those columns when they appeared, but believe me, Ann, when parents look at their fine- and ten-year-olds they never think those kids are going to grow up to be drug addicts.

Also, if it turns out that a child does happen to be "on something," what should parents do? Please, Ann, help us. I'm sure you can tell from the tone of this letter that we are Worried Sick.

Dear Worried: Pot smoking

can be easily detected because the room has an odor of sickeningly sweet tobacco. Kids who smoke large amounts of high-grade (uncut) pot often become red-eyed, runny-nosed, lethargic, zombie-like, lazy, unmotivated, unkempt and have a "what-the-hell" attitude about many things.

They may also get into auto accidents because their vision and sense of timing are impaired.

Pill-popping can make kids high or low — depending on what they pop. If it's uppers, they're high. If it's downers, they're subdued. Parents who notice wide personality swings should be alert to the possibility that their child may be on both.

L.S.D. is a hallucinogenic and produces wild trips. When the trip is over the crash can result in unconsciousness, deep depression, nausea, vomiting and the worst imaginable "hang-over."

Heroin users often wear dark glasses during the day and keep their arms covered to avoid displaying the needle marks. The best clues are the equipment which most parents find sooner or later. This consists of a syringe, needles, bent spoons, and a small hotplate for heating.

Parents who suspect their children are on drugs should seek help from the nearest drug abuse center. Contact the city or county mental health center for details — and God be with you.

No Reform School

Dear Ann Landers: My charming and attractive 24-year-old sister-in-law is planning to be married this fall to a 28-year-old man. She has accepted an engagement ring from him although they've known each other less than five months.

Suddenly, Tillie is aware that her fiancé lacks the knowledge of the niceties of life. His table manners are an embarrassment. She insists she will retrain him once they are married. I notice, however, they always seem to be arguing about some klutzy thing he has done.

We suggested to Tillie that she push back the wedding date, but she ignores us. How can we make her see that small irritants before marriage will become magnified after?

What advice do you have for Tillie? She reads your column

Friends

Dear F and F: I have no advice for Tillie. She didn't ask for any. If she is a regular reader of my column, she has seen the phrase, "Marriage is not a reform school." As for you, "Family and Friends," my advice is MYOB or Tillie will move the date up — instead of back.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers's new booklet, "High School Sex and How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents," gives no-nonsense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. ## Recycled Or Recyclable?

NEW YORK (AP) — Is "recyclable" a synonym for "recycled?"

No, says the National Association of Recycling Industries (NARI), warning the public to beware of being misled by shopping bags, containers, packaging and other paper materials that bear logos and slogans implying that they have been made from recycled fibers when they actually have not.

M.J. Mighdoll, NARI's executive vice president, says there has been an increase in recent years in the misuse and misdirection of symbols connoting recycling and such messages as "This is Recyclable."

Another way some firms confuse the recycling issue, the association claims, is to use such slogans as "Recycle This Paper" or similar phrases. Others, NARI says, actually misrepresent the recyclability of a product, implying that it can be recycled when it cannot. "An item may be recyclable, but that does not mean it has been made from recycled materials," says Mighdoll. To genuinely serve the public interest in conserving natural resources and improving environmental management, NARI believes manufacturers should use maximum amounts of recycled materials in their products, he adds.

Many companies are striving to maximize recycled fiber content in their products and legititimely use the recycling identification. Mighdoll says. Over 40, he points out, now subscribe to the "NARI Consumer Identification Program" by utilizing a symbol indicating that they use significant amounts of recycled materials in accordance with the association's criteria. In many cases, the symbol is accompanied by a line indicating the percentage of recycled fiber actually contained in the product.

FOR MONDAY, JULY 19, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have honorable intentions today, but they're not enough to excuse your making people you help feel obligated to you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be satisfied that what people offer you today is the best they can give. It's not fair to expect others to try to operate by your standards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be very gracious to those who accede to your wishes today. Pals who try to think for themselves won't please you nearly as much.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Whether or not you realize it, your motives are transparent today. It'll be of little avail for you to try to put others on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you have a tendency to deal in illusion today, make up your mind to grit your teeth and hold the line. Your opponent is determined to have his way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In business dealings today, make up your mind to grit your teeth and hold the line. Your opponent is determined to have his way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) An inability to decide which way the scales are leaning could cause you to delay so long that whatever you say or do is really irrelevant.

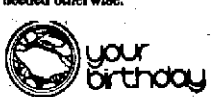

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Usually when you're ready to jump in with both feet when there's something to do today, you're likely to look for an excuse to hold back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) You're more glib than usual today. You tend to believe what friends tell you, though you know in your heart it's not true.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) You have sympathy today with those under you. This would be fine, except that you should be exercising discipline rather than restraint.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It would be nifty today if you could stay in bed and shut the world out. Scale down your activities as much as possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you plan to begin a new project today, line up your list of materials before you start. You could buy much more than needed otherwise.

Travel Films Tuesday

Three travel films will be featured during Family Film Night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 20.

"Jamaica, Haiti and the Lesser Antilles" shows life on these islands and depicts the European-African influence on the way of life there. The film also shows the importance of the plantation agriculture, tourist industry and mining on the islands.

"Free From Care" shows the variety the outdoors of Nova Scotia offers.

"Vanishing Prairie" — Pioneer Trails, Indian Lore and Bird Life of the Plains" depicts western land marks and traces of wagon tracks left by the pioneers and shows the mating dance of the whooping crane, the sandhill crane and the dance of the prairie chicken. The film includes close-up photography of birds.

Story hour for preschool through second grade children, featuring Ricketty Raccoon and Friends, games and special events, will be held Wednesday, July 21, at 11 a.m.

Children's films to be shown Thursday, July 22, from 2 to 3 p.m. are "Paddle to the Sea" and "The Lorax."

An antique exhibit, "Memories of Long Ago," will be in the display case at the library during the month of July. Members of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, who contributed to the display are Mrs. Lester Hoon, Miss Marianne Bard, Mrs. Ronald Blair and Mrs. Harry Laity. Also contributing to the exhibit is Mrs. Daniel Chapman.

New books at the library include "A God Against Gods" by Allen Drury; "It Changed My Life: Writings on the Women's Movement" by Betty Friedan, and "Raising a Responsible Child: Practical Steps to Successful Family Relationships" by Don Dinkmeyer and Gary D. McKay.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

How To Spot Drug User

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please mention the symptoms to look for so parents can tell whether or not a child is on drugs?

We realize you have devoted a lot of time and space to this problem in the past, but our children were younger then and it didn't have much meaning to us. We know now we should have clipped those columns when they appeared, but believe me, Ann, when parents look at their nine- and ten-year-olds they never think those kids are going to grow up to be drug addicts.

Also, if it turns out that a child does happen to be "on something," what should parents do? Please, Ann, help us. I'm sure you can tell from the tone of this letter that we are — Worried Sick can be easily detected because the room has an odor of sickeningly sweet tobacco. Kids who smoke large amounts of high-grade (uncut) pot often become red-eyed, runny-nosed, lethargic, zombie-like, lazy, unmotivated, unkempt and have a "what-the-hell" attitude about many things.

They may also get into auto accidents because their vision and sense of timing are impaired.

Pill-popping can make kids high or low — depending on what they pop. If it's uppers, they're high. If it's downers, they're subdued. Parents who notice wide personality swings should be alert to the possibility that their child may be on both.

L.S.D. is a hallucinogenic and produces wild trips. When the trip is over the crash can result in unconsciousness, deep depression, nausea, vomiting and the worst imaginable "hangover."

Heroin users often wear dark glasses during the day and keep their arms covered to avoid displaying the needle marks. The best clues are the equipment which most parents find sooner or later. This consists of a syringe, needles, bent spoons, and a small hotplate for heating.

Parents who suspect their children are on drugs should seek help from the nearest drug abuse center. Contact the city or county mental health center for details — and God be with you.

No Reform School

Dear Ann Landers: My charming and attractive 24-year-old sister-in-law is planning to be married this fall to a 28-year-old man. She has accepted an engagement ring from him although they've known each other less than five months.

Suddenly, Tillie is aware that her fiancé lacks the knowledge of the niceties of life. His table manners are an embarrassment. She insists she will retrain him once they are married. I notice, however, they always seem to be arguing about some klutzy thing he has done.

We suggested to Tillie that she push back the wedding date, but she ignores us. How can we make her see that small irritants before marriage will become magnified after?

What advice do you have for Tillie? She reads your column

Schedule Buchanan Meetings

Recycled Or Recyclable?

NEW YORK (AP) — Is "recyclable" a synonym for "recycled?"

No, says the National Association of Recycling Industries (NARI), warning the public to beware of being misled by shopping bags, containers, packaging and other paper materials that bear logos and slogans implying that they have been made from recycled fibers when they actually have not.

M.L. Mighdoll, NARI's executive vice president, says there has been an increase in recent years in the misuse and misdirection of symbols connoting recycling and such messages as "This is Recyclable."

Another way some firms confuse the recycling issue, the association claims, is to use such slogans as "Recycle This Paper" or similar phrases. Others, NARI says, actually misrepresent the recyclability of a product, implying that it can be recycled when it cannot. "An item may be recyclable, but that does not mean it has been made from recycled materials," says Mighdoll. To genuinely serve the public interest in conserving natural resources and improving environmental management, NARI believes manufacturers should use maximum amounts of recycled materials in their products, he adds.

Many companies are striving to maximize recycled fiber content in their products and legitimately use the recycling identification. Mighdoll says. Over 40, he points out, now subscribe to the "NARI Consumer Identification Program" by utilizing a symbol indicating that they use significant amounts of recycled materials in accordance with the association's criteria. In many cases, the symbol is accompanied by a line indicating the percentage of recycled fiber actually contained in the product.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have honorable intentions today, but they're not enough to excuse your making people you help feel obligated to you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be satisfied that what people offer you today is the best they can give. It's not fair to expect others to try to operate by your standards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be very gracious to those who accede to your wishes today. Pals who try to think for themselves won't please you nearly as much.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Whether or not you realize it, your motives are transparent today. It'll be of little avail for you to try to put others on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Although you have a tendency to deal in illusion today, make up your mind to grit your teeth and hold the line. Your opponent is determined to have his way.

MEADOW BEAUTY Meadow Beauty is an attractive perennial flower of North America which stands one to two feet high.

It's important that you think in terms of financial gain this year. Deliberating along these lines will spur you to greater, more rewarding efforts.

This coming year you will have more outside interests than you've had for some time. It should be fun, but don't put more irons in the fire than you can manage.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Dr. Larry Zavodney, a mechanical engineer, at the University of Akron, in Akron, Ohio, is studying sounds that can be recorded deep within the joints of the body.

Highly sensitive microphones pick up these sounds and record them for analysis. The work at the present time is being done in cows. Dr. Zavodney believes that it is possible to recognize normal from abnormal knees by these sound recordings.

The preliminary studies seem to indicate that various arthritic diseases give out characteristic noises. It is hoped that eventually these sounds may be correlated for the better understanding of the diagnosis, treatment and recovery from various forms of joint disease.

It is always intriguing to find the relationship between so-called far-out ideas and the practical application for human benefit.

A group of bio-engineers and physicians have developed, and are using, a new device "to provide on-the-spot readings of a patient's blood and tissue chemistry."

Dr. Stanley D. Moss and his co-workers, at the University of Utah, have created a "super-probe" no bigger than the tip of a needle, for this purpose.

Dr. Moss says that the miniature probe can study the most complex substances in the blood. He feels that "physicians could use the probe for routine office check-ups."

In hospitals, this device would be a value in diagnosis, in the selection of drugs and for intensive care monitoring. The enthusiasm of the Utah researchers is so great that they feel that the super-probe may one day be used as commonly as thermometers.

A new non-narcotic drug is said to be as effective as morphine for the control of pain. Dr. William T. Beaver, of the Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D.C., reports that the drug, Naluphine, has a low risk of drug dependency and fewer side effects than morphine.

He believes that the drug should be a valuable pain-killer because of its effectiveness and its minimal addiction possibility.

The drug is being carefully evaluated by the Federal Drug Administration before being released for general use.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand has appeared in this and other columns. Oswald Jacoby sat North and Mary Sita Jacoby, his wife, was South.

At that time the grand slam bonuses were 1500 not vulnerable and 2250 vulnerable.

The game was rubber bridge and East and West were both top players.

After East had overcalled Jacoby's opening diamond bid with four hearts and West had bid five hearts over Mrs. Jacoby's four spades, Ozzie wanted to have Mrs. Jacoby play a grand slam, but he wanted to stop a heart lead. How could he do it?

One way would be to make a fake cue bid at six hearts and then go to seven spades. The trouble with that action would be that expert West would say to himself, "Why did Jacoby bother to cue bid when he was going to bid seven all the time?"

So Jacoby tried the reverse method. He just bid seven spades!

West studied and studied and finally came to the conclusion that Jacoby was surely void of hearts. Hence, his only hope lay in the club suit. He led a club and Mrs. Jacoby raked up the grand slam.

Ask the Jacobys

Readers continue to ask us if we will open one notrump when we hold a five-card major suit.

The answer is a decided yes if our distribution is 5-3-3-2 and our hand meets all other requirements for an opening notrump.

Ford, Reagan Eye Last Votes

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Ford traveled to Connecticut and Ronald Reagan was in Utah today, both scrambling for delegates to the Republican National Convention in Kansas City next month.

The two state conventions were the last in the party's delegate-selecting process. Ford was favored to gain at least 33 of 35 delegates chosen in Connecticut. Reagan was expected to pick up most if not all of the 20 votes in Utah.

An Associated Press survey showed Ford with 1,031 committed delegates, Reagan with 1,000 and 172 delegates uncommitted before the two conventions. A total of 1,130 is needed to win the nomination.

Reagan on Friday raised Ford's pardon of President Richard Nixon for the first time in his campaign for the nomination. The former California governor said the Watergate pardon could hurt Republicans in the fall if Ford is the GOP nominee.

Ford, meanwhile, called for party unity in his address to the Connecticut state convention in Hartford.

"We must center our attack not on fellow Republicans, but on this Democratic Congress, the Democratic platform and Democratic ticket which tries to be all things to all people."

"Now we must resolve to stop fighting each other and start helping each other," he said in his text.

Carter returned to his home town of Plains, Ga., Friday after telling party leaders in New York City earlier in the day that "We have a good chance to win, but it is not a sure thing."

Enroute to Plains on his private jet, Carter told reporters it is possible he could have "run a few points higher" in the South with another candidate besides the liberal Mondale. But Carter added: "My support in the South is very strong. There is no equivocation about it. There is no softness there."

Mondale, meanwhile, refused to say whether he thinks Ford or Reagan would be the toughest presidential opponent.

"I'll just leave them to fight on their own," Mondale said Friday in Washington.

Illegal Aliens Worry Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department study on illegal aliens says that almost 30 per cent of those apprehended in 1975 were employed and many of these were earning above the minimum wage.

Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., who released the report today, said the study "clearly demonstrates the very real threat" which illegal aliens pose to American workers in terms of jobs lost and to the nation's economy in terms of tax dollars lost.

"In addition to more than 3 million illegal aliens employed in jobs, it is further estimated that the annual wage loss to American workers caused by illegal alien employment to be as high as $10 billion," Biaggi quoted the report as saying.

The study showed that one-fourth of all employed illegal aliens receive their pay in cash and pay no federal, state or city taxes.

Of the 30 per cent of all illegal aliens arrested last year who held a job, almost 45 per cent were earning salaries above the minimum wage, Biaggi said.

Biaggi said the study was done by the Foreign Service Institute of the State Department.

He said the findings show an immediate need for passage of legislation he has introduced to make it a federal crime to hire illegal aliens. The bill would also provide more Immigration Service enforcement personnel, particularly along the U.S. borders.

More than 87 per cent of all illegal aliens entering this nation in 1975 did it by crossing either the Mexican or Canadian borders.

Biaggi said the report said 500,000 foreign tourists convert themselves into illegal aliens annually and as many as 20 per cent of all illegal aliens are apprehended as repeat violators.

Four Are Arrested At County Line

COLOMA — Four Marshall, Mich., people were arrested by Coloma township police early today on charges of violation of the controlled substance act.

Arrested about 1:35 a.m. and lodged in Berrien county jail were David B. Sutherland, 27; Paul Jean Sutherland, 24; Joe David Wasielewski, 27; and Carolyn Beth Love, 18.

The arrests were made after police halted a car that failed to stop for a stop sign at Paw Paw Lake and County Line roads, police said.

Covert township and Watervliet police officers assisted Coloma township police Officer Gary Wigent, who initially stopped the car.

Police said David Sutherland was arrested on charges of use of marijuana and having open intoxicants in a car; Paul Sutherland, use of marijuana; Wasielewski, possession of amphetamines and possession of marijuana; and Carolyn Love, possession of amphetamines.

Niles Library Presented Rape Prevention Film

NILES — Niles civic groups have donated a rape prevention film to the Niles Community library. In ceremonies yesterday, attended by representatives from the groups, the library and state police from the Niles post, a plaque and a film were presented to the library. The film, "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive," has been shown to school and civic groups in the past by state troopers.

Trooper Robert Price said the Niles Jaycees, American Legion Post 26, Ballard Junior high school parents, the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the Niles Optimist club donated a total of about $600 to purchase the film. He said the plaque, to designate the film gift to the library, was donated by Poorman's House of Trophies, Buchanan. Price said the film will be made available to Niles area groups free of charge.

Women Demand Berrien Hearing

Margaret J. Burton, 19, of 554 Heck court, Benton Harbor, demanded a preliminary examination Friday in Berrien District court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Benton Harbor police officer Ron Peil said she was arrested Thursday at another house on Whitcomb for allegedly threatening a juvenile while she was armed with a butcher knife. The juvenile will be petitioned to Juvenile court on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, also a knife, against Margaret Burton, Peil stated. After arraignment she was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Also demanding examination yesterday was Gerdie L. Maggett, 37, of 230 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, charged with larceny of meat from Benton township Jewel Foods July 16. She was jailed under $1,000 bond.

Sentenced Friday were: Moose Pittman, 30, of Milwaukee, Wis., fine and costs of $75 for possession of an unregistered pistol July 15 in Benton township. Michael A. Horlock, 26, of 3001

Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, $100 or 30 days in jail for use of marijuana July 16 in St. Joseph. Wonder Fay Farrow, 30, of 1008 Superior, Niles, $151 or 30 days in jail for driving while intoxicated in Niles township July 15.

Pleading innocent to charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued under $100 were Yvonne A. Williams, 18, of 940 Broadway, and Wayne E. Williams, 19, of 106 Apple, both of Benton Harbor. Both were released on personal recognizance bonds.

Correct Size

The steamship Eastland was 265 feet in length and not 85 feet as reported in a July 14 story in this newspaper.

Julianne M. Holman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Holman, 867 Oakridge drive, St. Joseph, was named to the dean's list for the spring quarter at Wheaton College in Wheaton, Ill.

Lebanon Battle Mounts; Yanks Urged To Get Out

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian tanks were reported pounding Palestinian guerrilla strongholds in the north today, and Christians said their forces launched a renewed attack on a strategic Palestinian refugee camp in eastern Beirut.

The American embassy said

Friday it was cutting its staff and warned U.S. citizens in Lebanon to leave on an evacuation plan for Tuesday. U.S. officials in Washington warned of an anticipated Christian onslaught against the Moslem-held sector of Beirut.

No time was given for the expected Christian attack. Officials said it had not been decided how to withdraw the Americans, but urged other foreigners to join the pullout.

Hospital and security sources reported about 125 killed and 170 wounded since Friday night on all fronts of the 15-month-old civil war that has taken more than 32,000 lives by some estimates.

Christian communiques reported a massive attack on the shrinking defense area of the Tal Zaatar refugee camp. The camp dominates roads between Christian-held eastern Beirut and the 800-square-mile Christian enclave north of the capital.

"The new attack was mounted behind a 15-hour barrage of mortar and incendiary shells that set many fires," the Christian communiques said. "Reinforcements from Christian reserve forces supported by dozens of tanks and armored cars mounted the assault."

The Christians also said they had overrun the camp headquarters of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an ultra-radical Palestinian guerrilla group.

"Palestinian flags over the building were torn down and Lebanese flags were hoisted," the communiques said. Christians say Tal Zaatar was the main training center for PFLP terrorists.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat canceled a meeting Friday with Syrian President Hafez Assad. He accused the Syrians of reneging on an agreement to pull their forces back from the leftist-held cities of Solar, 12 miles east of Beirut, and Sidon, 26 miles south of the capital.

Planners' Meeting Canceled

The Benton Harbor city planning commission will not hold its regularly-scheduled meeting Tuesday because it cannot obtain a quorum, according to Lynn Meyer, city planning director.

Meyer said one of the planning commission members plans to be out of town Tuesday, leaving the commission without a quorum.

The planning commission is normally a nine-member advisory body to the city commission but currently has only five members — just enough for a quorum when all are present.

GOTTA GO: Mrs. Viola Walker (above), carrying clothes, and others were evicted from a house in Grannis, Ark., where they had been holding a vigil for Second Coming of Christ. Eviction was for non-payment on the house. (AP Wirephoto)

Eviction Ends Doomsday Vigil In Arkansas

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer
GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — After nearly 10 months in isolation, Sarah Ann Nance Cavner said she was "almost relieved" that the vigil for the Second Coming of Christ was over. Then she began to weep.

She and some 30 other persons were evicted by federal marshals Friday from a three-bedroom house where they had waited since last Sept. 29 for the end of the world.

The vigil was perhaps hardest on Mrs. Cavner. Her home was repossessed for non-payment, and her 14-year-old daughter, Gay, was taken from her in a custody feud.

The judge said Gay was better off with her father, Mrs. Cavner's ex-husband, than in the vigil.

"Maybe now Gay can come back," she said. "Maybe now I'll hear from her again. The last letter I got from her was last February."

After the eviction, Mrs. Cavner, 37, and more than a dozen other vigil members retreated to the farm house owned by her sister, Elizabeth Nance Bard, also a vigil member.

The vigil will continue, Mrs. Bard said, but probably only "in our hearts."

"We don't know what we will do," Mrs. Bard added. "But our faith is certainly not shaken."

The vigil members said they had expected the world to end and Jesus to arrive before the marshals came. It didn't work out that way.

"They based their plans on the assumption that the Lord would come before we arrived," said Lee Owen, one of the marshals.

Owen said there were 21 persons who had lived in the house permanently and another six who had lived in the house at various times. Mrs. Bard said there were five to 10 friends in the house when the marshals came.

Mrs. Bard, 45, said the vigil members had moved to three or four homes in the Grannis area.

Vigil member Gene Nance was asked by reporters if he felt God had deserted the vigil members. "The Lord," he said, "doesn't desert anyone."

It was Nance's $15,000 three-bedroom, brick house in this isolated community of 177 persons in Southwest Arkansas that was the site of the vigil. The government foreclosed on the mortgage after Nance stopped making payments on the home.

The vigil began after Mrs. Bard's maternal aunt, Viola Walker, 67, said she received a message from God that the Second Coming was near.

The vigil members took their children from school, quit their jobs, stopped paying their bills and, for a while, refused to tell others what they were doing.

N-Plant Work Stoppage Laid To Concrete Errors

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Consumers Power Co. was forced to halt a major portion of construction work on its massive nuclear facility at Midland last month because of recurring mistakes in pouring the plant's reinforced concrete foundations and structural walls.

The unannounced work halt lasted from June 7 to July 1 as company officials and outside consultants checked whether the mistakes made the facility unsafe. They also revamped quality control procedures to insure the problems did not continue.

The existence of the problem was confirmed Friday by officials of Consumers and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) after it was uncovered by one of the prime opponents of the plant.

Consumers and the NRC said outside consultants have determined no safety problem was created although steel reinforcements were erroneously left out of poured concrete in several cases.

To insure safety, some of the deficient concrete was bolstered with additional steel reinforcement which normally would not be needed, Consumers said.

Mary Sinclair of Midland, a leader of the battle in the early 1970s against construction of the plant, said an NRC report on the incident shows the prime contractor, Bechtel Corp., failed to properly monitor the work.

Mrs. Sinclair, a member of the national energy policy committee of the Sierra Club, also pointed out that Bechtel is among the firms being sued by Consumers for allegedly faulty work on the Palisades Nuclear plant at South Haven, which was forced out of service for 20 months because of leaks and vibrations.

DETROIT (AP) — A tentative agreement was announced Friday on local issues in the 10th day of a strike at Chrysler Corporation's Vernor Tool and Die facility in Detroit. A ratification vote was to be held today.

Indian May Return To Fight Gandhi

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A man whose passport was lifted by the Indian government says he may return to his native land to fight in the underground resistance to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Shrikumar Poddar said Friday he has refused to give up his passport as ordered by the Indian embassy, and said he is looking for an attorney in India to fight the order in court. Poddar, a 36-year-old Indian citizen permanently living in Okemos, has been a vocal critic of Mrs. Gandhi and helped found the Indians for Democracy to protest restrictions under her proclaimed state of emergency in India.

The Indian government gave no reason for ordering Poddar to surrender his passport, and said his was the first so impounded. He said the Indian embassy in Washington said four other such letters have been sent, and he said reports indicate 15 more are forthcoming. Poddar said he greeted the order with "some happiness, some joy mixed with some sorrow. I'm very proud to be the first Indian chosen for this distinction in the United States."

He said he may return to India to fight Mrs. Gandhi after the November election in the U.S. He is working on behalf of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, an independent candidate for president. He said the Indian government is not organized enough to stop him from slipping into a small port with his passport.

Eviction Ends Doomsday Vigil In Arkansas

Associated Press Writer
GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — After nearly 10 months in isolation, Sarah Ann Nance Cavner said she was "almost relieved" that the vigil for the Second Coming of Christ was over. Then she began to weep. She and some 30 other persons were evicted by federal marshals Friday from a three-bedroom house where they had waited since last Sept. 29 for the end of the world. The vigil was perhaps hardest on Mrs. Cavner. Her home was repossessed for non-payment, and her 14-year-old daughter, Gay, was taken from her in a custody feud. The judge said Gay was better off with her father, Mrs. Cavner's ex-husband, than in the vigil. "Maybe now Gay can come back," she said. "Maybe now I'll hear from her again. The last letter I got from her was last February." After the eviction, Mrs. Cavner, 37, and more than a dozen other vigil members retreated to the farm house owned by her sister, Elizabeth Nance Bard, also a vigil member. The vigil will continue, Mrs. Bard said, but probably only "in our hearts." "We don't know what we will do," Mrs. Bard added. "But our faith is certainly not shaken." The vigil members said they had expected the world to end and Jesus to arrive before the marshals came. It didn't work out that way. "They based their plans on the assumption that the Lord would come before we arrived," said Lee Owen, one of the marshals. Owen said there were 21 persons who had lived in the house permanently and another six who had lived in the house at various times. Mrs. Bard said there were five to 10 friends in the house when the marshals came. Mrs. Bard, 45, said the vigil members had moved to three or four homes in the Grannis area. Vigil member Gene Nance was asked by reporters if he felt God had deserted the vigil members. "The Lord," he said, "doesn't desert anyone." It was Nance's $15,000 three-bedroom brick house in this isolated community of 177 persons in Southwest Arkansas that was the site of the vigil. The government foreclosed on the mortgage after Nance stopped making payments on the home. The vigil began after Mrs. Bard's maternal aunt, Viola Walker, 67, said she received a message from God that the Second Coming was near. The vigil members took their children from school, quit their jobs, stopped paying their bills and, for a while, refused to tell others what they were doing.

Outdoor Party Host Checklist Covers Seating, Rain, Insects

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

"Come to an outdoor party where prizes will be given to those who can juggle knife, fork and plate in the dark as they stand ankle-deep in wet grass being nibbled by the hungriest mosquitoes in town."

That would be an honest invitation to the average summer outdoor party, a businessman commented the other day, "but they should add that the house is off limits — it can't accommodate a mob."

People provide everything but comfort. The host should spend as much time organizing adequate lighting and seating as the hostess spends on food.

Inviting more people for a meal outdoors than a home can accommodate indoors is an extension of the cocktail-canapee rut, in the opinion of another businessman.

Says one party-goer:

"I've made a decision. I no longer stand up at dinner parties. If they don't have enough seats available at serving time, we go home."

Women complain about grass stains when they must finally sit on grass, and even though they enjoy sitting on stone walls, it isn't too comfortable for long and clothes do get dirty.

A few cushions should be supplied for those who worry about such things, one woman commented. Another added that the ultimate insult is sitting on wet sand when the owner of a two-room beach condominium has invited you and 98 other people for dinner and it has rained all day.

Suggestions from these party-goers include:

— There should be a place for guests to flee when it becomes buggy, rainy, damp or chilly.

If the house cannot accommodate a crowd there should be an outdoor overflow alternative, a screened porch or terrace.

Screening a porch or terrace with mosquito netting is an easy do-it-yourself job and the netting can be saved for another party. The gauze can be stretched across the opening and tacked with thumb tacks.

If you entertain a lot, consider whether it is worth screening the area permanently. It can be put up quickly with a staple gun.

— If you haven't enough chairs outdoors, gather up some heavy carrels, cover them with inexpensive terry cloth or gift wrap paper, but make sure the boxes are strong enough to hold the heaviest of guests.

A home handyman might like to build a few benches.

— A fire pit could be handy when a night turns cool. A simple one might be built the day of the party, but a big stone fireplace with a chimney could be a fixture that the family could enjoy throughout the year.

— Bug-chasing lamps are available and even the old-fashioned scent of citronella should have a psychological effect, if nothing else. Guests will feel something is repelling the attack even if an occasional mosquito penetrates the scene.

One man put black lights of dark red glass in several trees to attract bugs there. He claims it works.

— Outdoor lighting plays a big role in the success of a party. If it is pitch dark, except for a few candles, it will strain eyes and guests may become sleepy.

A more romantic atmosphere might be lights in trees and bushes and beaming a spot from the house.

Attractive, inexpensive torch lights might be stuck into the ground. Candles come in colorful glass containers, some treated with citronella and other repellants, and these can provide a pretty effect.

Home Yard Fixin'

By JAMES E. NEUBAUER
Benton Agricultural Agent
LOOK FOR

Look for leafhoppers and green plant bugs on Moraine and Honey Locust trees. The feeding of large numbers of these insects will cause the leaves to fall. Their presence can be detected by shaking the tree branches to dislodge and force them into flight.

If present, a spray of malathion, Sevin or Meta-Systox-R will control them.

Maple or mulberry trees infested with cottony maple scale should be sprayed now to control the newly-hatched insects. Aphids feeding on maple and many other trees and shrubs are causing a sticky "honeydew" to cover the leaves. Malathion or Diazinon will control them. The same spray will control the newly-hatched fletcher scale on yews. Sevin does not control aphids. Sprays for aphids must be applied thoroughly because they feed on the underside of the leaves and are often missed.

DON'T EAT!

The tomato-like fruits on a potato plant are poisonous and should not be eaten. Rhubarb leaves are also poisonous and should not be eaten.

PLANT NOW

This Patio Starts With Sand

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There are dozens of different ways to make masonry patios, terraces and walkways, involving a multiplicity of designs, materials and methods.

One of the most attractive and easiest involves laying bricks in a bed of sand. Only when making the edging, curbing or outer rows of bricks is any wet mixture utilized. This mixture, one part of Portland cement to two parts of sand (or the prepared "sand mix" which requires only the addition of water), holds the outside bricks in place. Different effects can be obtained by using redwood or other weather-resistant wood for the edging.

The curbing should be laid first, followed by the sand or dry mix installation. In excavating to allow space for the bricks, add two inches to the depth. That is where the bed of sand will go. I have seen excellent results with the use of sand you buy from a building supply dealer or lumber yard and equally good results with a mixture of five parts of sand to one part of Portland cement. This mixture is laid into place dry. You can make any kind of brick design you wish or simply place the bricks next to each other in simple fashion.

As you go along, be sure each brick is set firmly into place and that the top of one brick is level with the top of the next. A long level is handy whether or not a slight pitch is required.

When all the bricks are in place, take some more of the sand or dry mix and drop quantities of it into and along the joints. Use a pushbroom to sweep the sand around until it has settled into the joints. Add more sand and do this again and still again if necessary.

When the joints are pretty well filled, get out the garden hose and sprinkle the patio or walkway, being sure to set the nozzle at a spray setting. Put down more sand or dry mix, get out the pushbroom once more and repeat the operation, the objective always being to pack the joints.

Once you are satisfied that the sand in the joints is fairly well compacted, the job is finished — for the time being. Wait until there is a heavy rain, then go out and see which joints, if any, need more sand. If there should be no rain for a couple of weeks, drag out the hose again and provide your own rain.

This type of patio or walkway doesn't require skill as much as it requires patience in putting the bricks into position carefully.

If you have never worked with masonry in the past, completing the project will give you the confidence to tackle larger and more involved jobs in the future.

"Come to an outdoor party where prizes will be given to those who can juggle knife, fork and plate in the dark as they stand ankle-deep in wet grass being nibbled by the hungriest mosquitoes in town."

That would be an honest invitation to the average summer outdoor party, a businessman commented the other day, "but they should add that the house is off limits — it can't accommodate a mob."

People provide everything but comfort. The host should spend as much time organizing adequate lighting and seating as the hostess spends on food. Inviting more people for a meal outdoors than a home can accommodate indoors is an extension of the cocktail-cane rut, in the opinion of another businessman.

Says one party-goer:

"I've made a decision. I no longer stand up at dinner parties. If they don't have enough seats available at serving time, we go home."

Women complain about grass stains when they must finally sit on grass, and even though they enjoy sitting on stone walls, it isn't too comfortable for long and clothes do get dirty.

A few cushions should be supplied for those who worry about such things, one woman commented. Another added that the ultimate insult is sitting on wet sand when the owner of a two-room beach condominium has invited you and 98 other people for dinner and it has rained all day.

Suggestions from these party-goers include:

— There should be a place for guests to flee when it becomes buggy, rainy, damp or chilly.

If the house cannot accommodate a crowd there should be an outdoor overflow alternative, a screened porch or terrace.

Screening a porch or terrace with mosquito netting is an easy do-it-yourself job and the netting can be saved for another party. The gauze can be stretched across the opening and tacked with thumb tacks.

If you entertain a lot, consider whether it is worth screening the area permanently. It can be put up quickly with a staple gun.

— If you haven't enough chairs outdoors, gather up some heavy cartons, cover them with inexpensive terry cloth or gift wrap paper, but make sure the boxes are strong enough to hold the heaviest of guests.

A home handyman might like to build a few benches.

— A fire pit could be handy when a night turns cool. A simple one might be built the day of the party, but a big stone fireplace with a chimney could be a fixture that the family could enjoy throughout the year.

— Bug-chasing lamps are available and even the old-fashioned scent of citronella should have a psychological effect, if nothing else. Guests will feel something is repelling the attack even if an occasional mosquito penetrates the scene.

One man put black lights of dark red glass in several trees to attract bugs there. He claims it works.

— Outdoor lighting plays a big role in the success of a party. If it is pitch dark, except for a few candles, it will strain eyes and guests may become sleepy.

A more romantic atmosphere might be lights in trees and bushes and beaming a spot from the house.

Attractive, inexpensive torch lights might be stuck into the ground. Candles come in colorful glass containers, some treated with citronella and other repellants, and these can provide a pretty effect.

LOOK FOR

Look for leafhoppers and green plant bugs on Moraine and Honey Locust trees. The feeding of large numbers of these insects will cause the leaves to fall. Their presence can be detected by shaking the tree branches to dislodge and force them into flight.

If present, a spray of malathion, Sevin or Meta-Systox-R will control them.

Maple or mulberry trees infested with cottony maple scale should be sprayed now to control the newly-hatched insects. Aphids feeding on maple and many other trees and shrubs are causing a sticky "honeydew" to cover the leaves. Malathion or Diazinon will control them. The same spray will control the newly-hatched fletcher scale on yews. Sevin does not control aphids. Sprays for aphids must be applied thoroughly because they feed on the underside of the leaves and are often missed.

DON'T EAT!

The tomato-like fruits on a potato plant are poisonous and should not be eaten. Rhubarb leaves are also poisonous and should not be eaten.

PLANT NOW

You can plant snapbeans, beets, chinese cabbage, kale, cauliflower (plants), lettuce, peas, radishes, spinach, and turnips now for fall.

HOUSE DESIGN 6028: This attractive Spanish-style ranch home well organized to suit family living needs. The formal areas—a spacious living room and adjoining dining area—are at front. The areas where the family will spend the most time are placed at back, away from street noises. A good-sized family room with a handsome fireplace has access to the terrace and opens on the efficient and airy kitchen with its cheerful dinette. A laundry room is close by, with access to the yard and to a lavatory and a study that could double as a guest or maid's room. Garage entrance is nearby. Home has a full cellar. Garage is attached.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN: Roll-around garden cart is ready when you are to tackle green-thumb chores. Built of exterior plywood, it stores long-handled and short-handled tools in special racks. There's space for other aids in cabinet. Swivel caster at rear makes it easy to handle. Cart is 3' wide; 2'6" deep; 3'4" high.

This Patio Starts With Sand

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There are dozens of different ways to make masonry patios, terraces and walkways, involving a multiplicity of designs, materials and methods.

One of the most attractive and easiest involves laying bricks in a bed of sand. Only when making the edging, curbing or outer rows of bricks is any wet mixture utilized. This mixture, one part of Portland cement to two parts of sand (or the prepared "sand mix" which requires only the addition of water), holds the outside bricks in place. Different effects can be obtained by using redwood or other weather-resistant wood for the edging.

The curbing should be laid first, followed by the sand or dry mix installation. In excavating to allow space for the bricks, add two inches to the depth. That is where the bed of sand will go. I have seen excellent results with the use of sand you buy from a building supply dealer or lumber yard and equally good results with a mixture of five parts of sand to one part of Portland cement. This mixture is laid into place dry. You can make any kind of brick design you wish or simply place the bricks next to each other in simple fashion.

As you go along, be sure each brick is set firmly into place and that the top of one brick is level with the top of the next. A long level is handy whether or not a slight pitch is required.

When all the bricks are in place, take some more of the sand or dry mix and drop quantities of it into and along the joints. Use a pushbroom to sweep the sand around until it has settled into the joints. Add more sand and do this again and still again if necessary.

When the joints are pretty well filled, get out the garden hose and sprinkle the patio or walkway, being sure to set the nozzle at a spray setting. Put down more sand or dry mix, get out the pushbroom once more and repeat the operation, the objective always being to pack the joints.

Once you are satisfied that the sand in the joints is fairly well compacted, the job is finished — for the time being. Wait until there is a heavy rain, then go out and see which joints, if any, need more sand. If there should be no rain for a couple of weeks, drag out the hose again and provide your own rain. This type of patio or walkway doesn't require skill as much as it requires patience in putting the bricks into position carefully.

If you have never worked with masonry in the past, completing the project will give you confidence to tackle larger and more involved jobs in the future.

Special Team To Probe Illness In Tainted Stock

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state agriculture department has formed a special investigative team aimed at ending controversy over sick livestock which farmers said were poisoned by low levels of PBB.

PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic fire retardant, was accidentally mixed with Michigan cattle feed in 1973. Tens of thousands of heavily contaminated animals were slaughtered, but some 800 herds with low levels of PBB still can be sold for human consumption. Some farmers whose herds contain small amounts of PBB said the sickness is caused by PBB.

"We still have people that are saying there's lots of herds out there sick and dead cows lying all over. The rumors keep going, and we thought we would lay this to rest if possible, round it out," George Whitehead said Friday. Whitehead is deputy director of the state agriculture department's consumer protection division.

"This is not a question of human health or threat to the public food supply," department Director B. Dale Ball said.

Farmers have complained in the past that although their herds contained only small amounts of PBB — less than federal tolerance levels — the animals were ill. However, Whitehead said "very few" farmers are complaining.

He said the department did not form its team earlier because the herds are under the tolerance level.

"We have no legal authority nor have we had any real indication that these herds have PBB problems. It appears to me we're right down to the rock bottom on this. We want to make contact, make sure everything is all right, end the controversy."

The team is made up of two veterinarians — one from the agriculture department and one from Michigan State University; and an animal nutrition scientist from MSU.

Michigan Mental Patient Held In Airliner Beating

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Police said a 27-year-old Michigan mental patient who was on unauthorized leave was charged with attempted murder in the severe beating of a 6-year-old boy aboard a Chicago-bound jetliner and the shooting of a policeman.

Authorities Friday identified the suspect in the incident which occurred Thursday as Warren J. Compeau, 27, of Heron, Mich., who also is wanted by authorities in Florida on a robbery charge.

Gary O. Gilmore, chief of medical administration at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Battle Creek, said Compeau was last admitted to the hospital on Oct. 8, 1975, but went on unauthorized absence on Nov. 8.

Compeau also was involved in a confrontation with police after he escaped from the Battle Creek facility two years ago, authorities said.

The boy, Juan Ortiz, was beaten in the restroom of the jetliner and the policeman, Sgt. Porfirio Diaz, was shot when officers tried to remove Com-peau from the plane after it returned to San Juan.

Eastern Airlines said it did not know a mental patient was among the 149 passengers on the Thursday flight. An Eastern spokesman charged the Veterans Administration, which was sending the patient to a hospital in Michigan, had violated federal law by failing to tell the airline the man was a potentially violent mental patient.

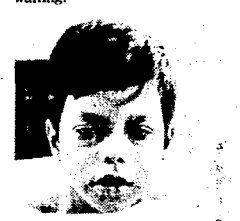

Sgt. Diaz was in serious condition with bullet wounds in the chest and hand. Ortiz was hospitalized in critical condition, but his condition later improved.

Compeau was being accompanied by two nurses, a man and a woman. He reportedly followed the boy into the restroom.

When the door was opened, the man was found bending over the boy, beating him in the face.

Crew members and the nurses brought the man under control, put leather restraints on his wrists and ankles and injected him with a sedative. When the plane landed, an ambulance and policemen were waiting.

CG Creates New Fleet

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The Coast Guard plans to create a fleet of powerful rescue vessels for use in heavy storms following the sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald last November, a Coast Guard official says. Rear Adm. James S. Gracey told a congressional inquiry Friday the Coast Guard was replacing its fleet of 110-foot harbor tugs with more powerful 140-foot vessels which can be used for rescue work during severe weather. Members of the House subcommittee on Coast Guard navigation held the hearing on search and rescue capabilities at the request of Reps. Philip Ruppe of Michigan and James Oberstar of Minnesota. The hearing resulted from the sinking of the Fitzgerald during a storm on Lake Superior last November. All 29 crew members died. Gracey told the committee the new rescue boats are under construction. Some of the vessels already have been stationed on the Great Lakes.

He's Clearly In Trouble

COPEMISH, Mich. (AP) — The president of this Manistee County village clearly is in trouble with his fellow council members. Linda Collins, leader of a recall drive against Richard Brown, said four of the six council members were the first persons to sign her recall petitions. Mrs. Collins sought Brown's recall because he fired her husband, Gary, as village marshal shortly after Brown took office last March.

WMU Hikes Tuition Again

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Western Michigan University's trustees raised tuition Friday for the third time in just over a year. The $3 per credit hour increase for all students will bring hourly rates for Michigan undergraduates to $25.50, while non-resident undergrads will pay $57.50. Tuition for graduate students will be $33.50 and $73.50 per hour, respectively. The trustees said the latest increase is needed to raise staff salaries. It takes effect in the fall. Western also raised tuition in January and last July.

Convenient Jury Duty

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation intended to make jury duty more convenient and to distribute responsibility for serving on juries will be considered this fall by the state House. The package of bills, introduced by Rep. Jeffrey Padden, D-Wyandotte, would require circuit courts throughout the state to adopt a method of calling jurors which shortens the term of service and eliminates exemptions from jury duty. A version of the system, known as the one day-one trial method, has been in use in Wayne County Circuit Court since last September.

Lawyers Want Bonds Cut

TROY, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association executive board censured two Pontiac district judges Friday for setting high bonds against persons charged with drug trafficking at Pontiac Stadium rock concerts. The 20-member MTLA board also asked Judges Robert Cunningham and James Stelt to review the bonds and reduce them to "reasonable levels." The board also demanded a public apology from Cunningham because he made statements the MTLA board felt implied that those arrested were guilty. Cunningham set bonds of $25,000 for persons charged with selling heroin, pills and marijuana at the June 26 Bob Seger concert and set $10,000 bonds against persons charged with possession. Stelt set bonds from $5,000 to $85,000 for 13 persons arrested on drug charges at the July 11 Elton John concert.

Judge Blasts High Court

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Justin C. Ravitz Friday blasted the state Court of Appeals for allowing its former chief judge to withdraw as court-appointed attorney for a convicted dope dealer. Ravitz Friday appealed the appeals court's decision to the state Supreme Court. Ravitz said the appeals court granted the request of its former chief judge without the customary filing of papers that accompany such a request. Ravitz said the first he heard of the appeals court's decision was when the court notified him it had granted T. John Lesinski's request. Ravitz appointed Lesinski, now a private attorney, as legal counsel for Harold "Rock" Davis following his conviction in the 10th Precinct drug conspiracy trial involving several policemen and alleged drug dealers. Lesinski tried to withdraw from the case, but Ravitz denied his motion. Then, Lesinski went to the appeals court.

Charge Two In Store Break-In

STEVEN M. ANGIER

CHARLES V. LeBON
Also arrested

Two men were arrested Friday in connection with the break-in last May 1 of the Lakeshore pharmacy, 5746 James drive, Lincoln township, reported Berrien Sheriff's Det. Gary Methling. Booked on charges of breaking and entering were Charles Victor LeBon, 21, of 934 Woodland avenue, Watervliet; and Steven M. Angier, 19, of 1114 Market street, St. Joseph.

Methling said they were arrested on warrants, authorized by the Berrien prosecutor's office, following an extensive investigation.

Berrien sheriff's officers following the May 1 break-in reported that stolen items included suspected narcotics, cash totaling $150, a calculator, and pad of prescription slips.

Methling did not say if any loot had been recovered. He said LeBon was arrested in downtown Watervliet and Angier was arrested in the 3000 block of Niles avenue, St. Joseph.

Methling credited St. Joseph township police for aiding the investigation and said the investigation also includes an attempted break-in last May 28 at the Richard Gillespie pharmacy, 2020 Washington avenue, St. Joseph township.

Body Found In Chimney

DETROIT (AP) — The body of a man who may have been trying to break into a clothing store was found wedged in the store's chimney Friday, police said. The decomposed body of the man, tentatively identified as Larry Fairfax, 26, was discovered near the base of a chimney inside LaBenski's Men's Wear Store after clerks complained of an odor. The Wayne County Medical Examiner's office says the body had been in the chimney six to eight weeks. Police speculated the man might have been trying break into the store.

Odds Are Against It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's lottery subscription system has produced winners for the weekly super drawing for seven straight weeks when the odds say winners should turn up only once every 21 days. The subscription system has passed 150,000 members, the lottery bureau reported. Under the plan, subscribers are entered in the 50-cent weekly "green" game drawing for a year.

The lottery said each week for the past seven weeks a subscription member has advanced to the weekly "Super Play" show.

Age, Sex Bias Suit

DETROIT (AP) — A $900,000 age and sex discrimination suit has been filed against General Motors Corp. by Katherine Kellogg, granddaughter of John H. Kellogg, brother of cereal magnate W.K. Kellogg. Miss Kellogg, 56, of Flint, filed her suit in Wayne County Circuit Court. An employee at the GM Parts Division in Swartz Creek, near Flint, Miss Kellogg charged in her suit that GM has discriminated against her and alleges a GM supervisor threw her into a chair and refused to allow her to leave a room when she sought to change her vacation schedule. It also alleges she has been discriminated against because of her interest in joining the United Auto Workers. "They were also trying to get me to retire before my 55th birthday. I was astounded," she said.

A Costly 'Name Game'

Officials at Grossmont Hospital in La Mesa, Calif., say someone stuck them with a hospital bill of more than $1,000 by using the identification of a dead Michigan man. La Mesa police are looking for a man with "Harley" tattooed on his right arm and the picture of a long-haired woman on his left arm with the name "Tiffany" underneath it. Elmore Kinzer, Grossmont's financial manager, said the man came in on June 19, June 21 and July 2 for treatment of an abdominal stab wound. He gave three different California addresses and two in El Cajon, and used the name Keith Rommel. But the San Diego County coroner's office said Thursday that the real Keith Rommel, from Union Lake, Mich., was found in his car in San Diego June 23. He had died of a drug overdose, coroner's officials said.

Children Escape Kidnapers' Den

reporters. Bus driver Frank Edward Ray Jr., 55, told authorities the bus was stopped Thursday afternoon by a van blocking the road.

"When the driver stopped, one gunman came out toward the bus," Alameda County Sheriff Thomas Houchins told a news conference three hours after the children and driver were found Friday night.

Houchins said Ray and the children were herded into two vans with covered windows and were driven to the California Rock & Gravel Co. quarry near Livermore, arriving about 3:30 a.m.

They were forced to enter a small underground cavern with only a tiny entry hole above, which the abductors sealed with timber and steel, Houchins said. But all the children and the bus driver managed to escape by digging their way out through the blocked opening, Houchins said. He said they all walked toward some lights where they found the maintenance man, who called authorities.

All were reported unharmed, but some were treated for exposure, authorities said.

"The first thing they said was that they were hungry and wanted to see their moms and dads," said a sheriff's deputy who helped lead the youngsters into a bus for transport to the county's Santa Rita prison farm six miles away where they were fed, given a change of clothing and medical examinations.

Houchins said his office received a telephone call from a maintenance worker at the quarry at 8:15 p.m. Friday reporting the missing children were there.

A fireman who was the first to arrive said some of the children were cold and a couple were crying, but none was hurt.

Wild cheering and applause greeted the announcement in Chowchilla that the children and the driver had been recovered alive and in good shape. A festive scene of unrestrained back-slapping and happy exchanges followed as the tension finally broke. Reporters said it looked like a party.

"I'm just really thankful," said Chowchilla resident Julie Madersbach. Others wept for joy.

President Ford had ordered the FBI to brief him personally on the progress of the investigation as FBI Director Clarence Kelley sent a large force of agents, tracking dogs and crime experts to the scene.

News of the recovery was withheld for a time as authorities ordered a stakeout in the quarry area on a chance that the kidnapers were planning to return. But word of the recovery leaked out, and hundreds of curious people descended on the quarry area.

"We have no idea whether this kidnaping was for the purpose of political terrorism or for ransom or for anything else. We have nothing," Sheriff Houchins, told reporters shortly before midnight.

FBI spokesman Bates said the abductors were wearing stocking masks and said little beyond ordering the children to the rear of the school bus before they were put into the vans.

The children were taken to the nearby Santa Rita county jail facility, where photographers were allowed to photograph some of them, but none of the kidnap victims was allowed to speak with reporters.

Some children were being interviewed by authorities while others slept on desks. They were wearing jail-issue white overalls. They were dirty but appeared in good spirits as they laughed for photographers.

After the announcement of the children being safe, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. issued a statement saying:

"I want to publicly thank law enforcement and public agencies and concerned citizens who aided in the search for the 26 missing Chowchilla youngsters and their driver. We can all be very grateful they were found safe. The state will assist in every possible way to assure that their abductors are swiftly brought to justice."

Barney Maciolek, in the cement business, said he had occasion to visit the quarry often and was puzzled as to how the kidnap victims got there. He said the area was very secure. He said it was his guess that they must have been held in the rear portion of the quarry since the front part was being worked for gravel.

Knowledge of the bizarre kidnaping began to develop at about 4:15 p.m. Thursday, when parents started telephoning Madera County authorities that the bus bringing their children back from their day outing was late.

A land search proved fruitless and an aircraft was sent aloft to search. Several hours later, the bus was spotted from the air. It had been driven into a dry canal and backed into a thicket of bamboo off California 152.

Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said two sets of tire tracks had been discovered superimposed on the bus tracks.

The disappearance appeared to be a precision mass abduction and he was "waiting to be contacted," Sheriff Bates told parents and reporters who crowded his command post at the Chowchilla Police Department on Friday.

During the early morning hours Friday a statewide alert was issued for at least three vans. CHP officers were ordered to stop all vans carrying more than two persons. But no hard clues or leads "of any substance" were reported by the FBI or local and state officials.

Later Friday, Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally said it appeared to him unlikely that the group was kidnaped by terrorists for political purposes.

"In political kidnappings they make contact sooner. At least that seems to be the pattern," Dymally said.

Dymally said a witness who was not identified saw a white van preceding the school bus shortly before it vanished as it brought the children from their outing.

"There's no blood, no evidence of foul play at the bus," Sheriff Bates said after the bus was located. "I absolutely can't figure it. We can't find anybody who has a motive."

Car-Bike Crackup Hurts Teen

Benton Harbor police said Joseph Campbell, 13, of 477 Maple street, was treated and released from Mercy hospital after a bicycle he was riding and an auto collided on a sidewalk at the entrance to a driveway at 535 Pipestone street at 5:04 p.m. Friday.

Police identified the driver as David Hayes, 535 Pipestone, who reported he was exiting the driveway and unable to see the bicycle in time. No tickets were issued, police reported.

Viking Eyes Site One More Time

PASADENA (AP) — Just three days before the climax of a space adventure eight years in the making, Viking 1 was to photograph its target area in the Martian desert one more time for hazards that could endanger its landing craft.

If no boulder, rocky prominence or pothole is revealed in the pictures to be taken today, plans will go forward for the unmanned landing attempt Tuesday morning.

The site where Viking could make history by landing safely is called the Western Slope of the Chryse Basin. It is a desert-like area, cratered by meteorites and, like the maria or "seas" of the moon, probably covered with sheets of hardened volcanic lava.

'Routine' Became Bizarre

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — At 4 p.m. Thursday, 31 Dairyland School

Then the remaining 26 children and driver Ed Ray were started on an odyssey that ended more than 24 hours later when authorities found them shivering at a rock quarry 95 miles to the north.

Here is the chronology of the abduction, according to Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates and Alameda County Sheriff Thomas Houchins:

4:10 p.m. Thursday — The bus drops off the last of five children let off at three regular stops. The girl who was the last to alight sees nothing abnormal, but a witness driving behind the bus spots a white van on the road ahead.

4:15 p.m. — Ray halts his bus to avoid hitting a van in the middle of the road. A masked, armed man boards the bus and directs Ray to a dried-out drainage ditch, where three captives wearing stocking masks herd the children and Ray into two vans.

4:35 p.m. — Parents begin calling the school to ask about their children.

4:50 p.m. — First word of the missing bus is received by the Chowchilla Police Department. A search begins.

7:15 p.m. — Madera County Sheriff's Sgt. Dennis Ring spots the abandoned bus from a plane. It has been partially obscured in a bamboo grove.

2 a.m. Friday — A light rain begins falling and the 30 officers searching the area call off their efforts until daybreak. Some parents spend the night at police headquarters.

3:30 a.m. — The vans arrive at the California Rock and Gravel Co. quarry near Livermore, 95 miles north of Chowchilla. The captives are ordered into an underground quarry. A hole above is sealed with timbers and steel.

6 a.m. — The search resumes, with help from volunteers who trickle in throughout the morning.

6:30 a.m. — The FBI says it is sending agents to the scene.

11:30 a.m. — Robert E. Gethardt of the FBI arrives in Chowchilla from Los Angeles to "take personal charge" of the case. In Washington, President Ford says he is "very concerned" and asks the FBI to keep him informed. The search continues all day with scarcely a clue.

8:15 p.m. — The kidnap victims manage to escape by digging their way out their makeshift prison and walk toward some lights, where they find a maintenance worker, who calls authorities.

Cyclist Injured In Collision

Philip A. Prentkowski, 18, of 1975 High Ridge road, Buchanan, received apparently minor injuries at 2:55 p.m. Friday, when a motorcycle he was riding and an auto collided on M-130 at the 1-94 exit ramp in Benton township, reported state police at the Benton Harbor post.

Troopers identified the driver of the auto as George A. Werp, 72, Grand Rapids. Troopers said Werp reported he stopped at a stop sign before driving from the exit ramp onto M-130 and did not see the motorcycle.

Troopers said Prentkowski reported he would seek his own medical aid. Troopers said Werp was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

'Routine' Became Bizarre

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) At 4 p.m. Thursday, Dairyland School

Then the remaining children and driver Ed Bates were started on an odyssey ended more than 24 hours later when authorities found them shivering at a rock quarry miles to the north.

Here is the chronology of abduction, according to Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates, Alameda County Sheriff Thomas Houchins:

4:10 p.m. Thursday — The drops off the last of five child let off at three regular stops. The girl who was the last alight sees nothing abnormal but a witness driving behind bus spots a white van on road ahead.

4:15 p.m. — Ray halts his to avoid hitting a van in middle of the road. A masked man boards the bus directs Ray to a dried drainage ditch, where the captors wearing stocking masks herded the children and Ray into two vans.

4:35 p.m. — Parents begin calling the school to ask for their children.

4:50 p.m. — First word of missing bus is received by Chowchilla Police Department search begins.

7:15 p.m. — Madera County Sheriff's Sgt. Dennis Ring searches the abandoned bus from plane. It has been partially cured in a bamboo grove.

2 a.m. Friday — A light begins falling and the 30 off searching the area call off efforts until daybreak. So parents spend the night police headquarters.

3:30 a.m. — The vans arrive the California Rock and Gravel Co. quarry near Livermore, miles north of Chowchilla. Captives are ordered into underground quarry. A tunnel above is sealed with timber and steel.

6 a.m. — The search resumes with help from volunteers trickle in throughout the morning.

6:30 a.m. — The FBI says sending agents to the scene.

11:30 a.m. — Robert Gebhardt of the FBI arrives Chowchilla from Los Angeles "take personal charge" of case. In Washington, President Ford says he is "very concerned" and asks the FBI keep him informed. The case continues all day with scarce clues.

8:15 p.m. — The kidnap victims manage to escape by cutting their way out through makeshift prison and toward some lights, where they find a maintenance worker, who calls authorities.

Farm Worker Killed In Mobile Home Fire

A Bainbridge township farm worker died in an early morning blaze today which swept through the mobile home he lived in, according to Watervliet firemen.

The victim was identified as Alvin Eugene Hardin, about 37. He was employed for the past five years on the Albert Weckwerth farm, 7725 East Empire avenue, Bainbridge township, where he lived in the trailer.

Watervliet Fire Chief Paul Muth said the blaze, discovered at 5:40 a.m., was believed to have been caused by smoking in bed. The old, 30 by 8-foot mobile home valued at about $500, was completely destroyed.

Muth said the victim's badly burned body was found on the bedroom floor near the back door. Hardin's body was taken to Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, where an autopsy was to be performed to determine the cause of death, according to Lt. Nigel Krickhahn of the Berrien sheriff's department and a captain with the fire department.

He said Hardin apparently was alone in the trailer when the fire broke out.

The fire was reported by a neighbor, Howard Mundt Jr., who spotted a glow in the sky.

Berrien Officers Capture Escapees

By STEVE SAGER

GALIEN — Two escapees from the Indiana State prison at Michigan City were captured by Berrien Sheriff's deputies southeast of here last night after a six-mile chase.

Deputies said the apprehension came about an hour after prison officials reported the two trustees were spotted driving away from a construction detail outside prison walls in a correction facility truck.

They were identified as Ransdall Dooley and Raymond Glasgow, both 33. Deputies said the pair was lodged in the Berrien county jail, St. Joseph, on charges of possession of stolen property over $100 and fugitives from the prison.

Both men refused to waive extradition to Indiana, deputies said. Deputy Larry Casto said the two men were taken into custody after the van truck they were driving was stopped on Buffalo road, near Dayton road, southeast of Galien, about 7:30 p.m.

Casto said he was patrolling US-12 near Galien when he spotted the van that matched the description of a truck identified by Indiana State police as being driven by the prisoners.

Casto said he attempted to stop the van and gave chase after the truck sped away. Following a six-mile chase on US-12 and County road, the pair was apprehended by deputies and state police from the Niles post, Casto said.

Deputies said neither man was armed and the pair did not resist arrest after the van was stopped.

Indiana state police reported the pair drove away from a work detail in a prison truck about 6:30 p.m. (EST) and abandoned it after allegedly stealing a van truck from a Michigan City tavern located near the prison.

Leo Jenkins, prison warden, said both men were trustees who lived in a "honor dormitory" outside prison walls.

Jenkins said Dooley began serving a 10-year sentence for robbery in Aug. of 1974, after being sentenced in the southeastern Indiana county of Clark. Glasgow began serving a 1 to 10-years-sentence one month later for committing a felony while armed, after being sentenced in central Indiana's Marion county.

CAPTURED FUGITIVES: Two T-shirted escapees from Indiana state prison at Michigan City stand handcuffed next to Berrien county squad car moments after their capture early last night. ## Crash Kills One, Injures Two

RUBEN REYES
Traffic victim

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A 22-year-old Apopka, Fla., man was killed early this morning in a single-car accident just east of here, according to Berrien Sheriff's deputies.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital due to massive head injuries was Ruben Reyes, deputies reported. Two brothers in the auto with Reyes were hospitalized as a result of the crash.

Reported this morning in "poor" condition at Berrien General hospital was Juan Diaz Jr., 17, while listed in "critical" condition at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, was Jose Diaz, 19.

All three were farm workers at the Leonard Frank farm, Berrien Center.

Jose Diaz was first taken to Berrien General and then transferred to Bronson. The traffic death was the 20th in Berrien county this year compared to 22 at this time last year.

Deputies reported it was not immediately determined who the driver of the auto was and an investigation continues. The auto was registered to Juan Diaz Sr. of the Leonard Frank farm.

Sgt. James Bale, who investigated the accident, said the auto was eastbound on Deans Hill road about 12:58 a.m. when it went into a skid of about 121 feet after apparently trying to

The auto hit an embankment and then crashed into a telephone pole. Reyes was thrown from the vehicle.

Funeral services for Ruben Reyes will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at St. Gabriel Catholic church, Berrien Springs. Burial will be in South Union cemetery.

He was born May 28, 1954, in Endinberg, Texas. Survivors include his parents, Margarito and Marcelina Reyes; four brothers, Eliacar, Jaime, Javier, Juan; and five sisters, Maria, Olga, Alma, Gloria, Rosa.

Liturgical prayers will be recited Monday at 7 p.m. at the Bowerman funeral home, Eau Claire, where friends may call.

FATAL CRASH: One man was killed and two brothers hospitalized in single car traffic accident involving this auto. Accident occurred about 12:58 a.m. in Berrien township near intersection of Deans Hill road and Pucker street. Killed was Ruben Reyes, 22, Apopka, Fla. ## Taiwan, Nigeria Pull Out

Olympics Underway

MONTREAL (AP) — The Olympic Games, at last, have gone from the board rooms and council halls of the politicians and administrators to the stadiums and pools and playing fields of the athletes.

These athletes, 7,000 strong and representing 112 nations, inaugurated the Games of the XXI Olympiad today with the pomp, pageantry and parade of the traditional opening ceremony.

Missing from their ranks, however, were the teams of Taiwan and Nigeria, victims of the varied political crises that, as late as Thursday, threatened the very existence of the Games.

The Taiwanese withdrew after the International Olympic Committee voted overwhelmingly to change their official designation to "Taiwan" from "Republic of China," the name

Canada — with its strong economic ties to Communist China — refused to allow and the name the Taiwanese insisted they must have.

Nigeria withdrew in protest of New Zealand's participation. The tour of South Africa, excluded from the Olympic movement for its apartheid policies, by a New Zealand rugby team has angered other African nations and caused the boycott of the Games by Somalia, Mauritius and Tanzania.

The possibility exists that still others may follow.

The competition begins Sunday.

The United States, Russia, East and West Germany are expected to dominate that competition, which will be televised to more than 60 nations and about one billion viewers, one quarter of the world's population.

The early spotlight will center on swimming, where the American men and the East German women are heavily favored. The United States could, conceivably, win all 13 events.

The grace and beauty of gymnastics also is on show Sunday night with the tiny little Russian girl, Olga Korbut — who captured the hearts of the world in Munich — again ranked second to her teammate, Lyudmila Turishcheva.

Track and field begins Friday. It has been robbed of its premier attraction, potentially the highlight of the entire Games, the match-up of Filbert Bayi and John Walker of New Zealand in the 1,500 meters, the metric mile. Bayi, the world record holder in the event at 3:32.2, was lost to the Games when his country, Tanzania, decided not to compete. Walker holds the world record in the mile, 3:40.4.

A deadly serious American basketball team is seeking to regain the gold medal it lost for the first time in Munich four years ago. The U.S. plays Italy in its first game of the round-robin tournament.

The opening day of competition also features shooting, another sport in which Americans are expected to do well.

The Games, which end Aug. 1, have cost the Canadians $1.4 billion in construction and preparation costs. Montreal originally budgeted $445 million. Strikes, scandals and cost overruns ate up the rest of it.

And it isn't yet complete. The Olympic Stadium is finished only to a degree. Huge cranes still hang over the saucer-shaped facility that seats some 70,000.

FOUR IS LUCKY NUMBER: Willie Davenport, 33, joins Martha Watson, 29, in holding up four fingers to signify their participation in the fourth Olympic Games for both. Davenport will run in the 110-meter hurdle event and Watson will participate in the long jump. (AP Wirephoto)

Politics Cloud Olympics
Two-China Question Heart Of Problems

By GEOFFREY MILLER

AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Politics are expected to cloud the Olympic movement in the next few years and China will be at the heart of it all.

The day of the opening ceremony of the Montreal Games dawned, but politics would not go away. As Taiwan and Nigeria walked out and other African countries were reported ready to follow, Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, set the likely scene between now and the next Olympic Games in Moscow in 1980.

"In the next year or two the whole China question must be discussed with reality," Killanin said.

That means more politics. The IOC must decide: —Should Mainland China with its 800 millions be admitted to the Games, and on what terms?

Will Taiwan continue to be recognized? Or will it be sacrificed to Peking, which says its athletes will never compete alongside those of the island fortress that calls itself the Republic of China?

China has stuck in the IOC's gutlet for 20 years, ever since the refugee Chinese Nationalist Committee fled from the Communist mainland and settled in Taiwan.

In the days of the late president Avery Brundage, the IOC made a brief and unsuccessful attempt to recognize two Chinas. Peking would not have it.

Last year the All-China Sports Federation applied to the IOC for recognition, demanding that Taiwan be kicked out. And that led indirectly to the Taiwan row in Montreal.

Canada, under pressure from Peking, refused entry to Taiwanese athletes unless they dropped the name of the Republic of China. The IOC, after bitter protests over Canada's attitude, pleaded with the Taiwanese to call themselves Taiwan. They walked out instead.

The change of name was proposed for the Montreal Games only. "The position on Taiwan is a status quo," Killanin said, meaning it is still recognized as the Republic of China.

The IOC is taking its time over Peking's application. The row involving the Africans blew up because New Zealand sent a rugby team to tour segregationist South Africa.

Jean-Claude Ganga, secretary of the Supreme Council for Sport in Africa, handed a letter to the IOC demanding that New Zealand be kicked out of the games, and hinting that they may withdraw if their demand was not met. Ganga said, however, that any such decision would have to be made by the various teams' individual governments at home and would be on a team-by-team basis.

Killanin, in a written reply, said rugby is not an Olympic sport and the New Zealand Olympic Committee has nothing to do with the rugby team.

Lance Cross, IOC member for New Zealand, said the IOC gave Killanin 100 per cent backing. That included the eight African members, Cross added. But Nigeria's walkout was announced within two hours.

Cards Take Advantage Of Rare Jones Off Night

Sometimes a pitcher will win a game even when he doesn't have his best stuff. The line drives will go right at batters, the shots down the line will curve foul, the long blasts will be caught on the warning track.

Sometimes, but not always.

Randy Jones didn't have his best stuff Friday night, and while he didn't exactly get ruckied up, he didn't make any progress towards that 30-win season. The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of Jones' off-night and came away with a 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"I didn't feel good," said Jones, baseball's winningest pitcher with a 19-4 record. "I never really found my rhythm all night. It was tough, mentally, coming back after the All-Star game. I told myself it wouldn't be — but it was."

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Francisco Giants edged the Philadelphia

Phillies 1-0, the Houston Astros trimmed the New York Mets 4-3, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3 in 10 innings, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Atlanta Braves 7-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1.

Bobby Murcer broke up the Cardinals' season with his 12th home run of the year, with two out in the ninth inning. The pitching duel between the Giants' Ed Halicki and the Phils' Jim Kaat — oth of whom pitched six-hitters — took just one hour, 32 minutes to complete.

Montreal took a 3-2 victory in the top of the 10th on pinch-hitter Jose Morales' infield chop, scoring Mike Jorgensen from third. But the Reds came back with two runs in the bottom of the 10th.

Joe Murgan drew a leadoff walk, moved to second on an infield out and scored the tying run on Bill Plummer's single. After Tony Perez was intentionally walked and Cesar Geronimo singled to load the bases, Dave Concepcion lined reliever Joe Kerrigan's first pitch into left field to drive home the winning run.

Houston got all its runs in the fourth inning off Jon Matlack, 10-3, three of them on Bob Watson's 10th home run of the season. Larry Dierker, 9-8, making his first start since pitching a no-hitter against Montreal July 9, got the victory, with relief help from Gene Pentz in the sixth inning.

Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell hit two-run homers and Jerry Rense scattered 10 hits for Pittsburgh. Zisk's 11th homer highlighted a five-run first inning and Stargell belted his 12th of the season in the second.

Steve Renko's throwing error let in the go-ahead run for the Dodgers in the sixth inning, and Los Angeles added two more in the eighth on Bill Russell's fifth homer of the year and Dave Lopes' RBI triple. It was the Dodgers' third victory in a row and sixth in the last eight games.

Disabled List
For Thomas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants placed second baseman Derrel Thomas on the 15-day disabled list Friday night and recalled infielder Bruce Miller from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League.

Thomas has a sore thigh muscle, the Giants said.

The all-star was struck Friday night on the little finger of his left hand by a pitch from Montreal Expos pitcher Don Stanhouse. Bench left the game after the second-inning incident. Club officials said X rays showed no fracture, but did not know how long Bench would be out of action.

The Friday night start was Bench's first since suffering a bruised shoulder from a foul tip Tuesday night at the All-Star Game in Philadelphia.

Bench, who has missed 16 games this year entirely and seen just pinch-hitting duty in others, is batting .232.

Error Helps Sox Topple Brewers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — A two-out error opened the way for singles by Lamar Johnson and Bucky Dent, keying a three-run fourth inning, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2 Friday night.

Jerry Augustine, 2-7, was the victim of second-baseman Tim Johnson's bunt which led to three unearned runs.

Winner Bart Johnson, 8-8, went 7-1/3 innings. Wayne Nordhagen got his first big-league hit with one out in the fourth. Jorge Orta walked and after Kevin Bell popped up, Johnson bobbled Brian Downing's ground ball.

Lamar Johnson followed with a single that bounced off Augustine's shin, scoring Nordhagen. Dent followed with a single to right, scoring Orta and Downing.

Augustine had to leave the game after the inning with a bruised leg.

The Brewers — who scored a run in the third on Tim Johnson's bunt single, a stolen base and a sacrifice fly — scored again on three straight singles in the fifth. The White Sox added single runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

In other American League games Friday, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Boston 5-1 and 2-1, Baltimore edged California 5-4, Detroit nipped Oakland 1-0 in 11 innings. Cleveland edged Minnesota 7-6, and New York shutout Texas 3-0.

with Boston's Rick Wise, tossed a five-hitter to complete the Royals' sweep of Boston.

Two-run doubles, by Buck Martinez in the opener and John Mayberry in the second game, provided the punch. Mayberry's RBI gave him the league lead with 60.

Wise allowed just four Royals' hits in the second game. But he walked Amos Otis and George Brett in the sixth, let them advance on a double steal, and Mayberry drove them in.

Brooks Robinson had three hits, including a two-run fifth-inning homer, to lead Baltimore to its sixth straight victory. Wayne Garland, with relief help in the ninth from Dyer Miller, ran his record to 11-1.

Nolan Ryan, 7-11, struck out eight but walked six and gave up seven hits in seven innings. Second baseman Tim Johnson booted Brian Downing's two-out fourth-inning grounder, and that allowed Lamar Johnson and Bucky Dent to come to the plate for Chicago. Both hit RBI singles, Dent's scoring two runs, and Bart Johnson evened his record at 8-8.

Jerry Augustine, 2-7, was the victim of the error.

The White Sox also scored single runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

Rico Carty and Buddy Bell each hit two-run singles and helped Cleveland snap a fivegame losing streak. Carty's hit came in the third inning and Bell's was in the sixth, staking starter and winner Pat Dobson, 11-7, to a 4-0 advantage.

Ken Holtzman had a two-hitter for his second straight shutout as New York won its fourth straight and sixth in a row on the road.

Holtzman, 8-4, did not get a single strikeout, but he allowed only singles by Jeff Burroughs and Ray Howell. In his last start July 8, Holtzman blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0 on a seven hits.

Bert Blyleven, 6-12, was the loser.

Taiwan, Nigeria Pull Out Olympics Underway

MONTREAL (AP) — The Olympic Games, at last, have gone from the board rooms and council halls of the politicians and administrators to the stadia and pools and playing fields of the athletes.

Those athletes, 7,000 strong and representing 112 nations, inaugurated the Games of the XXI Olympiad today with the pomp, pageantry and parade of the traditional opening ceremony.

Missing from their ranks, however, were the teams of Taiwan and Nigeria, victims of the varied political crises that, as late as Thursday, threatened the very existence of the Games.

The Taiwanese withdrew after the International Olympic Committee voted overwhelmingly to change their official designation to "Taiwan" from "Republic of China," the name

Canada — with its strong economic ties to Communist China — refused to allow and the name the Taiwanese insisted they must have.

Nigeria withdrew in protest of New Zealand's participation. The tour of South Africa, excluded from the Olympic movement for its apartheid policies, by a New Zealand rugby team has angered other African nations and caused the boycott of the Games by Somalia, Mauritius and Tanzania.

The possibility exists that still others may follow.

The competition begins Sunday.

The United States, Russia, East and West Germany are expected to dominate that competition, which will be televised to more than 60 nations and about one billion viewers, one quarter of the world's population.

The early spotlight will center on swimming, where the American men and the East German women are heavily favored. The United States could, conceivably, win all 13 events.

The grace and beauty of gymnastics also is on show Sunday night with the tiny little Russian girl, Olga Korbut — who captured the hearts of the world in Munich — again ranked second to her teammate, Lyudmila Turishcheva.

Track and field begins Friday. It has been robbed of its premier attraction, potentially the highlight of the entire Games, the match-up of Filbert Bayi and John Walker of New Zealand in the 1,500 meters, the metric mile. Bayi, the world record holder in the event at 3:32.2, was lost to the Games when his country, Tanzania, decided not to compete. Walker holds the world record in the mile, 3:49.4.

A deadly serious American basketball team is seeking to regain the gold medal it lost for the first time in Munich four years ago. The U.S. plays Italy in its first game of the round-robin tournament.

The opening day of competition also features shooting, another sport in which Americans are expected to do well.

The Games, which end Aug. 1, have cost the Canadians $1.4 billion in construction and preparation costs. Montreal originally budgeted $445 million. Strikes, scandals and cost overruns ate up the rest of it.

And it isn't yet complete. The Olympic Stadium is finished only to a degree. Huge cranes still hang over the saucer-shaped facility that seats some 70,000.

Politics Cloud Olympics Two-China Question Heart Of Problems

By GEOFFREY MILLER

AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — Politics are expected to cloud the Olympic movement in the next few years and China will be at the heart of it all.

The day of the opening ceremony of the Montreal Games dawned, but politics would not go away. As Taiwan and Nigeria walked out and other African countries were reported ready to follow, Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, set the likely scene between now and the next Olympic Games in Moscow in 1980.

"In the next year or two the whole China question must be discussed with reality," Killanin said.

That means more politics. The IOC must decide: —Should Mainland China with its 800 millions be admitted to the Games, and on what terms?

—Will Taiwan continue to be recognized? Or will it be sacrificed to Peking, which says its athletes will never compete alongside those of the island fortress that calls itself the Republic of China?

China has stuck in the IOC's gullet for 20 years, ever since the refugee Chinese Nationalist Committee fled from the Communist mainland and settled Taiwan.

In the days of the late president Avery Brundage, the IOC made a brief and unsuccessful attempt to recognize the Chinese. Peking would not have it.

Last year the All-China Sports Federation applied to the IOC for recognition, demanding that Taiwan be kicked out. And the IOC indirectly to the Taiwan Republic in Montreal.

Canada, under pressure from Peking, refused entry Taiwanese athletes unless they dropped the name of the Republic of China. The IOC after bitter protests over Canada's attitude, pleaded with the Taiwanese to call themselves Taiwan. They walked out instead.

The change of name was proposed for the Montreal Games only. "The position of Taiwan is a status quo," Killanin said, meaning it is still recognized as the Republic of China.

The IOC is taking its time over Peking's application.

The row involving the Africans blew up because New Zealand sent a rugby team, tour segregationist South Africa.

Jean-Claude Ganga, secretary of the Supreme Council of Sport in Africa, handed a letter to the IOC demanding that New Zealand be kicked out of the games, and hinting that the team would withdraw if their demand was not met. Ganga said, however, that any such decision would have to be made by the various teams' individual governments at home and would be on a team-by-team basis.

Killanin, in a written reply, said rugby is not an Olympic sport and the New Zealand Olympic Committee has nothing to do with the rugby team.

Lance Cross, IOC member from New Zealand, said the IOC gave Killanin 100 per cent backing. That included the eight African members, Cross added.

But Nigeria's walkout was announced within two hours.

Error Helps Sox Topple Brewers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO (AP) — A two-out error opened the way for singles by Lamar Johnson and Bucky Dent, keying a three-run fourth inning, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2 Friday night.

Jerry Augustine, 2-7, was the victim of second-baseman Tim Johnson's boot which led to three unearned runs.

Winner Bart Johnson, 8-8, went 7-1/3 innings.

Wayne Nordhagen got his first big-league hit with one out in the fourth. Jorge Orta walked and after Kevin Bell popped up, Johnson bobbled Brian Downing's ground ball.

Lamar Johnson followed with a single that bounced off Augustine's shin, scoring Orta and Downing.

Augustine had to leave the game after the inning with a bruised leg.

The Brewers — who scored a run in the third on Tim Johnson's bunt single, a stolen base and a sacrifice fly — scored again on three straight singles in the fifth. The White Sox added single runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

In other American League games Friday, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Boston 5-1 and 2-1, Baltimore edged California 5-4, Detroit nipped Oakland 1-0 in 11 innings, Cleveland edged Minnesota 7-6, and New York shutout Texas 3-0.

Paul Splittorff, 10-6, hurled a three-hitter in the first game, and Al Fitzmorris, 11-5, who was locked in a pitching duel with Boston's Rick Wise, tossed a five-hitter to complete the Royals' sweep of Boston.

Two-run doubles, by Buck Martinez in the opener and John Mayberry in the second game, provided the punch. Mayberry's RBI gave him the league lead with 60.

Wise allowed just four Royals' hits in the second game. But he walked Amos Otis and George Brett in the sixth, let them advance on a double steal, and Mayberry drove them in.

Brooks Robinson had three hits, including a two-run fifth-inning homer, to lead Baltimore to its sixth straight victory. Wayne Garland, with relief help in the ninth from Dyer Miller, ran his record to 11-1.

Nolan Ryan, 7-11, struck out eight but walked six and gave up seven hits in seven innings.

Second baseman Tim Johnson booted Brian Downing's two-out fourth-inning grounder, and that allowed Lamar Johnson and Bucky Dent to come to the plate for Chicago. Both hit RBI singles, Dent's scoring two runs, and Bart Johnson evened his record at 8-8.

Jerry Augustine, 2-7, was the victim of the error.

The White Sox also score single runs in the fifth and seventh innings.

Rico Carthy and Buddy Bell each hit two-run singles and helped Cleveland snap a fivegame losing streak. Carthy hit home in the third inning and Bell's was in the sixth, staking starter and winner Pat Dobson 11-7, to a 4-0 advantage.

Ken Holtzman had a two-hitter for his second straight shutout as New York won its fourth straight and sixth in a row of the road.

Holtzman, 8-6, did not get a single strikeout, but he allowed only singles by Jeff Burroughs and Roy Howell. In his last start July 8, Holtzman blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0 on seven hits.

Bert Blyleven, 6-12, was the loser.

Blue Rally Tops Gold, 83-81

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Benton Harbor's Ray Thompson and Buchanan's Mike Busby played second fiddle to standout teammates much of last year's basketball season.

But Friday night the two rose to the front in the eighth annual Blue-Gold basketball game, kicking off Berrien County's Olympian Games.

Busby scored 24 points, pulled down 21 rebounds and blocked four shots to spark the Blue squad to an 83-81 victory. But Thompson put on a great show, moving and twisting his way to 26 points, while dishing out 13 assists and collecting six steals for the Gold team.

Busby had played in the shadow of All-Stater Ken Garrett at Buchanan, while Thompson was overshadowed by forward Russell Steele and center Bennie Bowers at Benton Harbor. But, deservingly so, the pair were selected as co-winners of the Greg Hefstrom Memorial Award which goes to the game's most valuable player.

Busby kept the Blue team in the game in the first half, scoring 18 of his points to keep his team within four at 40-36 at halftime. Then with the game on the line in the closing two minutes, the 6-6 Busby gave the Blue team the lead for good with two straight baskets. The two buckets gave the Blues an 80-77 lead, one which they never relinquished.

"His overall play was the big thing," Blue coach Keith Seahorn said of Busby. "He was strong on the boards, shot well and was on pretty much all night. And he was an unselfish player. He scored 18 points in the first half and I didn't even notice. He took the shot when he had it."

Benton Harbor forward Russell Steele was the only other Blue player in double figures with 21.

Thompson provided the Gold team with two different spurts, including one at the end of the game which nearly sent it into overtime.

With the Blue team holding a 23-22 edge, Thompson went to work early in the second quarter. Combining with Eau Claire's Jerry McAfee for a brilliant fast break, Thompson helped spark a 10-1 Gold spurt which gave them the biggest lead of the game at 32-24.

Just 5-9, Thompson scored 10 of his game-high total in the final period.

After the Blues had moved to a commanding 83-77 lead with less than a minute to play, Thompson keyed a full court press which the Golds nearly used to tie the game.

Thompson caused three straight Blue turnovers and scored after the first two. Down 83-81, the Gold team got off three shots in the final 30 seconds but was unable to find the range.

Thompson felt he had something to prove in the game.

"I had to prove that I was the man Benton Harbor needed all last season," Thompson said. "It was a big incentive. Everybody knew that I had been kicked off the team last year. But I had proven myself before and I did it again here."

Gold coach Don Childs was especially pleased with the way Thompson ran his team.

"Ray kept the team under control," Childs said. "He was a great quarterback. He also played real hard on his pressing defense and always kept a hand in his man's face."

Joining Thompson in double figures for the Gold team were Benton Harbor's Bennie Bowers with 17 and Eau Claire's Terry Adams with 11.

Neither team shot well with the Blues hitting 39 of 97 for 40 per cent and the Golds meshing just 35 of 83 for 42 per cent.

Graham Classic Leader

By Four Strokes

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Graham leads the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic by four strokes. But the slim-built Australian isn't exactly brimming with confidence.

Despite a 36-hole total of 11-under-par 131, the Aussie has been around too long to start spending that $60,000 first prize, just yet.

"We've got two more days, and we could have a complete reversal," cautioned the 30-year-old Graham, who now resides in Hollywood, Fla. Graham shot a three-under-par 68 Friday over the 8,603-yard Westchester course. He was the co-leader along with Carlton White after the first round.

"The closest to Graham as the rich tournament went under the national television cameras today were Mike Wynn and White, two relatively unknown pros, and veteran Larry Ziegler, winner this year of the New Orleans Open.

Wynn, who trailed White and Graham by one stroke after the opening round, shot par 71 Friday, while White, who like Wynn has never been close to winning, slipped from a first-round 63 to a one-over 72. And Ziegler continued his steady play with a 67 to go with his opening 68. They were at seven-under 135.

Then, came Andy North, Tom Watson and Arnold Palmer at 138. North carded a 67, Watson 72 and Palmer added a 67 to his 69, his first consecutive rounds in the 60s since the Hawaiian Open last January.

Despite the host of sub-par rounds on the first two days of the tournament, Jack Nicklaus barely made the cut to 84 players for the final 36 holes. Nicklaus shot a two-over 73, and with his first round 70 just survived the cut at 143.

Graham is 43rd on the tour money list with $41,758. His best finishes are a tie for fifth in the Crosby and ninth in the Tournament Players Championship. Twice he failed to make the cut, at Memphis and in the U.S. Open. Graham has but one victory on the tour, at Cleveland, since he joined in 1971. He has won tournaments in France, Japan, Thailand and Venezuela, and also teamed with Bruce Devlin in 1971 to win the World Cup for Australia.

Also still in contention at 137 are Miller Barber, Mike Hill, Ben Crenshaw, third leading money winner and a double vic-

Withdraws Car

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — A.J. Foyt was furious Friday, despite turning in the second fastest practice time Friday in preparation for the Norton Twin 200 auto races at Michigan International Speedway.

Foyt turned an unofficial lap of 193 miles an hour, but he was so angered by a sudden engine problem that he refused to appear for the drawing for today's qualifying, saying he was withdrawing the car.

Only one car, Gordon Johncock's Sinmast-Goodyear, turned in a faster time than Foyt's Coyote during the practice for championship cars.

"There are a lot of little slivers of metal of metal in the oil," said Jim Gilmore, owner of Foyt's car, after the problems developed.

"It looks like shavings from a lathe or something. It's not the kind of metal you usually get with a blown engine," Gilmore said. "We just don't know what it is. The crew will have to just keep working on it until we find out what it is."

A track representative drew the No. 6 qualifying position for Foyt. Championship qualifying started this morning, with the stock car portion getting underway later in the afternoon.

If Foyt does withdraw his car, it will leave only three drivers in both ends of Sunday's races. Janet Guthrie, Roger McCluskey and Tom Sneva and Foyt are the only drivers entered in both the championship and stock car races.

Foyt won the championship car portion of the Twin 200 last summer and Terry Ryan won the stock car race after Butch Hartman was disqualified.

In Friday's qualifying, Johncock's turned in a lap of 194.07. Foyt and Al Unser each had official laps of 191.591 and Wally Dallenbach had a lap of 191.184. No one else was over 190.

Fidrych Blanks Oakland

By LARRY PALADINO

DETROIT (AP) — When will it end? Or will it ever?

Mark "Bird" Fidrych just won't stop pitching brilliant baseball.

And the "Birdmania" that has swept Detroit and elsewhere since the 21-year-old rookie right-hander became a Tiger starter doesn't seem about to diminish — despite his loss Tuesday in the All-Star game.

Fidrych dropped his earned-run average to 1.61, gained his second shutout and raised his record to 10-2 Friday night when Willie Horton singled in a run in the bottom of the 11th inning to give Detroit a 1-0 triumph over Oakland.

"The Bird" went all the way for the 11th time in 12 starts, surviving a brilliant duel with Mike Torrez, then Rolie Fingers, who relieved when righthander Torrez was hit in the upper right arm by a Ron LeFlore single in the ninth.

"That was better than any World Series game," said A's Manager Chuck Tanner.

The Tigers — who have reached the halfway point in their 162-game schedule with a 40-41 record — have won their last three games in extra innings. The last two have been by one run in 11 innings to the A's.

Detroit lost its first three extra-inning contests this season and has won all seven since.

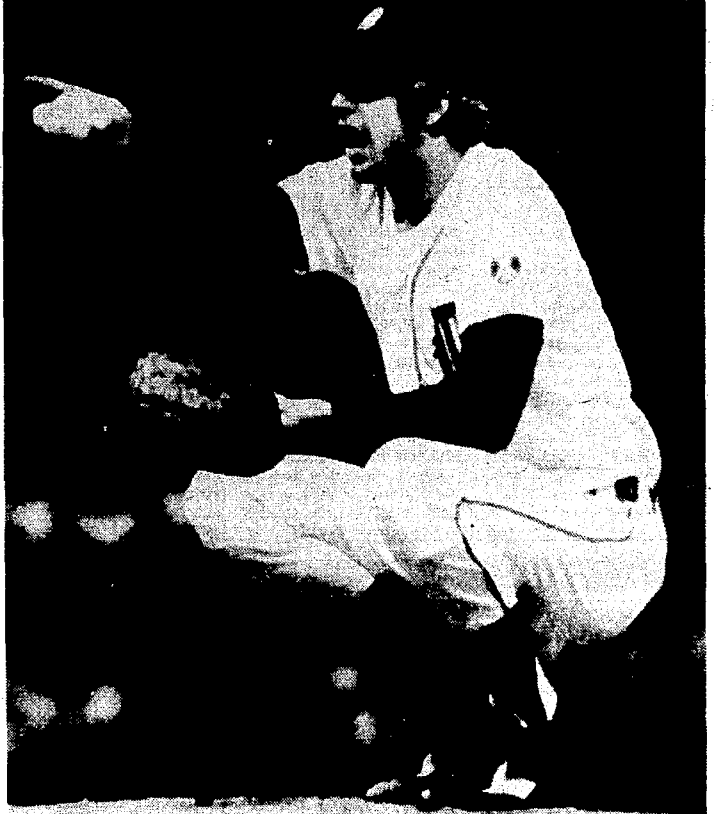

It's Vern Riffe's turn tonight to try to extend the Tigers' winning ways when the sophomore right-hander, who is 5-5, is scheduled to pitch against Oakland's Mike Norris, 2-2.

Friday's crowd of 45,905 once again refused to leave the park until Fidrych came out of the dugout to acknowledge their "We want Bird" cheers. The turnout raised attendance at the last four Fidrych-pitched home games to 196,000. As in the others, Bird did not disappoint them — although he was a 1-0 victim to Kansas City the last previous time out.

Detroit mounted a rally in the 11th Friday against identical to one in the ninth. LeFlore opened with an infield single, Tom Verzyer sacrificed him to second and Rusty Staub was walked intentionally — all just as in the ninth. But instead of popping out, designated hitter Horton singled between third and shortstop to score LeFlore.

"I'm just happy to be back with the guys. We're one big happy family," said Horton, who returned to the lineup Thursday after being on the disabled list for nearly six weeks.

"Willie's gonna hit or not hit," Houk said. "He gets in hot streaks."

Cory Benford got the win in the first game, striking out eight and walking one in the three-hitter. Jim Wanlles was tagged with the loss.

Herb Ross and Mike Collier each singled home two runs in the fourth inning of the first game. St. Joe notched two more runs in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Collier helped the hitting cause with three singles and Ross smacked a single and triple.

Gary Meek was near perfect in the second game as he gave up just one hit and struck out 11 in five innings. St. Joe put the game away in the third inning as it sent 11 men to the plate, scoring six runs. Benford drove in two runs with a single and Paul Knuth doubled in another run.

St. Joe is now 12-1 while Dowagiac slips to 8-5 in the league.

To Take Hartford Race

HARTFORD — Bob Senecker dodged the crackups to win the feature race at the Hartford Motor Speedway's Bicentennial Race Friday night.

Randy Sweet was second in the big race, Ed Howe came in third, Bill Minch was fourth and Bob Sensiba finished fifth.

Earlier in the evening, Senecker had set a new track record on 19.06 seconds.

In the first 50-lap race Senecker came from last position to finish first while Sweet came in second and Ed Howe ended up third.

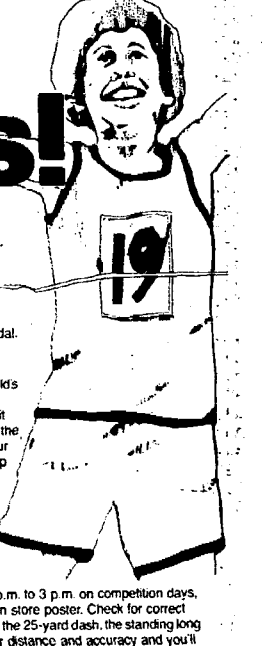

The second 50-lap race for cars qualifying in the even position saw Joe Buttman of Dearborn Heights finish first and Tom Marks second.

The next race at Hartford will be Friday, July 23 with a split show of late model and semi-late model stock cars.

Basketball Stars

Blue Rally Tops Gold, 83-81

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Benton Harbor's Ray Thompson and Buchanan's Mike Busby played second fiddle to standout teammates much of last year's basketball season.

But Friday night the two rose to the front in the eighth annual Blue-Gold basketball game, kicking off Berrien County's Olympian Games.

Busby scored 24 points, pulled down 21 rebounds and blocked four shots to spark the Blue squad to an 83-81 victory. But Thompson put on a great show, moving and twisting his way to 26 points, while dishing out 13 assists and collecting six steals for the Gold team.

Busby had played in the shadow of All-Stater Ken Garrett at Buchanan, while Thompson was overshadowed by forward Russell Steele and center Bennie Bowers at Benton Harbor. But, deservedly so, the pair were selected as co-winners of the Greg Hafstrom Memorial Award which goes to the game's most valuable player.

Busby kept the Blue team in the game in the first half, scoring 18 of his points to keep his team within four at 40-36 at halftime. Then with the game on the line in the closing two minutes, the 6-6 Busby gave the Blue team the lead for good with two straight baskets. The two buckets gave the Blues an 80-77 lead, one which they never relinquished.

"His overall play was the big thing," Blue coach Keith Seahorn said of Busby. "He was strong on the boards, shot well and was on pretty much all night. And he was an unselfish player. He scored 18 points in the first half and I didn't even notice. He took the shot when he had it."

Benton Harbor forward Russell Steele was the only other Blue player in double figures with 21.

Thompson provided the Gold team with two different spurts, including one at the end of the game which nearly sent it into overtime.

With the Blue team holding a 23-22 edge, Thompson went to work early in the second quarter. Combining with Eau Claire's Jerry McAfee for a brilliant fast break, Thompson helped spark a 10-1 Gold spurt which gave them the biggest lead of the game at 32-24.

Just 5-9, Thompson scored 10 of his game-high total in the final period.

After the Blues had moved to a commanding 83-77 lead with less than a minute to play, Thompson keyed a full court press which the Golds nearly used to tie the game.

Thompson caused three straight Blue turnovers and scored after the first two. Down 83-81, the Gold team got off three shots in the final 30 seconds but was unable to find the range.

Thompson felt he had something to prove in the game.

"I had to prove that I was the man Benton Harbor needed all last season," Thompson said. "It was a big incentive. Everybody knew that I had been kicked off the team last year. But I had proven myself before and I did it again here."

Gold coach Don Childs was especially pleased with the way Thompson ran his team.

"Ray kept the team under control," Childs said. "He was a great quarterback. He also played real hard on his pressing defense and always kept a hand in his man's face."

Joining Thompson in double figures for the Gold team were Benton Harbor's Bennie Bowers with 17 and Eau Claire's Terry Adams with 11.

Neither team shot well with the Blues hitting 39 of 97 for 40 per cent and the Golds meshing just 35 of 83 for 42 per cent.

Former Benton Harbor standouts John Hunt and Don Childs met in a one-on-one contest at halftime, with Hunt winning 20-16.

Graham Classic Leader

By Four Strokes

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Graham leads the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic by four strokes. But the slim-built Australian isn't exactly brimming with confidence.

Despite a 36-hole total of 11-under-par 131, the Aussie has been around too long to start spending that $60,000 first prize, just yet.

"We've got two more days, and we could have a complete reversal," cautioned the 30-year-old Graham, who now resides in Hollywood, Fla. Graham shot a three-under-par 68 Friday over the 6,603-yard Westchester course. He was the co-leader along with Carlton White after the first round.

The closest to Graham as the rich tournament went under the national television cameras today were Mike Wynn and White, two relatively unknown pros, and veteran Larry Ziegler, winner this year of the New Orleans Open.

Also still in contention at 137 are Miller Barber, Mike Hill, Ben Crenshaw, third leading money winner and a double victor this year, and Eddie Pearce. Crenshaw appeared headed for a fine round Friday when he had water problems at the eighth hole and wound up with a triple bogey. He still managed a three-under 68. Hubert Green, the tour's top money winner, and British Open Champion Johnny Miller were at four-under 138.

U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate missed the cut for the third straight week and Gary Player also failed to hand in. Each shot 144, a stroke too much.

'M' Tells Changes

ANN ARBOR — Michigan Athletic Director Don Canham has announced several changes on the Wolverine basketball schedule for the 1976-77 season, including three Sunday games which are expected to be televised nationally.

Michigan's game at South Carolina has been switched to Jan. 2, the Big Ten contest at Indiana has been moved back one day to Feb. 13 and a March 6 contest has been added with independent power Marquette in Ann Arbor.

In order to add Marquette to the schedule, Michigan cancelled its home appearance with Western Michigan, a meeting which will be rescheduled in the future. Also, the Wolverines' home game with Indiana, earlier announced for Jan. 2, will now be played Feb. 3.

U-M Sets Drill Opener

ANN ARBOR — Michigan begins preparations for its 97th season of intercollegiate football Aug. 24 when coach Bo Schembechler and 107 varsity candidates report for practice.

Michigan returns eight offensive starters, including running back Rob Lytle, who needs just 1,250 yards to become the Wolverines' all-time leading rusher. Only five 1975 regulars return on defense.

Michigan opens the season against Wisconsin Sept. 11, the first of five straight home games.

Sports Program Reduced

GRAND HAVEN — Money problems are again plaguing the Grand Haven school system.

Because a millage vote was defeated, Grand Haven has had to cancel many sports which are not self-supporting.

The only sports the Bucs will compete in are football, girls and boys basketball, girls and boys swimming, girls softball and cheerleading.

The Board of Education has given approval for citizens to try and raise monies to reinstate some of the cancelled programs but the funds must be on hand by Sept. 1, 1978.

Last year a similar problem was alleviated when a second millage vote was approved early in September.

Saints Cut Joe Gilliam

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Joe Gilliam, the talented but troubled quarterback who said five days ago he only wanted to play football, now may not get the chance.

Gilliam was cut by the New Orleans Saints Friday after a brief tryout marred by two long absences from practice.

The action leaves his pro football future in doubt since Gilliam was passed over by 14 National Football League teams last month when he was waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I don't know whether anybody will give me a second chance now," said Gilliam shortly after hearing the news.

"I don't have any hard feelings ... (but) I set the house on fire in practice and I'm waived the next day," he said, voice breaking during a telephone interview before leaving camp.

Head coach Hank Stram refused to discuss the specifics of the decision but Gilliam said he missed a mandatory breakfast Friday morning.

However, that may only have been the final straw. The former Tennessee State star was arrested near his alma mater in Nashville last month and charged with possession of cocaine and a weapon.

The arrest came three days after Stram, who says that in brighter days he once offered a first round draft pick for Gilliam, acquired him from the Steelers for the standard waiver price of $100.

Gilliam arrived early for training camp but borrowed a teammate's car on opening day and disappeared.

Four days later, when he returned, Stram said only that he was gone for "personal reasons" and fined him $1,000.

Gilliam said at the time that his wayward days were over, but he was stricken last week with what team spokesmen said was the flu and missed practice four days.

Stones 'Realistic' About Track Hopes Predicts Five Firsts For U.S.

MONTREAL (AP) —

Loquacious Dwight Stones says the United States men's track and field team will win only five individual events at the Summer Olympics and the world record holder in the high jump backs up his prediction with an event-by-event analysis. "I just don't think it's as strong a team as a lot of people think," he said. "I'm not being anti-American; I'm being realistic."

Even before he was settled into the Olympic Village, the 22-year-old who won the bronze medal in the 1972 Games at Munich set forth his track and field selections, which show he's a dedicated student of events other than his own.

In the 100, for example, he says Soviet Union ace Valeriy Borzov will successfully defend the title he won at Munich in 1972. "He's a machine," said Stones. "He has a PhD in running. He has approached it like a scientist."

Don Quarrie of Jamaica, the second fastest man in the history of the 200-meter dash, will win that event," says Stones. "Because there's nobody around with his speed. In fact, he could double. He could beat Borzov in the 100, too."

"The 400 will go to Cuba's tall, strong Alberto Juantorena because he's simply an animal," said Stones. "He's amazing."

In spite of the fact that U.S. team captain Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago is one of the favorites of the men's 800, Stones chooses Kenya's Mike Bolt to win the two-lap race. "Rick doesn't seem to have his old gallop in the 800, and he doesn't have the consistency for the 1,600," he said.

The 1,500 was to have been a classic matchup between Filbert Bayi of Tanzania and John Walker of New Zealand, but the race was scrubbed when Tanzania refused to compete in the Games because of a political dispute with New Zealand. Stones' pick in the 1,500 had been Bayi, "but now I guess it'll be Walker."

He chooses Rod Dixon of New Zealand to win the 5,000 "because he's so tough," and Brendan Foster of Great Britain to take the 10,000 because he's finally free of injuries, but he warns, "Watch out for Lasse Viren. He won both races in '72 and he could win both of them again."

In the steeplechase, Stones takes Bronislaw Malinowski of Poland because he feels Anders Garderud of Sweden "is a head case — always having psychic problems." Garderud is the world record holder.

In the 110-meter hurdles, Stones feels the winner will be France's Guy Drut because nobody in the world has his form. And he's still going with world record holder and defending champion John Akili-Bua of Uganda in the intermediate hurdles.

"But I'm not too sure about that," Stones said, "because Akili has been hurt. If he can't run up to his best, then I'd pick (Edwin) Moses." The latter won the U.S. trials in 48.36, an American record. Akili-Bua's world mark is 47.82.

Stones picks himself to win the high jump, the event in which he finished third for a bronze medal in 1972. "Everybody else is picking me, so why shouldn't I?"

His field event picks include Nenad Stelick of Yugoslavia in the long jump, Viktor Saneyev of the Soviet Union in the triple jump, Mac Wilkins in the discus and his U.S. teammate George Woods to take the shot put. "Stelick has jumped 27 1/2," said Stones, "and nobody else can go that far. Saneyev has won the last two triple jump golds in a row and he may be the world's greatest triple jumper ever."

"I wouldn't have picked Wilkins a few months ago, but he has just dominated the event and he hasn't taken a dive. And Woods, well, I don't think he wants a trip of silver medals." Woods was second in the event in 1968 and 1972.

And he takes 1972 champion Nikolay Avilov of the Soviet Union to win the decathlon again, and American Frank Shorter to win the marathon as he did in 1972.

'M' Tells Changes

ANN ARBOR — Michigan Athletic Director Don Canham has announced several changes on the Wolverine basketball schedule for the 1976-77 season, including three Sunday games which are expected to be televised nationally.

Michigan's game at South Carolina has been switched to Jan. 2, the Big Ten contest at Indiana has been moved back one day to Feb. 13 and a March 6 contest has been added with independent power Marquette in Ann Arbor.

In order to add Marquette to the schedule, Michigan cancelled its home appearance with Western Michigan, a meeting which will be rescheduled in the future. Also, the Wolverines' home game with Indiana, earlier announced for Jan. 2, will now be played Feb. 3.

MacDonald New Grand Valley AD

ALLENDALE, Mich. (AP) — George M. MacDonald, 52, was named today as athletic director at Grand Valley State College.

He succeeds Don Dufek, who resigned earlier this year to become athletic director at Kent State University.

MacDonald is chairman of Grand Valley's physical education and recreation department. He will retain that post while serving as the school's third athletic director since 1963.

MacDonald has been a high school and college coach in five sports ranging from cross country to football. Part of his record includes a 46-22 mark as basketball coach for Superior State College in S. Marie.

Before coming to G. Valley, MacDonald was professor of physical education chairman of the ath department at William Paterson College in Wayne, N.J. also has been interim ath director at Buffalo State University.

Swimmers Face Different Foes

MONTREAL (AP) — The American men will be fighting complacency and the American women will be fighting fear as the two halves of the United States' swimming team find themselves in different power positions at the 21st Olympic Games.

The swimming competition begins Sunday with heats and semifinals in the women's 100-meter freestyle, the men's 100-meter backstroke and heats and finals in the men's 200-meter butterfly and the women's 400-meter medley relay.

The American men are the dominating force with a good chance to do better than in 1972 when they won nine gold medals, seven in events swum by Mark Spitz. The women, however, find themselves in the position of the underdogs for the first time since the late 1950s.

The American men have six world record holders on the team, including Brian Goodell and John Henckens who each have a pair of world marks. The American women, who won eight gold medals at Munich, only have one world record holder, Shirley Babashoff, who will be competing in five individual events and two relays.

The East German women, who have never won an Olympic gold medal in swimming, could win nearly all of them this time. They hold world records in 12 of the 13 Olympic events and are led by super sprinter Kornelia Ender, who will be swimming in three individual events and two relays. Miss Ender is so versatile and good that she will not be competing in the backstroke, in which she held the world standard in the 100 meters earlier in the year.

The world records that survive this blitz by the American men and the East German women will be the exception, rather than the rule.

NEW TV SERIES ON BURNER Amsterdam Plots Return

By GREG MCGARRY
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Comedian Morey Amsterdam wrote jokes for Will Rogers at the age of 15 and is busy now, at age 61, plotting a return to television with actress Rose Marie.

"It'll be a continuation of the Dick Van Dyke Show but this one might take place in an ad agency," he said in a recent interview.

Amsterdam and Rose Marie, whom he has known since she was 14, became familiar to millions of Americans as Buddy and Sally, a pair of comedy writers on the "The Allen Brady Show," a television series within a television series, "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

Amsterdam says his new TV series is still in the planning stages, just one of many kettles on his stove.

This fall his "cook book for drunks" titled "Betty Cooker's Cookbook" will be published.

"I did this as a joke," he said. "Whenever I was in Europe I noticed that 90 per cent of the meals were made with some kind of booze in them so I got the idea and started collecting the different recipes. And you know what's funny, I don't even drink."

About 150 "drunk jokes" will be interspersed between the recipes.

Also to be published this fall will be Amsterdam's "Celebrity Diet Book", a collection of the favorite diets of top celebrities.

"I'd just finished my other book and I was sitting in my publisher's office and he said, 'Well, what do you have for us now?' Well, I said, 'What's a sure-fire book?' And he said 'Anything with the word diet in it,'" Amsterdam explained.

"Well, I thought, celebrities are always watching their weight. You've got to remember, on television you put on 20 pounds immediately. It's something about the medium."

So Amsterdam collected the diets of 125 celebrities, many of them friends, and packaged them for publication.

ed within two years.

Morey said it will trace his career from its start at 14, when he had his first taste of vaudeville. His older brother was a pianist on the vaudeville circuit. When a comic in the troupe fell ill, he asked Morey to fill in. Morey obliged.

"At 15 I was writing for Will Rogers," Morey continued proudly. "Later on, throughout the years, I wrote for all the great American comics — Bob Taylor, Milton Berle, Danny Thomas, Bob Hope and Red Skelton."

Morey said his first big break came when he was visiting a movie set with comedian Ted Healy, who was talking to him about how he had been asked to write a column for a newspaper.

"So while they were working,

MOREY AMSTERDAM
TV series plan

I wrote the column and he loved it. He was asked to do an MGM show and he said, 'I'll do it as long as you hire Morey Amsterdam as the writer.'"

Indians Cleared In FBI Slayings

By VIRGINIA TYSON
Associated Press Writer
CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Two American Indian Movement members acquitted of murder in the shooting deaths of two FBI agents remained in custody here today on previous convictions.

Robert Robideau, 29, Portland, Ore., and Darelle Butler, 33, Rogue River, Ore., were found innocent Friday in the fifth day of deliberations by a U.S. District Court jury.

Butler, when indicted for murder, was on trial in Pierre, S.D., on firearms possession charges after his arrest in a raid on South Dakota's Rosebud Indian Reservation.

When Robideau was indicted, he was being held at Wichita, Kan., after being convicted Dec. 11 of transporting illegal weapons and explosives from South Dakota into Kansas. He was sentenced to seven 10-year terms and two five-year terms, to run concurrently.

The trial was moved here because of crowded court dockets in South Dakota.

Some AIM members and sympathizers gathered in a secluded area outside Cedar Rapids late Friday to celebrate the acquittals.

Defense attorney William Kunstler told the song-singing group that the verdict was "a victory for the people, not just for Bob and Dene."

Prosecutor Evan Hultmann refused to comment.

The case stemmed from the deaths of FBI agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both of Los Angeles, on South Dakota's troubled Pine Ridge Indian Reservation on June 26, 1975.

The defense alleged during four weeks of testimony that a hostile and violent attitude enveloped the reservation because of FBI harassment, and that the killings were in self-defense.

Prosecutors contended the agents were shot from ambush while attempting to serve a fugitive warrant on another AIM member.

The jury of eight men and four women sent two notes to Judge Edward McManus on Thursday, saying it was "hopelessly deadlocked."

McManus told jurors to redouble their efforts.

Jury foreman Robert Bolin said the panel "never believed Robideau or Butler actually killed anyone. We never believed they actually pulled the trigger."

He said testimony by FBI director Clarence Kelley and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, was not discussed.

Kelley and Church were subpoenaed by the defense. Kelley testified, under threat of contempt of court, that the FBI did not consider AIM a subversive or terrorist organization and that AIM wasn't targeted for FBI surveillance.

Four Western Powers Won't Help Red Italy, Schmidt Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt says the United States and three key Western nations have agreed not to extend economic aid to Italy if Communists are included in the Italian Cabinet.

He said Friday that aid to Italy was the main issue at last month's western economic summit conference in Puerto Rico, although the subject was not discussed in the presence of Italian Prime Minister Aldo

Moro.

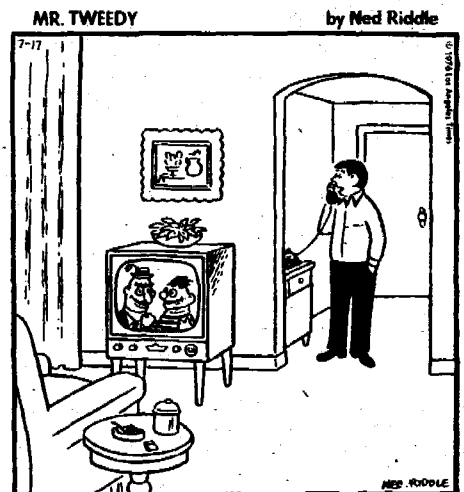

The West German leader was traveling to Philadelphia today.

During Schmidt's two-day stay in Washington, the two countries reportedly decided not to extend an agreement under which West Germany, through purchases of U.S. military equipment, offset the cost to the United States of stationing troops in West Germany.

West German sources said the two countries will make a formal announcement today.

Meeting with reporters Friday, Schmidt disclosed that the United States, West Germany, France and Great Britain have agreed that they would not participate in a loan rescue operation for Italy if a Communist is included in the new Italian cabinet.

U.S. officials would not comment, but the Washington Post said it has confirmed that the United States' position is substantially as outlined by Schmidt.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday, July 17, the 199th day of 1976. There are 167 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, the Spanish Civil War began as Gen. Francisco Franco led army forces in a revolt against Spain's government.

On this date:

In 1821, Spain ceded Florida to the United States.

In 1898, during the Spanish-American War, the Spaniards surrendered to the Americans at Santiago, Cuba.

In 1917, during World War I, the British royal family changed its name from Hanover to Windsor.

In 1955, Arco, Idaho, became the first community in the world to receive all its light power from atomic energy.

In 1958, British paratroopers landed in Jordan at the request of King Hussein as he attempted to keep order.

In 1965, U.S. B52 bombers from Guam made their first strikes in Vietnam in support of Allied ground operations.

In 1970, the Norwegian cruise ship "Fulvia" was swept by fire half way between the Canary Islands and Madeira, and a French liner rescued all 719 passengers and crew members.

Ten years ago: Calm was restored after a night of violence in a Black section in San Francisco's Fillmore district.

Five years ago: The army in Jordan was making steady gains in an offensive against Palestinian guerrillas.

One year ago: U.S. astronauts and Soviet cosmonauts in the Apollo and Soyuz spacecraft linked up while in orbit and joined hands, symbolizing a desire by the two nations to cooperate in space exploration.

Today's birthday: Actor James Cagney is 72 years old.

Thought for today: The secret of success in life is for a man to be ready for his opportunity when it comes. — Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister, 1804-1881.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Maj. Joseph Hawley wrote from Northampton, Mass., to Elbridge Gerry at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia and advocated death for all Tories. The major asked: "Can we subsist — did any State ever subsist — without exterminating traitors?"

NEW TV SERIES ON BURNER Amsterdam Plots Return

By GREG MCGARRY
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Comedian Morey Amsterdam wrote jokes for Will Rogers at the age of 15 and is busy now, at age 61, plotting a return to television with actress Rose Marie.

"It'll be a continuation of the Dick Van Dyke Show but this one might take place in an ad agency," he said in a recent interview.

Amsterdam and Rose Marie, whom he has known since she was 14, became familiar to millions of Americans as Buddy and Sally, a pair of comedy writers on the "The Allen Brady Show," a television series within a television series, "The Dick Van Dyke Show". Amsterdam says his new TV series is still in the planning stages, just one of many kettles on his stove.

This fall his "cook book for drunks" titled "Betty Cooker's Crock Book" will be published. "I did this as a joke," he said. "Whenever I was in Europe I noticed that 90 per cent of the meals were made with some kind of booze in them so I got the idea and started collecting the different recipes. And you know what's funny, I don't even drink."

About 150 "drunk jokes" will be interspersed between the recipes.

Also to be published this fall will be Amsterdam's "Celebrity Diet Book", a collection of the favorite diets of top celebrities.

"I'd just finished my other book and I was sitting in my publisher's office and he said, 'Well, what do you have for us now?' Well, I said, 'What's a sure-fire book?' And he said 'Anything with the word diet in it,'" Amsterdam explained.

"Well, I thought, celebrities are always watching their weight. You've got to remember, on television you put on 20 pounds immediately. It's something about the medium."

So Amsterdam collected the diets of 125 celebrities, many of them friends, and packaged them for publication.

ed within two years.

Morey said it will trace his career from its start at 14, when he had his first taste of vaudeville. His older brother was a pianist on the vaudeville circuit. When a comic in the troupe fell ill, he asked Morey to fill in. Morey obliged.

"At 15 I was writing for Will Rogers," Morey continued proudly. "Later on, throughout the years, I wrote for all the great American comics — Bob Taylor, Milton Berle, Danny Thomas, Bob Hope and Red Skelton."

Morey said his first big break came when he was visiting a movie set with comedian Ted Healey, who was talking to him about how he had been asked to write a column for a newspaper.

"So while they were working,

MOREY AMSTERDAM

I wrote the column and he loved it. He was asked to do an MGM show and he said, 'I'll do it as long as you hire Morey Amsterdam as the writer.'"

Indians Cleared In FBI Slayings

By VIRGINIA TYSON
Associated Press Writer

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Two American Indian Movement members acquitted of murder in the shooting deaths of two FBI agents remained in custody here today on previous convictions.

Robert Robideau, 29, Portland, Ore., and Darelle Butler, 33, Rogue River, Ore., were found innocent Friday in the fifth day of deliberations by a U.S. District Court jury.

Butler, when indicted for murder, was on trial in Pierre, S.D., on firearms possession charges after his arrest in a raid on South Dakota's Rosebud Indian Reservation.

When Robideau was indicted, he was being held at Wichita, Kan., after being convicted Dec. 11 of transporting illegal weapons and explosives from South Dakota into Kansas. He was sentenced to seven 10-year terms and two five-year terms, to run concurrently.

The trial was moved here because of crowded court dockets in South Dakota.

Some AIM members and sympathizers gathered in a secluded area outside Cedar Rapids late Friday to celebrate the acquittals.

Defense attorney William Kunstler told the song-singing group that the verdict was "a victory for the people, not just for Bob and Dena."

Prosecutor Evan Hultmann refused to comment.

The case stemmed from the deaths of FBI agents Jack Coler and Ronald Williams, both of Los Angeles, on South Dakota's troubled Pine Ridge Indian Reservation on June 26, 1975.

The defense alleged during four weeks of testimony that a hostile and violent attitude enveloped the reservation because of FBI harassment, and that the killings were in self-defense.

Prosecutors contended the agents were shot from ambush while attempting to serve a fugitive warrant on another AIM member.

The jury of eight men and four women sent two notes to Judge Edward McManus on Thursday, saying it was "hopelessly deadlocked." McManus told jurors to redouble their efforts.

Jury foreman Robert Bolin said the panel "never believed Robideau or Butler actually killed anyone. We never believed they actually pulled the trigger."

He said testimony by FBI director Clarence Kelley and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, was not discussed.

Kelley and Church were subpoenaed by the defense. Kelley testified, under threat of contempt of court, that the FBI did not consider AIM a subversive or terrorist organization and that AIM wasn't targeted for FBI surveillance.

Four Western Powers Won't Help Red Italy, Schmidt Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt says the United States and three key Western nations have agreed not to extend economic aid to Italy if Communists are included in the Italian Cabinet.

He said Friday that aid to Italy was the main issue at last month's western economic summit conference in Puerto Rico, although the subject was not discussed in the presence of Italian Prime Minister Aldo

Moro.

The West German leader was traveling to Philadelphia today.

During Schmidt's two-day stay in Washington, the two countries reportedly decided not to extend an agreement under which West Germany, through purchases of U.S. military equipment, offset the cost to the United States of stationing troops in West Germany.

West German sources said the two countries will make a formal announcement today.

Meeting with reporters Friday, Schmidt disclosed that the United States, West Germany, France and Great Britain have agreed that they would not participate in a loan rescue operation for Italy if a Communist is included in the new Italian cabinet.

U.S. officials would not comment, but the Washington Post said it has confirmed that the United States' position is substantially as outlined by Schmidt.

Schmidt said the four-power position against aid to an Italian government that includes Communists "is a political condition" of any international loan effort. The Italian economy is beset with high inflation and a drop in the value of the lira.

Schmidt gained American backing for an antiterrorist initiative after extensive talks Thursday and Friday with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Under the plan, the U.N. General Assembly would be asked to approve a convention to deter terrorist acts involving the taking of hostages.

Kissinger confirmed the United States supports the proposal but said further discussions on it will be held with West German authorities.

The German government initially sought a convention dealing with general acts of terrorism but decided to focus on those involving hostages in hopes of winning broader international backing.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, July 17, the 199th day of 1976. There are 167 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, the Spanish Civil War began as Gen. Francisco Franco led army forces in a revolt against Spain's government.

On this date:

In 1821, Spain ceded Florida to the United States.

In 1898, during the Spanish-American War, the Spaniards surrendered to the Americans at Santiago, Cuba.

In 1917, during World War I, the British royal family changed its name from Hanover to Windsor.

In 1955, Arco, Idaho, became the first community in the world to receive all its light power from atomic energy.

In 1958, British paratroopers landed in Jordan at the request of King Hussein as he attempted to keep order.

In 1965, U.S. B52 bombers from Guam made their first strikes in Vietnam in support of Allied ground operations.

In 1970, the Norwegian cruise ship "Fulvia" was swept by fire half way between the Canary Islands and Madeira, and a French liner rescued all 719 passengers and crew members.

Ten years ago: Calm was restored after a night of violence in a Black section in San Francisco's Fillmore district.

Five years ago: The army in Jordan was making steady gains in an offensive against Palestinian guerrillas.

One year ago: U.S. astronauts and Soviet cosmonauts in the Apollo and Soyuz spacecraft linked up while in orbit and joined hands, symbolizing a desire by the two nations to cooperate in space exploration.

Today's birthday: Actor James Cagney is 72 years old.

Thought for today: The secret of success in life is for a man to be ready for his opportunity when it comes. — Benjamin Disraeli, British prime minister, 1804-1881.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Maj. Joseph Hawley wrote from Northampton, Mass., to Elbridge Gerry at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia and advocated death for all Tories. The major asked: "Can we subside — did any State ever subside — without exterminating traitors?"

Dean Martin
Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Dean Martin has filed suit for divorce from his third wife, Catherine Martin. In a Superior Court suit filed Friday by attorney Arthur Manella, Martin, 59, asks that his wife be given custody of their child, Sasha, and that he pay child support but no alimony. He said the couple would divide their community property privately.

Bugging Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA has bugged and burglarized the homes or offices of certain Americans living abroad, according to Director George Bush. It is not known if the CIA is continuing such operations.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Natural Resources Commission will hold a public hearing next week on apparent pollution violations by the City of Detroit and surrounding metropolitan communities.

$113,000 Estate In Probate

Proceedings have been initiated in Berrien Probate court on the estimated $113,000 estate of William C. Skalla, of Niles, who died July 6.

Skalla's real estate holdings were estimated at $13,000 and personal property at $100,000. His 1975 will bequeaths that the entire estate be divided equally between his two sons, William and James, and two daughters, Frances Skalla and Lillian Holmes, all of Niles.

Suit Claims Firm Owes For Plums

A Berrien Center grower filed suit against the Coloma Cooperative Canning Co. yesterday seeking $2,097.20 alleged owed to him for plums he delivered last September.

The civil suit, filed in Berrien District court, states that Deniz A. Ferney, of Route 1, Berrien Center, has only been paid half of the amount owed to him by the cooperative.

The suit claims that Ferney delivered 52,430 pounds of Damson plums at an agreed-upon price of eight cents a pound. At that price, the grower should have been paid $4,194.40, the suit states. In December Ferney was paid half of the amount — $2,097.20 — but has received no further payment, he states in his complaint.

Woman Stabbed

NEW BUFFALO — A 19-year-old New Buffalo woman was listed in good condition this morning at Memorial hospital, Michigan City, Ind., after police here said she was stabbed five times in the chest in her home yesterday afternoon.

Police said Mrs. Shirley Johnson, of the Woodlawn apartments, 100 West Buffalo street, was baking a birthday cake for her two-year-old son, Jeremiah, when the stabbing occurred. Police said a man entered her apartment, stabbed her with a large meat fork, and then fled.

Officers said they have a suspect but have not made an arrest yet.

Struggle Leads To Wounding

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A 21-year-old Muskegon Heights man was hospitalized in critical condition Friday after being shot accidentally by a state trooper.

State Police said Arthur McMillan was shot in the back of the neck when he started struggling with trooper James Vliet after the trooper stopped McMillan's car.

Troopers said Vliet chased the McMillan auto into Grand Haven after it passed the trooper's squad car at high speed.

Authorities said witnesses reported Vliet's weapon accidentally discharged when McMillan began struggling with the trooper.

No charges were filed immediately in the incident and no one else was hurt. McMillan was taken to Muskegon's hospital.

BESS IN HOSPITAL

South Haven Hospital

SOUTH HAVEN — Patients admitted to South Haven Community hospital yesterday included Noelia Alvarado, Hartford; Mrs. Mae Blaha, Mrs. Malinda Cress, Robert Jordan, South Haven.

Worker Puts Out Plant Fire

Benton Harbor firemen credited Tom Curley, an employee of Michigan Standard Alloys, Inc., for averting a serious fire, after a gasoline pump caught fire at the plant on Arthur Mendel road about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Firemen said Curley saw flames and shut off electricity to the pump. Firemen said Curley then used a two-wheel, 70-pound extinguisher vehicle to douse the blaze, before firemen arrived. Curley did not receive any burns, it was reported.

Firemen said the blaze apparently began after the pump was struck by a vehicle truck or auto, although none was reported seen nearby.

In St. Joseph, firemen said employees using 19 hand extinguishers tried unsuccessfully to douse a stubborn blaze in a foundry molding room at Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., Graves street, about 1:47 a.m. today.

Firemen said they extinguished the blaze with a dry chemical and no structural damage resulted. There were no injuries, it was reported.

Firemen said the blaze apparently was started by a welding torch during maintenance work on a molding line.

American Express Sues Udall

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — The American Express Co. has filed suit in U.S. District Court in Alexandria to recover $124,170 it says Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., owes from the use of a charge card issued last October.

A Udall aide said the amount owed American Express is for purchases connected with Udall's unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Most of it, he said, is for hotel rooms and air transportation.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Virginia because Udall lives in McLean, Va. It says Udall's card was revoked April 26 after Udall failed to pay for most of the items charged during the previous six months.

Fred Palmer, an attorney for Udall's campaign, said Udall has a total of about $200,000 in debts and plans to pay it within six to eight weeks.

Palmer said Udall is due about $200,000 in matching funds from the Federal Election Commission on July 30.

Ronald J. Greenen, an attorney for American Express, said the company has a policy of not opening accounts in the name of campaign committees. He said the card was in Udall's name only.

POLICE ROUNDUP Man Charged With Forging Drug Order

A Dowagiac man was arrested Friday in a Fairplain plaza drug store, after a Benton Heights pharmacist notified police and area pharmacists that a man attempted to use an allegedly forged prescription for amphetamines.

Benton township police said Paul E. Ponder Jr., 22, of Box 155 92nd avenue, Route 2, Dowagiac, was arrested inside Muir's drug store, Fairplain plaza shortly after 3 p.m. Police said Ponder was booked on a charge of attempting to obtain a controlled substance with a forged prescription.

citizens band radio from an auto owned by Richard Anderson and parked at his home, 762 Colfax avenue.

Wallace Takes Some Of Credit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace says he deserves some of the credit for the nomination of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter as the Democratic presidential candidate.

Wallace said his own 1972 campaign, when he carried Michigan, proved "that there is no geographical bias among the people, just among the king makers." He said that made it possible for another southerner to win this year.

TIRED CAMPAIGNER: A tired Nancy Reagan, using the shoulder of presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan as a pillow, takes nap aboard campaign jet on the way from Harrisburg, Pa., to Salt Lake City Friday. Watergate is passe

Posters Hint Of Tranquil Times

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — For a clue to the temper of the times, elaborate polls and door-to-door surveys may be unnecessary. All you really have to do is see which posters are selling well.

For instance, say retailers in this university city, posters featuring Richard Nixon and anti-war slogans are gathering dust in back rooms, while those showing television personalities like Mary Hartman, J-J or The Forz are going like hotcakes.

"The sense is away from social involvement of the 1960s to idealized conceptions," says shop owner Alice Shankar, whose Pre-Print Mint is on the edge of the campus which led the way in student protests. "Today, people just want to sit and look at something pretty."

And former President Richard Nixon? Well, Watergate is passe, says Ben Friedman.

In fact, the only political poster that is selling now is one showing presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan, dressed as a cowboy, with drawn slushooter. "Thanks for the vote, sucker," the caption reads.

"They buy Reagan because they think he's funny," says Friedman.

Friedman says that when he opened his shop in 1963, he hung travel posters on the walls for decoration and they sold.

Rock posters that sold for $1 10 years ago now sell for $5 to $8. Friedman has several posters announcing a Beatles concert at Candlestick Park — and he's asking $30 for them.

Kids aren't buying posters celebrating the drug culture or for use with black lights anymore, either, says Harold Kramer, president of Celestial Arts in nearby Millbrae, one of the largest poster manufacturers during the volatile '60s.

He recently sold 50,000 copies of a poster showing a child with a plate of spaghetti dumped on his head. "Why Me?" it reads.

"A lot of people can't pay their bills, and their kids are in trouble," Kramer said. "Human growth posters have replaced protest posters."

Big sellers now include reproductions of masterpieces by Rembrandt, Renoir and Van Gogh, as well as tranquil scenes by turn-of-the-century artist Maxfield Parish.

"A poster can create a tremendous amount of emotional reaction," says Friedman. "Posters reflect the feelings of the times."

WRITER DIES: Paul Gallico, whose books included "The Poseidon Adventure" and "The Snow Goose," died Thursday at his home in Monte Carlo. He was 78. Gallico was a former top New York sports editor who turned to fiction 40 years ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Rip off the page. Get a hot iron. Put on a One-of-a-Kind T-shirt.

Instructions: 1. Cut out ONE OF A KIND transfer along the dotted line. 2. For best results, use permanent press materials which are predominantly polyester. The greater the percentage of polyester, from a minimum of 50% to a maximum of 100%, the better the transfer. (100% cotton materials do not hold color after repeated washings.) 3. Place a protective piece of cloth over ironing board to keep excess ink from staining ironing board cover. 4. Slip the T-shirt over the end of the ironing board so that the front (or back) is directly over the protective cloth on the board. 5. Place ONE OF A KIND transfer face down on the area of the T-shirt you wish to decorate. Place a clean sheet of paper directly over the transfer so that the entire inked surface is covered. 6. Apply dry hot iron (linen setting) with firm, even pressure over entire surface for 30 seconds. Do not rub. (Important: Allow iron to reach proper temperature (350°) or transfer will not work.) 7. Allow to cool for at least one minute before removing paper.

Laundering: No special laundering required. The colors will mellow with the first washing to a slightly faded look which will not wash out if you have followed instructions carefully. Wash and dry with other permanent press clothes, using the proper settings or temperatures. Do not use chlorine bleach on any permanent press materials. If properly applied and laundered, your T-shirt design will last through repeated machine washings and dryings.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GLEN CAMPBELL

Tell me about the private Glen Campbell, not the performer.—W.R., Medford, Ore.

- He's ordinary. Likes movies, not the R- or X-rated stuff. Likes clothes, but can't shake his roots; almost everything has a Western element. Doesn't like large parties, feels out of place in big groups. Eats everything, but he's partial to country and Southern cooking, such as black-eyed peas, hominy grits, corn bread, and he enjoys wine. Likes to play poker and gin rummy, to hunt and fish, to play golf. Still retains his childhood hero—John Wayne.

FOR PETER BENCHLEY

author of "Jaws" and "The Deep"
Did you dream of being an author when you were a teenager?—Carlos Broadnax, Somerset, N.J.

- I did start writing stories when I was a teenager, and my father, who was a writer, gave me lots of helpful advice and criticism. But it was many years before I managed to write anything worth publishing. In fact, I was over 30 before I felt confident enough to try a novel.

FOR GINGER ROGERS

I think you and Fred Astaire were the greatest dancing team of all time. How did you feel when you first met?—P.M., Parkersburg, W. Va.

- There was no sense of magic—or history—if that's what you mean. As far as I was concerned, all I was doing was starting a new film, which was my job. All that moment meant to me was meeting the actor with whom I was going to work. Something like two artists getting together to work on the same canvas! And I'll tell you a secret—he often stepped on my toes, and I on his.

FOR JOE NAMATH

Do you ever feel frustrated because you can't run with the ball?—Doug Kowalsky, Freehold, N.J.

- No. I don't feel that this is the day of the running quarterback, and if you will look at last year's statistics, you'll see that quite a few quarterbacks were injured while carrying the ball. A quarterback's job is to direct the offense, follow the game plan and improvise where necessary. This is a full-time job without trying to be a running back.

FOR DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK

Is it all right for a man to be in the delivery room when his wife gives birth?—Mrs. John Morton, Washington, D.C.

- Yes, but three conditions should be met. The wife must want her husband to be there. The husband must want to be there. And the obstetrician must have no objections to the husband's being there.

FOR PHYLLIS GEORGE

Doesn't a pretty girl like you feel out of place as a sports reporter?—Joan Blevins, Havelock, N.C.

- Not at all—I love it! How a person looks doesn't enter into how well you do your job. Ability and hard work are what count. I hope to become a really good sportscaster. But thanks for the "pretty face" compliment anyway.

FOR DEBBIE REYNOLDS

Does being born on April 1st bother you?—Linda Scott, Edison, N.J.

- No. Even though I'm always teased about it, I like the idea. Most of the April Fools I know (including my grandfather and Jane Powell) are fun, sensitive people with psychic qualities. And did you know that April Fools aren't superstitious? In fact, we make a point of walking under ladders, taking chances on Friday the 13th because we know we're immune and nothing will happen to us.

FOR DON STEWART, star of TV's "The Guiding Light"

Do you live up to your reputation as a swinger?—B.R., Sedalia, Mo.

- If I've got that title, I don't know why, because I'm the exact opposite. I don't smoke, drink or use pot. I don't go to bars. My dates are conservative. While I like to look at gorgeous women, I find they're so spoiled they don't make good companions. I'm bashful and scared to death of rejection. My "swinging" is no more than the theater or a movie, with dinner and good conversation.

FOR RONALD REAGAN

How do you feel about unconditional amnesty for draft dodgers?—L.F.G., Alden, N.Y.

- I'm against it. I believe that clemency should be considered on a case-by-case basis for those who return and who recognize that they have broken the law and are willing to make up their service.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Tell me about Louise Fletcher's family. All I know is that she spoke to them in sign language when she won her Academy Award.—A.G., Casper, Wyo.

- Louise's parents, Estelle and the Rev. Robert Fletcher (both 76) were not deaf from birth. Her father was 4 when he was struck by lightning and lost his hearing forever. He met Estelle Caldwell at a state school for the deaf. Although their voices are not distinct, they can speak—a result of years of strain and effort. Louise, 41, is one of four children. She and her brother and sisters—John 43, Roberta, 38, and Georgianna, 37—all have perfect speech and hearing. Louise was the quietest, and, because she was shy, her teachers assumed she was deaf, too. Every summer the Fletchers sent their children to relatives with whom they could communicate normally. John is a clergyman; Roberta teaches first grade and Georgianna is admissions director at Gallaudet College for the Deaf.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Tell me about Louise Fletcher's family. All I know is that she spoke to them in sign language when she won her Academy Award.—A.G., Casper, Wyo.

● Louise's parents, Estelle and the Rev. Robert Fletcher (both 76) were not deaf from birth. Her father was 4 when he was struck by lightning and lost his hearing forever. He met Estelle Caldwell at a state school for the deaf. Although their voices are not distinct, they can speak—a result of years of strain and effort. Louise, 41, is one of four children. She and her brother and sisters—John 43, Roberta, 38, and Georgianna, 37—all have perfect speech and hearing. Louise was the quietest, and, because she was shy, her teachers assumed she was deaf, too. Every summer the Fletchers sent their children to relatives with whom they could communicate normally. John is a clergyman; Roberta teaches first grade and Georgianna is admissions director at Gallaudet College for the Deaf.

You pick up your Chili Dog
And then you go to bite.
But where should you start it?

or from the right?

It's a very long sandwich and it's a little bit of a hassle.
That's why the Super Chili Dog

Top Cop Clarence Kelley Talks: Where the FBI Is Heading

By Max Gunther

FAMILY WEEKLY: Some people have complained recently that the FBI was turning into a kind of American Gestapo. For instance, agents infiltrated certain radical political groups—not groups of foreign spies, but groups of American citizens. You've been questioned a lot about this in Congress, haven't you?

CLARENCE KELLEY: Yes, and in the media, too. I said in Congress, and I'll say again to you, that mistakes of judgment have been made in the past. A few years ago, some agents did things that wouldn't be tolerated today. But be sure you understand the situation clearly. We're talking now about the 1960's. That was a tense and frightening period. We had riots, terrorist bombings, fiery speeches, a lot of fear and anger. The country seemed to be in danger, and agents simply did what they thought was needed to protect the country.

FW: Weren't there any guidelines to tell you what to do, how far to go?

KELLEY: That was a big part of the problem. The guidelines were obscure or nonexistent. Congress had never really told the FBI what to do in a situation like that, so all any agent could do was use his own judgment. Then, later, people came around and criticized him for judging wrong. That wasn't quite fair. The guidelines should have been laid down before the emergency, not after.

FW: Then you would welcome firmer and clearer guidelines in the future?

KELLEY: Absolutely. I would welcome overseeing by Congress, which means from the American people. I might say the guidelines are already growing firmer. Questions of what is and isn't proper are being answered more clearly by Congress and by the Attorney General.

FW: Has the FBI made any changes as a result?

KELLEY: Yes. For instance, we've reduced the number of domestic intelligence investigations by more than 60 percent since 1973.

FW: Are you afraid changes like these could weaken the FBI?

KELLEY: Not necessarily. It's true we have two needs that don't always fit together easily: the need to protect individual rights and the need to maintain national security. But I don't feel this is an uncompromising position.

FW: But all this "Gestapo" talk, the tremendous concern with civil rights and so on—won't it unavoidably put obstacles in the way of your doing your job?

KELLEY: There is certainly that danger. A blunderbuss approach to restricting our national security agencies could be ruinous. Our enemies abroad obviously Director Kelley, center, with daughter Mary and son Kent: Morale is "gratifyingly" high.

"In one statistical study in 1974, it turned out that a boy born that year in a poor urban area had a greater chance of dying by murder than a World War II American soldier had of dying in combat. To me, that's shocking."

hope something like this will happen. To them, our current obsession with public confession and exposure of national security activity is a sign of weakness. They find it ridiculous, but they like it. Unquestionably they hope to profit from it. If we lose our flexibility while they keep theirs, we will be at a terrible disadvantage.

FW: Has this loss of flexibility started to happen yet?

KELLEY: Only in one respect. The 1975 Federal Privacy Act and the Freedom of Information Act require us to open our files to Congressmen, the press and others with legitimate requests. In some ways, this has had good effects. It's in keeping with our growing distaste for unnecessary Government secrecy, and it makes agents keep material out of the files that needn't be there—careless remarks about people, material that isn't actually needed to prosecute a given case. But I'm worried because many of our informants are going to be scared that their names will be divulged.

FW: Who are these informants?

KELLEY: They're mainly private citizens who help us either out of patriotism or because they are fed up with crime. In the past, citizens could come forward with information and we could promise to keep their names secret. We don't know if we can promise that any more. As a result, useful information may be kept from us. Recently, for example, we were in touch with a businessman who was prepared to give us a lot of valuable help on a case. But when we couldn't guarantee to keep his name to ourselves, he backed out.

FW: So you think this new concern with democratic ideals and civil rights could be damaging to the FBI?

KELLEY: No, I only said it could be damaging in a blunderbuss approach. If we go at it carefully and seek reasonable balances, everything will turn out fine. As a matter of fact, though this isn't common knowledge, the FBI has long been a leader among law-enforcement agencies in protecting citizens' rights. Long before the famous Miranda court decision made it mandatory, FBI agents were carefully advising people of their rights during questioning. J. Edgar Hoover set up that rule in the days when I was a special agent. If we were going to question a suspect, we first told him he could have an attorney present if he wanted one, and we warned him that anything he said could be used against him in court.

FW: Let's turn to the question of crime. The FBI collects crime statistics from police departments all over the country, doesn't it?

KELLEY: Yes, and the statistics are quite alarming. The crime rate in America has increased by more than 16 percent in the past three years. In one statistical study in 1974, it turned out that a boy born that year in a poor urban area had a greater chance of dying by murder than a World War II American soldier had of dying in combat. To me, that's shocking.

FW: What is the FBI doing about it?

KELLEY: That isn't quite the right question. The question is, what is the public doing? Too often in recent years, people have acted as though the entire responsibility for preserving law and order rests with the police. The response to an increase in crime has been a call for more police, when what's needed is more support and cooperation from the public.

FW: In what ways?

KELLEY: Well, for one thing a greater willingness to "get involved." More willingness to report suspicious activities. Willingness to appear as a witness. These are obligations of any citizen who wants to live in safety.

FW: After all that shrill talk about "pigs" and "police brutality" in the 1960's, and after Watergate and all our other troubles, isn't there a lot of distrust of law-enforcement agencies?

KELLEY: Yes, but I feel the tide is turning. People today are sick of crime, sick of terrorist bombings. They want to walk in their own streets again without fear. We've been through a period of emphasis on the care and feeding of the criminal, but today we're finally turning back to caring about the victim.

FW: You feel there has been too much gentle treatment of criminals?

KELLEY: In some cases, yes. We've had this illusion that all habitual offenders can somehow be rehabilitated. Not all can be, and those who can't be should be incarcerated. I'm referring to certain kinds of psychopaths and other people so thoroughly enmeshed in a life of crime that there's no reasonable hope they'll ever change.

FW: It must be uncomfortable sometimes to be in the law-enforcement business in these distrustful times. How is morale in the FBI?

KELLEY: Gratifyingly high. It's true that some of our agents get badgered and questioned a lot by family members and friends. This is particularly true of the younger men and women. It's painful. But they stay on the job because they like it despite the harassment. Let me tell you something that makes me proud. I make it a point to congratulate people personally when they reach the end of 25 years in the FBI. You might think that would be a rare occurrence, but it isn't. Looking at my calendar for the coming week, I see I've got several of these talks scheduled every day, and on one day there are nine. That tells me a lot.

FW: So despite all the problems, the FBI is a going concern.

Festive Chicken Curry, Polynesian Style

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen gives a dinner party featuring a make-ahead Chicken Curry. "Chicken Curry makes a great summer party dish," says Marilyn. "It's light, zesty—and a break from everyday fare."

The combination of pineapple juice and curry gives this chicken an unusual sweet-sour taste.

MARILYN'S MENU
Polynesian Chicken Curry*
Curry Condiments
Oven-Steamed Rice*
Broccoli with Lemon
Dessert Coffee Tea

POLYNESIAN CHICKEN CURRY

- 3-4 large chicken breasts, split
- ¼-½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 2 cans (6-oz. size) unsweetened pineapple juice
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup catsup
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut in chunks
- 1 cup halved cherry tomatoes
- ½ cup salted cashews
- Oven-Steamed Rice (see recipe below)
- 6 strips crisp-cooked bacon, diced
- 1 cup chopped green onion
- 1 cup flaked coconut
- 1½ cups chutney

1. In large skillet, sauté chicken in butter until golden brown. Drain excess fat and reserve 1 tablespoon. Stir in curry powder.
2. Add 1¼ cups pineapple juice, honey, catsup, salt and garlic powder. Heat to boiling, cover, reduce heat and simmer for 25 to 30 minutes until chicken is tender.
3. Remove chicken to a heated serving platter and keep warm.
4. Combine cornstarch with remaining pineapple juice, and stir into pan juices until sauce boils and thickens.
5. Add green pepper, tomatoes and cashews. Heat throughout, then spoon sauce over chicken.
6. Serve with hot cooked rice. Pass bacon, green onion, coconut and chutney as accompaniments in separate bowls.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

OVEN-STEAMED RICE

- 1½ cups raw converted white rice
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- Dash pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3½ cups boiling water

1. Preheat oven to 350° F.
2. In a 1½-qt., ungreased casserole with tight-fitting lid, combine rice, salt and pepper. Dot top with butter.
3. Pour boiling water overall, stir to melt butter.
4. Cover and bake for 45 minutes (don't peek, don't stir). To serve, fluff up lightly with fork.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Little-Known Reasons Why Some People Live Longer

True or False? The higher you climb on the ladder of success, the more stresses and strains take their toll—and subtract from your life expectancy. (See No. 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Your body-age can have a much greater bearing on how long you're likely to live than your chronological age.
2. The higher you climb on the ladder of success, the more the accompanying stresses and strains take their toll—and subtract from your life expectancy.
3. As people grow older, those who remain settled in one place thrive better and live longer than those who pull up roots and move to a different community.
4. Cynics live longer than anybody—because of their negative outlook, they have few illusions about people and are spared the morale shattering disappointments that affect others.
5. The poorest insurance risk is the person who has a hazardous occupation and faces assorted perils every day.
6. There is an important rule to follow which will help you avoid the health-sapping ailments and afflictions that may threaten the length of your life.

ANSWERS

1. True. The Adult Growth Examination (AGE), a test of physical aging, is based on "norms derived from a carefully collected cross sample of 7,000 U.S. adults examined in a National Health Survey." Results of repeated testing show that physical aging proceeds at different rates for different people and that three of the most important indicators of body-age are your sight, hearing and blood pressure.
2. False. Extensive studies by a leading life insurance company show that, in business, the people who achieve the greatest success live longer than their less successful fellowmen. As to why this should be so, investigators conclude that "favorable longevity reflects physical and emotional fitness for positions of responsibility; many of those who attain high status are able to cope with and even thrive on stressful situations by harnessing tensions for productive use. It may well be that work satisfaction, together with public recognition of accomplishment, is an important determinant of health and longevity."
3. False—as indicated by the findings of a Washington University study, which compared mortality rates of hundreds of older community residents who pulled up roots and relocated with similarly aged residents who stayed put. Evidence does not suggest that the lives of older people are shortened by the stress of relocation. It's perhaps significant that the subjects of the study moved voluntarily. Had they been forced to transplant themselves, the effect might have been different.

4. False. Studies by a leading university show that one of the most important ways to increase longevity is "to maintain a positive view of life."

5. False. The worst insurance risk is the fellow whose most hazardous occupation is warming a well-padded desk chair eight hours a day—and who is accident prone. Driven by an unconscious need to punish himself for various guilt feelings, he unwittingly invites minor and major catastrophes by ignoring the laws of gravity, chance and swiftly moving vehicles. The chronically accident-prone person lives on borrowed time, knows it and isn't happy about it. All he needs to do to change his life expectancy from a minus to a plus is to alter his lifestyle sufficiently to reduce his guilt feelings from king-size to normal.

6. True. The rule is this: Don't let the stresses and pressures of everyday existence get you down. Do one of two things. Either avoid them or adjust to them. If you can't duck the punches life hands you, learn to roll with them. A wide-scale population survey, conducted by the Institute of Social Medicine at the University of Leiden (Netherlands), has demonstrated that "illnesses are the more or less automatic result of a failure to adjust to stress." Evidence indicated a very close relationship between the inability to cope with frustrations and disappointments and the onset of physical ailments, which ran the gamut from ulcers to heart disease.

Observations

Awakening? We're heartened by a recent Roper poll, showing that three out of four Americans now rate development of a sound national energy policy as one of the two greatest needs from Congress. It's right up there with tax reform, which is great news for those who believe the legislators will eventually heed the people. Because recognizing that a problem exists is just a step ahead of finding a solution.

Paper Tiger. Forty years ago, the Federal Register, which lists all the federal regulations, contained 2,619 pages. Last year it had 60,221, including this regulatory goodie on ladders from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration: "The angle (a) between the loaded and unloaded rails and the horizontal is to be calculated from the trigonometric equation:

$$\text{Sine } a = \frac{\text{Difference in deflection}}{\text{Ladder width"}}$$

Understand now?

Another voice. Professor M. A. Adelman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a frequent critic of the oil industry, writes in the Washington Post: "Congress should reject the proposals for disintegration of oil companies into separate entities for producing, refining, and marketing. 'Vertical divestiture' would be expensive. It would diminish competition at home. It would waste our chance to increase competition abroad. . . . [It] would keep Congress and the oil industry busy for years, spinning their wheels, going no place, postponing investment decisions, losing a chance for active defense against the cartel, admitting finally: 'I wasted time, and now doth time waste me.'"

"YOU WERE THE BIG MOUTH THAT WANTED OIL COMPANIES TO BE SMALLER"

Helping minority businessmen: 3,690 of them last year, to be exact. That's the special contribution of a unique non-profit agency, the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity. In Los Angeles, New York, St. Louis, Atlanta, Newark, Dallas and Waco, Tex., more than 600 volunteers from established corporations have helped black, Puerto Rican and other minority entrepreneurs with picking locations, bookkeeping, feasibility studies and obtaining financing. Typical success: a young man in New Jersey who dreamed of a business transporting handicapped children to their special schools today operates nearly 40 vehicles and employs some 60 persons. Many corporations help minority businesses by buying from them, by encouraging minority vendors to make their pitch to their purchasing agents. If you believe in a social role for private enterprise, you just have to like this program.

When Foods "Go Bad"...
The Dangers

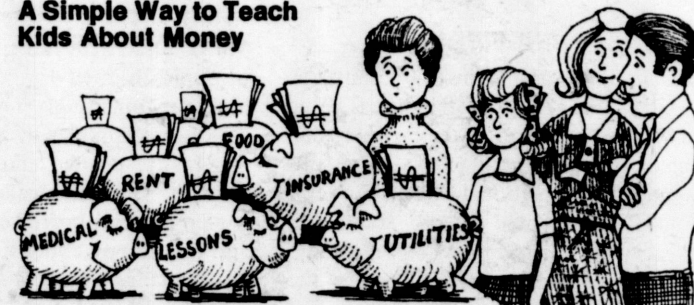

That Napoleon you take on a picnic this summer can be your Waterloo. So can puddings. Or creamed soups or gravies. Or mayonnaise. Or any other rich foods or products of dairy origin that tend to "go bad" in warm weather—including yogurt. The bacteria that cause food poisoning thrive in warm weather. Some cause mild symptoms you'll hardly notice; others really treat you rough. Botulism, for instance, is often fatal. The botulism germ grows best in the absence of air; so its source is improperly canned or jarred foods. The staph bug is less deadly, and the symptoms—nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and sometimes shock or loss of consciousness—last only 24 hours; but it's painful to the point that many a patient wishes he were dead. Although staph infection is self-limiting, it's a good idea to see the doctor anyway, because typhoid and paratyphoid start the same way. One clue differentiating them is that the whole family usually comes down with the staph food poisoning in one to eight hours, while typhoid takes a longer running start. How to avoid food poisoning? Be careful with that list of perishables noted earlier or with chicken or other salads made with mayonnaise. Keep them in a picnic cooler at 40 degrees until ready to eat. Be careful not to run out of ice. Special tip: Leafy vegetables can cause stomach flip-flops, too. Rinse all produce carefully. You'll be washing off insecticides, which are water-soluble, as well.

A Simple Way to Teach Kids About Money

To a youngster on an allowance, five dollars may seem like a lot of money—and his parents' weekly earnings may seem like a fortune. How can you explain to a child that money does not really go far? One family solved the problem this way: mother and father both cashed their weekly paychecks in the form of dollar bills and spread them out on the kitchen table. Predictably, their children were impressed by the sight of such "riches." But then, as the youngsters watched, the parents began sorting the bills into piles—so much for the week's food, so much for rent, another stack for the utility bills, another for payments on installment debts. Then they stacked up smaller piles of bills: for school lunches, for piano and dance lessons, for allowances and car fares. Another stack of dollars was earmarked for insurance premiums and medical bills. When a final packet was set aside for savings and emergencies, only four lonesome dollar bills were left unaccounted for on the table. From that sobering demonstration, the children learned the difference between financial appearances and financial realities!

Joanne Woodward "I Hit 40 and a Gong Went Off in My Head"

"When you realize your own mortality, you suddenly have a thirst for experience. . . . I don't want to read about someone else's experiences, I want my own."

By Robin Thrush

Associate Editor

I arrived at Joanne Woodward's midtown Manhattan apartment and was greeted by the actress herself. She was wearing a smashing red dress. She looks younger in person, especially since she acquired a new "Dorothy Hamill" haircut and shed a few pounds. There is an excitement in her speech and a sparkle in her perfectly beautiful eyes. Her 18 years of marriage to Paul Newman and her three children, girls aged 11 to 17, don't seem to have marred her soft, sensual looks—or her famous razor-sharp wit.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Why don't we see you in more films?

JOANNE WOODWARD: There is always something else equally interesting to do. So far this year, I've been involved with ballet companies. I did a poetry-jazz concert, and I went back to my high school in Greenville, S.C., and did a play with an amateur cast. I dreaded the whole idea of seeing people I hadn't seen in so many years, but it turned out to be marvelous fun. My old schoolmates weren't physically any different from the way I remember them, but it was as if I was meeting them all for the first time and we were instant friends.

FW: Could you have stayed in your home town longer than that one week?

JOANNE: I can't stay anywhere for very long. I don't like roots. I don't plan ahead. I do what I do when I do it. I hate to sense that my life is fixed and parceled out—which is not considered my most admirable quality by other people. My children, for instance, don't approve of my wanderlust ways. It's tough to be my child, according to my children!

FW: But you've lived in Westport, Conn., for some time now . . .

JOANNE: We've been there for four years, which is the longest we've been in the same place as a family. My 14-year-old claims the reason she can't multiply is that multiplication must have been taught while we were moving. I'd like to talk the children into moving into Manhattan for a year, but they're resisting so far. Where else can you live with an expensive French restaurant on one side of the street and a pornography shop on the other?

FW: Is it a luxury to be a famous actress married to perhaps the world's most popular actor?

JOANNE: I don't think it's a luxury to be famous or to have a famous husband or to have had three children before I realized I wasn't really equipped to be a good parent. For many years, I looked upon those aspects of my life as one enormous burden. The only luxury I can claim after 18 years of marriage to Paul is that we have the advantage of being very good friends. That's a greater advantage than any I can think of.

FW: How would your personal life have differed if you had been born a generation later?

JOANNE: I never would have gotten married or had children! [She threw her head back and laughed.]

FW: What caused you to feel that your family obligations were no longer a great burden?

JOANNE: I spent a good many years saying, "I want to be safe. I'm afraid. I don't dare try new things." I think getting older has a lot to do with the change in me. I hit 40 and a gong went off in my head. I realized that whatever I wanted in life, I'd better start trying to grab hold of. There was no longer any time to say, "Well, when I grow up . . ." or "Later on, when I'm better prepared . . ." because later on is now. When you realize your own mortality, you suddenly have a thirst for experience. It's suddenly time to stop intellectualizing, or to find out about things second-hand, and start living. I don't want to read about someone else's experiences. I want my own.

FW: How would you define the "new" Joanne Woodward?

JOANNE: More Joanne Woodward and less Mrs. Paul Newman. I'm more independent and more sure of myself. But I'm still a woman of extreme moods. I either have a lot of fun or I'm a raving manic depressive!

FW: Have you undergone any psychotherapy?

JOANNE: For many years with painfully few results. But est [Erhard Seminars Training] has helped me to like and understand myself better. Any of those self-help groups are beneficial because the more finely tuned you are, the better off you are. What really amazed me about these est group sessions were the reactions of the men there. We tend to think that it's only women who feel hysterical and unwanted, but as those men spoke of their feelings of rejection, insecurity, inability to perform as a husband and father or as a businessman, I realized that men suffer equally but for different reasons. But it's still not fashionable for them to talk openly about their frustrations, as it has been for women.

FW: Do you agree with your children that it's tough to be your child?

JOANNE: Despite all the homey things that have been written about me in women's magazines, quite frankly I don't think my children had any upbringing. I don't have any theories about child-rearing and I never did. But that's not necessarily a problem. I suspect if you asked any of my children, they'd say, "Mommy didn't bring us up. We brought ourselves up!" But there is a great deal of love between my daughters and me even though we may not always enjoy being around one another for long periods of time.

FW: What kind of upbringing did you have?

JOANNE: I lived in a series of small towns, from which I was always trying to escape. My father was a book salesman for various New York publishing houses. My mother was "well connected," in her own words. Of course, there wasn't any money in her family, but there had been 100 years before, so they considered themselves well-off. I've always regretted not playing the role of Maggie in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." With my upbringing, I was a natural to play that poor but poised Southern belle. I've always detested the idea that I was "well connected" or just plain "connected," which must explain why I'm always interested in picking up and moving on. But as much as we try to reject the past and not "play old tapes," as some smart psychoanalyst once observed, I'm as much a part of my upbringing as anybody else. After all, I had three children, and I had natural childbirth with two of them, thinking that it would make me a better mother.

FW: And has it?

JOANNE: Well, I remember having Nell, who's now 17, in the morning and then being awakened that night by the nurse saying, "Mrs. Newman, here's your baby. I've brought her for you to nurse." I woke up with a start. Even though I had read all the books, I didn't have the foggiest idea what to do. The baby sensed it, too. The worst thing about having natural childbirth that first time was finding out that I wasn't brave. Fortunately, Paul was away at the time making a film. But it was a big blow to my ego. I'd had this image of myself being beautiful and calm during the birth, but it was disastrous. Nell and I just cried in mutual confusion. I didn't have natural childbirth with my second girl, Lissy, but I did with my last, Clea, who is the calmest and smartest of the lot. From my experience, I'm convinced that a natural birth that goes well does determine in great part what kind of human being that baby grows up to be.

FW: Have you begun to accomplish all that you ever hoped to do outside your acting career?

JOANNE: Periodically I've wanted to pursue everything from archaeology to opera singing. I know that new interests will always emerge, so if I could wish for anything, it would be that life should be suspended to allow us to do and embrace everything possible. Sometimes I discover that I've missed the day entirely. But the passing of time doesn't worry me as much as it used to. I always thought that by the time I hit 35 everything would be downhill from there on in, but I've found out that once you reach that dreaded age, you can postpone your darkest fears. Look at my mother. She's 74, and by her definition you have to be over 76 to be old. That's not a bad philosophy.

Miss Woodward, who won an Academy Award in 1957 for "The Three Faces of Eve," will soon be seen in a special adaptation of "Sybil," the story of another multiple personality, on NBC-TV.

"The corrective exercise is so simple that one woman patient gave instructions over the telephone to a daughter who was not a patient —and it worked."

"The exercise is always safe. No matter how often you do it, you cannot overcorrect."

"Sometimes the results from correcting the sacroiliac are so instantaneous and sweeping that even I am surprised."

"It can be done sitting, standing, lying down, and it can be done by anybody. It is so wonderfully simple that few, until they try it, believe it can almost surely relieve their aching back and their sciatica."

"There is no strain or pressure, and there is little to remember in performing the exercise properly."

"I have never had a failure. Anyone can do it, and it always works."

"Just move about normally, with confidence—for now you have the faculty to slip your joint back whenever it goes out."

"I don't see any benefit in fusion or disk removal at any time.
 The corrective exercise, simple as it is, helps almost any functional back problem."

"As for his remaining drugs, I tapered these off, and at the end

WHAT OTHERS SAY

"Dr. Thompson's special corrective exercise to rebalance the sacroiliac joints is simpler and more effective than the older elaborate techniques. I want to thank Dr. Thompson for making this new volume available."

—Lester S. Blumenthal, M.D., F.A.C.P.

"On a recent business trip I threw my back out when leaning over to open a suitcase. Using Dr. Thompson's corrective exercise numerous times each day, I was back to normal within three days."

—Anne Francis, Motion Picture Actress

"I appreciate what Dr. Thompson did for my back. It is in good shape now and I have demonstrated the exercise to three members of our staff who have back problems. We will have everybody in that position around here very soon now."

—Hugh Lynn Cayce

"Dr. Thompson describes a simple but remarkably effective self back adjustment that he discovered. To me it is worth the price of the book alone many times over. Do I recommend it? You bet!"

—Clint Walker, Motion Picture Actor

Once again, this ingenious new medical exercise is so simple, it may actually be taught over the phone. Yet, patient after patient has said that, "repeating this sample exercise, I have no more problems with my sacroiliac". And it is merely the first step towards not only correcting back pain, wherever it occurs, but also slowing up the back-related aging processes listed on this page. Why not read the full details right now. And send for the book which gives all these self-corrections to you . . . to read from cover to cover . . .

 without your risking a penny.

 Back Trouble Grow Worse And Worse, Till
 It Destroys Your Entire Health! Or You Can Free Yourself From It With This
 One Simple Exercise, And Then Go On To Watch That New Back Health Produce Renewed Vigor Over Your Entire Body!

But this doctor goes on to warn you that if you allow this back pain to persist . . . if you allow this weakness to grow and grow till it chronically inflames the fibrous tissues surrounding your spine, and chronically curves that spine itself . . . or if you try to treat that back trouble with inappropriate measures (such as heat, prolonged rest, or especially unnecessary surgery)—then you may be literally weakening and incapacitating that body . . . adding years to the way you look and feel . . . and condemning yourself to an unnecessary "prison of pain" for as long as you live!

But . . . if you decide right now to take the care and rejuvenation of your spine into your own hands—and follow these simple, gentle, wonder-working exercises—then the growing health and vitality of that spine will radiate irresistibly outward . . . strengthening and rejuvenating, in turn, each of your vital organs from your hair to the soles of your feet!

Again, to use his own words:

"We don't have to get old at a certain age. Starting at age 45 or 50, I have seen men pitch into these exercises and in two or three years . . . exceed the activity of a young man of 25 or 30 years."

"I have seen severe bursitis cases completely cured after several months of gradually increasing exercises, the calcium disappearing through absorption."

"Many patients, after exercising, have a definite resurgence in "Patients, once subject to colds, will go for years, or forever, without suffering from this nuisance."

"In three weeks, he noted a hearing improvement. In three months he could hear the tick of his watch on the night table, a sound he hadn't heard for almost a year."

"Some patients with insomnia problems have reported that after a few weeks of exercises, they are able to drop off to sleep in the daytime, in resuscitating naps, for the first time in their lives."

"Some have lost as much as two inches around the waist . . ."

"Sometimes, the corrected patient gets an unlooked-for bonus—an increase in height of an inch or more."

"Within even minutes, some patients have reported relief from chronic gas spasms."

"After the sacroiliac joint is stabilized, they happily report they have all the energy in the world because they are breathing freely again."

"Our most dramatic success has come from migraine head-

How To Correct Your Own Back Troubles!

Yet this ingenious new medical exercise is so simple, it can actually be taught over the phone!

And once it drains back pain out of your body for good, then it may be combined with these simple "Preventative Exercises" to slow up all those agonizing, back-related aging processes—

INCLUDING: Chronic fatigue... headaches... colds... hardening of the arteries... stomach upset... stroke... sinus trouble... chronic gas... shortness of breath... migraines... loss of hearing... thinning hair... insomnia... stomach bloat... troubles with elimination... even sexual inadequacy!

All From A Simple, Gentle Series Of Back Exercises? ABSOLUTELY YES! Because The Health Of Your Spine And Back Determines The Health Of Your Entire Body, Like This...

This advertisement is addressed to every man and woman who now suffers from the agonizing—and now completely unnecessary—torment of back pain, however caused!

It makes no difference what you call this pain—"sciatica"... "sacroiliac"... "curvature"... "low back pain"... "calcaneal deposits"... even slipped discs... or "whiplash"! No matter what its cause, this agony can be treated by you yourself! Can be drained out of your body by you yourself! And can be replaced by glowing, pain-free good health—all by yourself, following the simple new revolutionary home treatment given you by one of the West Coast's foremost specialists in the almost-instant alleviation of back troubles, by the informed patient himself!

But Let Us Have This Noted Physician Speak For Himself! Hear What He Says, In His Own Words, About The Startling Results This Simple Adjustment Has Given Back Sufferers—in Thousands Of Cases!

For example—

"The corrective exercise is so simple that one woman patient gave instructions over the telephone to a daughter who was not a patient—and it worked."

"The exercise is always safe. No matter how often you do it, you cannot overcorrect. ... Sometimes the results from correcting the sacroiliac are so instantaneous and sweeping that even I am surprised."

A "borrowed" Cheney, still unreturned.

The "Presidential Shadow" Richard Cheney

Call his title what you may, "Presidential Shadow" would be a better word for it. Wherever President Gerald R. Ford goes, 35-year-old top aide Richard B. Cheney is sure to follow. It is Cheney who brings the President the good news and the bad. It was Cheney who first told Ford that he had lost his first primary—the one in North Carolina.

How does one deliver bad news to a President? And how does this particular President take bad news? "He handles it very well," says Cheney. "That's one of his great strengths. I have to be very straight with him. I don't pad bad news or soften it. I just tell him straight out."

When Cheney inherited the job of top assistant to the President, he reluctantly gave up driving himself to the White House in his little Volkswagen. He had to use a chauffeured staff car because of all the material he had to carry. When Cheney gets into the car, the driver has already brought along the Presidential news condensation, which is prepared for the Chief Executive each morning. The day of this interview, the news summary consisted of 17 pages of commentary and five pages of hard-news items. Also in the car for quick perusal are two newspapers—one Washington paper and "The New York Times."

From 7:10 to 8:00 a.m., Cheney is alone with the papers and his thoughts and no phone calls are put through except the President's calls. Cheney's first private meeting with the President is at 8:30, at which time they discuss policy papers, the scheduling of trips and the schedule of the day. As the President talks, Dick Cheney makes quick notes.

At 9 a.m. Cheney meets with his own staff—such men as David Gergen, his assistant, James Connor, staff secretary to the President, and Jerry Jones, who manages the President's schedule. At 9:15 he is likely to sit in on the President's meetings with such Cabinet officers as Henry Kissinger and Donald Rumsfeld. At 10:30 Cheney is again in the Oval Office with the President, this time going over such matters as Congressional relations and other problems.

Lunch is a sometime thing—usually a sandwich at his conference table, which has a splendid view of the White House lawns and people passing by. At the end of a busy afternoon, usually at 5:30, Cheney wraps up the day in the President's office. After that, he again has a meeting with his own staff—at about 6:30 or 7:00—to discuss the things he has learned and the problems of the next day. If he's lucky, he might make it home for dinner.

"I have to be very straight with the President. I don't pad bad news or soften it. I just tell him straight out."

Where Cheney will go after the White House is hard to predict. While speaking wistfully of getting back to the academic life, from which he came, Cheney adds, "I've never had a plan that worked out, so I don't plan. The future is too unpredictable. I used to ask myself what I wanted to do, but I no longer do. I started out to teach political science. Then a funny thing happened on the way to my degree, and here I am."

The funny thing that happened was that Cheney was "borrowed for 10 days" and never returned. That was in 1969, when Cheney, a University of Wyoming graduate student in political science, was gaining some practical experience on the staff of Rep. William Steiger of Wisconsin. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, who had just left the House to be Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, "borrowed" Cheney for just 10 days to help out; but he was so impressed with Cheney that he never returned Steiger's protégé. When Rumsfeld went to the White House as President Ford's chief aide, Cheney was the first man he called for.

What is Richard Cheney really like? It's hard for those around him to believe his modesty. And that goes for the President as well. So low key is Cheney that when President Ford wanted to give him cabinet status as Rumsfeld had had, Cheney determinedly talked him out of it. Cheney does not even want a new flashy car. "I've got my 11-year-old Volkswagen that's like a member of the family, and I'm going to stick with it until it dies."

Pong-ping, anyone?

Chasing the blues, Phyllis Diller style:

The comedienne has come up with these 22 ways to feel "up" when she's really "down," and she wishes us all luck in using them. Here they are: "I cook, play the piano, blow glass or call a friend who talks funny. I feed the birds or go out and look at a large body of water—preferably the Atlantic or Pacific. If that fails, a saucer of gin. Or I might sit down and paint, design a bridge, draw crazy pictures or think lovely thoughts. It's always good to start a new project—like a book or a fight. I've also learned the lyrics to songs. I might take a spin in my sports car, hoping the cop who sees me won't ask for my driver's license, which is so old it looks like needlepoint. I watch ants, talk to my dog, arrange flowers, play Ping-Pong or, if facing the sun, pong-ping. I take a walk or maybe shave my legs.

Will people ever really fly to work?

The gyrokopter, the invention of Danish mechanic Vincent Seremet, is a combination of helicopter and airplane parts. If this one-person transport passes the government tests it is presently undergoing in Scandinavia, it will be available at a cost of $4,000. But while many magnificent flying machines have been developed in recent years to relieve ground traffic congestion and provide speedier transportation, it seems doubtful that many of us will be using such exotic transportation to get to work in the next decade.

I have my chiropractor make a house call. He stands in his front yard and yells, 'House!' Lastly, I go buy a hat. I once told my neighbor, 'When I'm down in the dumps, I buy a hat.' She had the nerve to reply, 'I wondered where you got them.'

work. You allow certain pressures to invade your life. Even though literary critics deplore my work, I believe that the reader is just as important as the critic. Success rarely makes anyone lazy, particularly artistic people, because we feel we have a responsibility to our audience. I used to spend four months every year vacationing; I'm lucky if I spend four weeks any more, even though I could afford to financially. Sure, I have my freedom. I wake up every morning, and I don't have anybody to answer to. That's a great luxury, and I've never taken it for granted. But one always wants to be better than one is, so one keeps striving. I think you've got to be pretty rich, balanced and sophisticated to be concerned about freedom. Freedom is an intellectual notion that's not a priority. Most of us—even rich and successful people—are more concerned about surviving and holding on to our success." ## GARDEN PLOT

We have what's called a garden plot,
At times a plot that thickens.
To garden, I need Sherlock Holmes.
"Quick, Watson." Watson quickens.

Our garden plot has characters
To do the daring deeds.
The good guys are the grass and plants,
The bad guys—bugs and weeds.

Our garden plot is one that keeps Me always in suspense.
The only thing I know is this:
It's finished at the fence.

A man spotted a young woman futilely edging in and out of a tiny parking space. Ten minutes later, thanks to his directions, the car was neatly parked in the space.

"Thank you very much," the woman said, "but I was trying to get out."
—Dorothea Kent

Boss: "Jones, how long have you been working here?"

Jones: "Ever since I heard you coming down the hall!"

—Anne Dirkman

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

A friend of our son had his car stolen and stripped. Our 6-year-old granddaughter was telling us what the thieves had taken. Grandpa asked her if he had insurance. "Yes," she said, "and they took that too!" —Mrs. Dorothy Kenney, Redondo Beach, Calif.

PHYLLIS DILLER
Pong-ping, anyone?

Chasing the blues, Phyllis Diller style: The comedienne has come up with these 22 ways to feel "up" when she's really "down," and she wishes us all luck in using them. Here they are: "I cook, play the piano, blow glass or call a friend who talks funny. I feed the birds or go out and look at a large body of water—preferably the Atlantic or Pacific. If that fails, a saucer of gin. Or I might sit down and paint, design a bridge, draw crazy pictures or think lovely thoughts. It's always good to start a new project—like a book or a fight. I've also learned the lyrics to songs. I might take a spin in my sports car, hoping the cop who sees me won't ask for my driver's license, which is so old it looks like needlepoint. I watch ants, talk to my dog, arrange flowers, play Ping-Pong or, if facing the sun, pong-ping. I take a walk or maybe shave my legs.

By Frank Baginski

LITTLE EMILY

"Hey, gang, hurry up! This one's playing the A's and the Yankees!"

SERMET AND GYROKOPTER
He's the inventor

Will people ever really fly to work? The gyrocopter, the invention of Danish mechanic Vincent Sermet, is a combination of helicopter and airplane parts. If this one-person transport passes the government tests it is presently undergoing in Scandinavia, it will be available at a cost of $4,000. But while many magnificent flying machines have been developed in recent years to relieve ground traffic congestion and provide speedier transportation, it seems doubtful that many of us will be using such exotic transportation to get to work in the next decade.

I have my chiropractor make a house call. He stands in his front yard and yells, 'House!' Lastly, I go buy a hat. I once told my neighbor, 'When I'm down in the dumps, I buy a hat.' She had the nerve to reply, 'I wondered where you got them.'

Money and success don't buy freedom for "best-selling" author Irving Wallace:

The more successful I get, the harder I work. You allow certain pressures to invade your life. Even though literary critics deplore my work, I believe that the reader is just as important as the critic. Success rarely makes anyone lazy, particularly artistic people, because we feel we have a responsibility to our audience. I used to spend four months every year vacationing; I'm lucky if I spend four weeks any more, even though I could afford to financially. Sure, I have my freedom. I wake up every morning, and I don't have anybody to answer to. That's a great luxury, and I've never taken it for granted. But one always wants to be better than one is, so one keeps striving. I think you've got to be pretty rich, balanced and sophisticated to be concerned about freedom. Freedom is an intellectual notion that's not a priority. Most of us—even rich and successful people—are more concerned about surviving and holding on to our success." (Irving Wallace is one of the five most widely read authors of modern times; his books have sold over

Doctors Prove You Can Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieve Pain And Itch Too.

Gives prompt temporary relief from hemorrhoidal pain and itch in many cases.

Doctors have found a most effective medication that actually helps shrink painful swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by infection. In many cases, the first applications give prompt relief for hours from such pain and burning itching.

Tests by doctors on hundreds upon hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. The medication the doctors used was Preparation H®—the same Preparation H you can get without a prescription. Ointment or suppositories.

GET A $2,500 RAISE TOMORROW!"

By Paul Woodland-Smith

I'd like to tell you about a foolproof system for getting raises. A system that is so powerful I personally guarantee it'll get you the raise you want more than nine times out of ten.

Just look what it's done for me. Ten years ago I was stuck in a job that paid a lousy $85 a week. Today I earn over $110,000 a year. During that time I've had over 37 raises, bonuses, and stock offers. That averages out to 3.7 salary boosts a year!

Here's how you can do the same. I've turned my foolproof raise-getting system into a special executive report called HOW TO ASK FOR A RAISE AND GET IT. It's so easy to master you can put it to work for you the same day you get it. Simply walk into your boss' office, follow the simple program laid out for you in your report, and you'll get the raise you want as easy as that. There is simply no way your boss can refuse you.

HOW TO ASK FOR A RAISE AND GET IT is fully guaranteed. If you're unhappy with it in anyway (even if it's already helped you get a raise) just return it for a complete and immediate refund. It costs only $5. And it can help you get a raise 500 times that the very same day you receive it. Symphony Press, Dept. FW, PO Box 515, Tenafly, N.J. 07670.

SEE E

Our amazing new Projection Glasses are the complete year-round out-door glasses — to be worn in all kinds of weather, at all hours of day or night! They are 24-hour-a-day glasses — not sunglasses (although you will never wear a pair of sunglasses that will begin to compare with them)! Look through them, and for the first time you will see the world with more beauty, more clarity, depth and definition . . . from the moment you put them on!

Suddenly the scenery is so beautiful it defies description. These scientifically designed glasses seem to focus and sharpen the full beauty and magnitude of nature's work. Clouds have a new, three-dimensional quality. Distant mountains, rivers, lakes, trees and flowers emerge from a haze of light into sparkling definition and awesome clarity. Truly you have never seen the world the way it should look until you've looked through these Projection Glasses.

How They Work

The lenses of your Projection Glasses are made of a combination of amber and red formulated to painstakingly precise optical specifications. The resultant color is a unique orange-amber tint that is actually beneficial to your eyesight. The amber improves the vision, red eliminates glare, conserving the "visual purple" of the retina which is normally consumed by bright sunlight. Results: you can expect a 10% improvement in daytime vision . . . greater night-time vision . . . far better stereoscopic vision and greatly increased depth perception. Your ability to penetrate fog and haze is increased by 100%.

A Dramatic Breakthrough for Safety

Old-fashioned sun glasses reduce vision up to 10% or more, but Projection Glasses actually improve vision up to 10%! Yes, this 20% additional vision can help reduce the accident factor. And the Projection Glasses are ideal for driving in all kinds of weather, rain, fog, snow, etc. Your depth perception improves noticeably. You can judge distances better, you can see twice as far in fog and haze, reduce driving strain, the glare of oncoming lights suddenly becomes softened and not bothersome anymore. And even the scenery becomes more beautiful, clear and more colorful than you've ever seen it look before.

What You Can Expect Once You Put On New Projection Glasses

Golfers can play more easily on foggy or hazy days. It's easier to follow the flight of the ball, spot tendencies to hook or slice. Balls that end up in the rough are more readily located. You can locate pins at a greater distance, and the course will look fantastically more beautiful.

Fishermen can see more deeply into the water. Headache-producing glare off the water surface is practically eliminated. Fishing in bright sunlight becomes a pleasure. Dull, gloomy days evaporate into a new warmth and brightness. Skiers can forget blinding snow and glare from white surface. Snow and scenery will look more spectacular and you'll see more clearly and more safely.

Wear It Right Over Your Present Glasses

Now with our new improved clip on model you can wear the projection Glasses right over your present glasses. They are so light (they weigh less than one ounce) you'll never know you have them on. Furthermore lenses are shatterproof and may be worn as safety goggles in industrial plants.

Praise From Projection Glasses Users

"Recently I had the opportunity to try a pair of your Amber Mellowtone Glasses, and I like them very much. They were a comfortable fit over my regular glasses and they had exceptional definition."

T. M. June Lake, Calif.

"I have had great success with your Mellowtone glasses worn over my regular prescription glasses."

B. E. New Orleans, Louisiana

"I have used the set ever since and found them surprisingly effective in obtaining exceptionally clear, distinct vision in very bright, and very dull natural light."

"My father recently had problems with his eyes and the treatment prescribed makes it painful to drive at night with oncoming headlight beams."

"Although he wears glasses, I gave him the ones you sent and he wore them over his. He drove about 50 miles at night a week ago and he was elated over the results! He said he had no problems with lights even from drivers who did not dim, and there was no problem in seeing to drive."

J. B. Rockford, Ill.

"Several years ago I purchased a pair of your Mellowtone Goggles, and liked them better than any other I ever owned."

C. O. Garden Grove, Calif.

"I wish every flier could have a pair of these glasses. I used my precious first pair in July and believe me . . . they saved my life many times. They are simply great. They should be mandatory for all fliers."

B. H. Vacaville, Calif.
